REWARD FOR A HERO

Marin Yule Fire Loss: $65,000

Three major Marin County fires on Christmas Day wreaked damage estimated at $65,000.

As an aftermath of one of them, residents of Marinwood were seeking today to work out a system for faster coverage by trained firemen and the Marinwood fire chief was conferring with the fire department in Palo Alto on possible measures to increase fire resistance of Eichler homes.

LIVES SAVED

The lives of Major and his wife and their two children, Mark, 9, and Bobby, 7, may have been saved by the quick action of the houseboy, Randy Waa, 26, who was awakened at 3:30 a.m. and awoke the members of the family.

Another destroyed a five-room home on Chileno Valley Road belonging to County Supervisor Vera M. Schultz. The house, valued at $10,000, was occupied by Harold Frick. He reported personal property worth $2,000 was lost in the blaze.

The third Christmas fire did damage estimated at $13,000 to three business firms in the 1100 block of Magnolia Avenue in Larkspur: Gaye-Larks Restaurant, Decorative Draperies and Paint Pot Decorating Studio.

TO PALO ALTO

Marinwood Fire Chief Donald G. Ray went to Palo Alto today to confer with fire officials there on regulations for fire-retardant construction in Eichler-built homes. He said there and in San Mateo County, similar houses had been treated with materials which slowed the rate of cobustion.

Chief Ray said the blaze spread especially rapidly in the Major home because of use of quarter-inch plywood paneling, imported from Japan, which apparently is constructed with highly inflammable glue. Only sheetrock used in most of the Eichler homes, he said, is a fire wall between garage and living room.

Also speeding the blaze in such houses, Ray said, is the fact that many of the walls do not reach the ceiling, allowing a circulation of air throughout the structure so fire cannot be held to one room.

Ames took issue with Ray's contentions regarding Eichler homes. "Any wood home will burn just the same," he declared.

The residents at the meeting, he said, agreed that there is need for a speedier system of alerting volunteer firemen and for more paid firemen in the Marinwood department.

Neighbors were out with garden hoses attempting to quell the blaze for some time before the fire truck arrived, said Ames. "But there was no one to direct them," he added

"We have no quarrel with the volunteer firemen," said Ames. "But there is need for a faster system of alerting them. And we need more paid firemen—though how they are to be paid is something else." (The fire department is operated by the Marinwood Community Services District.)

The story of firemen's delay in reaching the Major home was coupled with a story of heroism by the houseboy, Waa.

Waa was awakened by a loud noise, probably an exploding window pane, Ray said. He ran through the house, pushed the two youngsters out their bedroom window to safety, then assisted neighbors in waking the parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Major, unable to get out of their room through the house, escaped through

FAIR, WARMER WEATHER IN SIGHT FOR AREA

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Fair and warmer is the weather outlook through tomorrow for most of Northern and Central California.

It was fair in most of the state this morning, aside from fog in the valleys.

There was thick fog in the San Francisco Bay Area and along the southern coast.

Northerly winds of about 20 miles in the Red Bluff area dispelled fog in the northern Sacramento Valley.

Forecaster L. B. Rasey said the north wind was expected to move southward through most of the Central Valley today, breaking up the fog and permitting a temperature increase.

France Sets Off 3rd Atomic Bomb

Explosion In Sahara Termed 'Successful'

PARIS (AP) — France today successfully staged its third nuclear test, exploding a small device that officials hope will clear the way for both tactical and giant thermonuclear weapons.

French scientists also sought to gain information about protection of persons from the effects of radioactive fallout.

The third test, which came about 10 months after the first, was fired at Reggane, deep in the Sahara, from atop a tower. French officials said that the device was of several kilotons in power. A kiloton is equivalent to 1,000 tons of TNT.

The first atomic bombs, made by the United States in World War II, were of about 20 kilotons. The first French bomb, tested Feb. 13, had 70 kilotons power. The second, set off April 1, was considerably smaller.

SMALL STRENGTH

Calling today's test a success, the Defense Ministry said the device was of small strength. Officials said the fallout presented no danger to nomade in the desert.

Testing points reported that weak radioactive fallout was noted in an area about 60 miles long and 15 miles wide extending southwestward from the firing range.

The French did not issue the usual 12-hour warning to airlines to reroute their African flights to stay clear. This indicated the French were confident there was no danger outside the immediate vicinity. The nearest inhabited oasis is some 80 miles away.

ANIMALS USED

With the findings from the test, French scientists say they hope to perfect small operational tactical bombs and detonating devices for thermonuclear or hydrogen bombs.

The French said many small animals—most of them mice or rates — were placed in the test area and are now being flown to Paris for study.

Some of the animals had been injected with substances that might furnish protection against radioactivity, officials said. Other animals had been put in a state of hibernation.

The government gave no details of the device exploded, but presumably it was of plutonium as were the previous two. Device No. 3 was named "Red Jerboa," after a small desert rodent.

Highway Toll During Yule Weekend: 485

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

The nation's traffic toll for the holiday was less than last year's 493 and the lowest for a three-day Christmas period since 1949 when the total was 413.

There were fewer lives lost on the highways than the National Safety Council had estimated. The council's pre-holiday warning was that 510 traffic deaths were expectable.

Deaths in traffic smashups slackened last night despite increased traffic as millions of motorists jammed highways heading for home from Christmas visits. Rain and ice made driving hazardous in some areas and the death rate dropped slightly.

Fires also took a heavy toll, with 72 deaths reported compared with 43 for last year's Christmas weekend holiday. Various types of other accidents claimed the lives of 82 persons compared with 73 last Christmas for an over-all total of 644 violent deaths. Last Christmas the total was 609 accidental deaths.

California led the nation in traffic fatalities. Deaths in smashups on the state's highways claimed at least 41 lives.

Group Starting School Board Recall Move

Members of the Terra Linda Annexation Committee will meet tonight to determine the method of starting recall proceedings against trustees of the Dixie School District.

Anton Lonich, spokesman for the pro-annexation group, said the time and place of the meeting had not yet been decided this morning.

The committee voted to start recall proceedings against the five-man board after the school board protested annexation of Terra Linda to San Rafael. The board members were charged with "playing petty politics" and their action labeled "an unwarranted intrusion into the

String Of Yule Holiday Crashes Injures 12 On Marin's Highways

Twelve persons were injured in Marin County accidents during the Christmas holiday, two of them when the car in which they were riding was forced from the road by a hit-run driver.

Shortly before the "official" start of the holiday Friday, another hit-run driver was responsible for the death of Julius Nabers, 57, of San Rafael Meadows, a Greyhound bus driver. M/Sgt. Edmund M. Thompson, 45, of 49 Roque Moraes Drive, Mill Valley, later surrendered as driver of the car that struck Nabers.

Most seriously injured in the string of holiday crashes was Peter A. Divita, 53, of 908 Fifth Avenue, San Rafael, whose skull was fractured in a two-car crash on the San Pedro Road interchange off Highway 101.

The driver of the other car, A. A. Lyon, 64, of San Francisco, was uninjured.

Divita was unable to give an account of the accident, although San Rafael General Hospital attendants said his condition was good today.

Lyon told California Highway Patrolmen he drove down the ramp, stopped at San Pedro Road and was about to make a left turn toward Santa Venetia when Divita's car struck his.

Officers said Divita's car was traveling with only parking lights and that the light switch would not turn on his headlights. The investigation will continue when Divita could be questioned further, they said.

Dolores Dow, 32, of 614 Blackberry Lane, was treated at Marin General Hospital for a broken shoulder blade. Dewey Wayne Cleland, 37, her passenger, of 1122 B Street, San Rafael, was treated for a broken collar bone and head injuries.

Both were in fair condition, hospital attendants said.

Mrs. Dow told San Anselmo police she was nearing Madrone Avenue at about 30 miles an hour when the station wagon turned onto Center in front of her. To avoid a head-on crash, she said, she swerved to the right.

Officer John Orr said the rear wheel of her car left the road, turning the car over on its side. The car traveled 42 feet on the shoulder of the road before rolling over the bank. It rolled another 69 feet, he said, before stopping.

Both driver and passenger were thrown from the car. Cleland was pinned underneath the car and was extricated by Orr with the help of onlookers before an ambulance arrived.

Two persons were in Marin

Pilot To Face Charge Of Drunk Flying

A drunken flying charge, believed to be the first of its kind in Marin County, was filed today against a civilian pilot who belly-flopped his twin-engine plane on the jet runways at Hamilton Air Force Base last Thursday morning.

Asst. Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales said conviction could bring a maximum penalty of $1,000 fine and six months in jail for Thomas W. Sullivan, 39, San Francisco pilot, employed by the Golden Gate Airways.

The Marin district attorney filed two charges today under the Aeronautics Commission Act of the California Public Utilities Code, drunken flying and reckless flying. Sullivan is scheduled to appear in Marin Municipal Court 9:30 a.m. Friday to face the misdemeanor charges.

Gunman Takes $484 From Liquor Store

Police in four western states were alerted yesterday for a "polite, calm" holdup man who stole $484 cash at gunpoint from Sam and Eddie's Liquor Store in San Rafael on Christmas Eve, but declined to take a customer's last seven dollars.

George Patrick Hoffman, relief clerk at the store at Fourth Street and Tamalpais Avenue, told police a man about 22 wearing a World War II fatigue coat and toting a "long-barreled .38-caliber pistol" entered the store about 11 p.m.

SAID 'FILL THIS'

He handed Hoffman a paper bag and said, "Fill this."

When Hoffman hesitated the gunman repeated his demand and added: "I mean business. Don't put your hands under the counter or your foot on the button or I'll kill you."

As the clerk filled the bag, Hans Siegismund Stern, 53, of 305 Adrian Way, Santa Venetia, entered the store to make a purchase.

The robber demanded his wallet, but refused to take any money when Stern showed him that it contained only $7. The gunman took $27 from Hoffman's wallet, however.

TWO MINUTES

Both were ordered to lie on the floor in the back of the room when the robber's bag had been stuffed with $457 in currency from the cash register.

Hoffman, who lives at 8 Lakeside Drive, Corte Madera, said the robbery took only about two minutes. Neither victim heard a car drive away after the holdup.

A description of the gunman —five-feet, four-inches tall, 140 pounds, with brown hair—was teletyped to police in California, Oregon, Washington and Nevada.

JUST WHAT HE WANTED

Boy, 10, With Leukemia, Gets Yule Wish—A Radio

Christmas morning, when a transistor radio was handed to him, the boy choked up and said, "Oh ma, Santa remembered me. This is what I wanted most."

It was only last week that Santa heard of the boy's one wish for Christmas. His little helpers went caroling in the area to collect funds for the gift.

Mrs. John B. Shepherd of San Anselmo, who headed the campaign, reports many donations including a generous check from the Salvation Army. After the radio was purchased, the surplus money went to the boy's mother for purchase of immediate needs or to keep in reserve for medical emergencies.

"It was a beautiful Christmas for a little boy, who asked for so little and the community gave so much," Mrs. Shepherd reported.

San Rafael Police Chief Cancels Rock-Roll Dance

A rock 'n' roll dance featuring singer Jerry Lee Lewis, which was scheduled to be held tonight in the ballroom of the Bermuda Palms restaurant in San Rafael, has been canceled by Police Chief Charles J. Chiesa, it was learned today.

Chiesa said he refused to give promoter Adam Foreman permission to hold the dance because of rock 'n' roll parties that have gotten out of hand in other cities.

Also on the billing were the Custom Keys, a Mill Valley combo; Johnny Allair and Pete Lind, San Rafael musicians, and KTIM disc jockey Jerry Bennett.

Irving (Whitey) Litchfield, owner of the Bermuda Palms, said he agreed to rent the ballroom to Foreman about a month ago. He said Foreman called him last week and said the dance would have to be held outside Marin County.

POSTAL WORKERS STRIKE—Policemen in Brussels stop striking postal workers from trying to halt a mail truck as a general strike crippled Belgium. The strike is in protest against government plans for economy to recoup because of loss of revenues from the Congo. (UPI Telephoto)

CONGO RECOUP PROTEST

Belgium Crippled By General Strike

BRUSSELS (UPI) — Strikers clashed briefly with armed police in the streets here today in a new flareup of the Socialist-led anti-government walkout that has crippled Belgium for a week.

Police dispersed a strike mob that was blocking traffic outside Socialist headquarters after a brief scuffle that produced no reported casualties.

The strikers shouted "down with (Premier Gaston) Eyskens!" and other anti-Government slogans as the police cleared the street.

Earlier, the strikers had manhandled the conductor of a streetcar that tried to pass their roadblock and pulled its trolley off the overhead power wire.

The government has called out regular troops and reservists in an effort to maintain essential services during the strike, which was called to protest the "austerity" program devised by the government to offset the nation's loss of revenues from the Congo.

The strike has crippled rail transportation, public utilities, mail deliveries and other essential services.

There was the additional danger of clashes between the striking Socialist unions and several non-striking Christian socialist unions. The Christian Socialists denounced the strike as "political" and urged union members to stay on the job. The Socialists countered with a call for non-strikers, particularly in the Wallonia region of southern Belgium, to join the strike.

The government yesterday called up some reservists for duty and orders were dispatched to the Belgian NATO forces in West Germany to ship home technicians and specialists needed to help operate the basic utilities. Soldiers on leave from duty were ordered to remain at home, awaiting orders for possible strike duty.

Paratroops and police guarded railway stations, post offices and other vital installations such as generator plants.

The Brussels-Namur rail line was closed yesterday after an anonymous phone caller tipped police it was mined. However, a search disclosed no explosives. Near Mons, a locomotive was blocked at a switch which was wrecked by saboteurs. On the Brussels-Charleroi electrified line, a pole holding the overhead wires was dynamited. In the Louvain district, police arrested six railroad workers after local residents saw them unbolting trailway tracks.

At Bruges, police dispersed mailmen picketing the post office there. There was no violence. But at Mons, a gasoline-filled bottle was hurled into a cafe. It failed to ignite, however, and caused no damage. A window in a labor newspaper office was smashed with a brick.

PLAN STARTED TO GIVE IKE BACK 5 STARS

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congressional leaders are working quietly on a plan to restore President Eisenhower to his five-star general rank soon after he leaves the White House on Jan. 20.

They conceded privately that some opposition may arise because, as a former president, he also will be eligible for a $25,000 annual pension and office expenses of up to $50,000. Restored rank would pay $20,548 a year.

A special act of Congress would be required to restore the rank because Eisenhower resigned his permanent five-star commission in 1952 when he was first nominated by the Republicans.

Nixon Ready To Campaign During 1962

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon is getting set to practice politics, as well as law, when he goes back to California after his term ends Jan. 20.

Nixon, defeated for the presidency by a whisker, wants another shot at the prize in 1964. In the intervening time he is going to do everything possible to convince the Republican Party it ought to give him another chance.

CLOSE CONTACTS

This will involve the maintenance of close contacts with Republican leaders in all sections of the nation. It will include speeches, public appearances and statements on national issues in his role as titular head of the party.

Beyond that, Nixon proposes to campaign vigorously for Republican candidates for the Senate and House in 1962. He figures if he can help Republicans win two years from now, he will broaden the base of his strength in bidding for a second nomination in 1964.

SEES SUPPORT

Because of the strong showing the vice president made in losing the election to Democratic Sen. John F. Kennedy by a popular vote margin of only about 112,000 ballots, Nixon believes he has a reservoir of built-in support among GOP Senate and House members elected this year.

Nixon's associates say the vice president carried 228 congressional districts to Kennedy's 206, with independent electors winning 3 in Mississippi.

As of now, Nixon prefers campaigning for a Republican Congress to getting into the race for governor in California. He has not closed the door on that possibility.

Agency Overhaul Report By Landis Scores 'Pressure'

WASHINGTON (AP)—A senior congressional Republican today agreed with a Kennedy adviser on the need to overhaul federal regulation agencies. But he said Congress, not the president, should do the revamping.

Rep. John B. Bennett of Michigan, ranking GOP member of the House Commerce Committee which deals with regulatory agencies, commented in an interview on a study made for President-elect John F. Kennedy by former Harvard Law School Dean James M. Landis.

Kennedy hailed Landis' report, issued yesterday as "a most important and impressive analysis" which should be studied by "members of Congress as well as the agencies themselves."

JAMES M. LANDIS
Prepared report

Sen. John A. Carroll (D-Colo.), chairman of a Senate subcommittee studying administrative practices, called for a drive against "powerful pressure groups" which he said have stymied agency reform.

HAS LEADERSHIP

He said Kennedy will provide the leadership for change, and that the president-elect had invited him to confer on the Landis report.

Landis has served as chairman of the Securities and Exchange Commission and the Civil Aeronautics Board and on the Federal Trade Commission. These are among the seven major regulatory agencies he discussed in often biting terms.

The so-called independent agencies have been set up by Congress over the years to regulate and hand down judgments on major economic activities.

OUTSIDE PRESSURE

Landis pictured the agencies as ridden by outside pressures, as too cozy with those whom they are supposed to regulate, as snarled in delays and slipping in caliber of personnel.

He accused both President Eisenhower and Truman of a lack of concern for the agencies, of appointing commissioners for political reasons rather than ability to do the job, and failing to avoid outside influences themselves on international air cases which are sent to the White House by the CAB.

Landis called for a series of reorganizations to be made by the new president under reorganization authority similar to that which he said Congress had granted to Eisenhower and Truman.

KEEP 'INDEPENDENT'

Bennett, however, said "whatever reforms are needed ought to be legislated by Congress. One of the most important things is keeping these agencies independent."

He said the delays in agency decisions could be removed by having individual commissioners write decisions, with proper staff help, and this in turn would do away with what he called much of the backstage efforts to influence decisions.

In the White House itself, Landis would do away with presidential assistants dealing with matters of concern to the regulatory agencies. Instead, he would have an office directly under the president to supervise the agencies.

Grant is a retired Sausalito boat builder. He is a member of the Marin Rod and Gun Club. Mrs. Grant served as head of the American Red Cross Motor Corps in Southern Marin during World War II.

The Grants will fly by jet to the islands and plan to live a leisurely life of sunbathing and fishing.

Q. If high blood pressure is lowered will a person live longer?
A. There are a number of measures, (some involving new and effective drugs) by which blood pressure can be lowered. It can now be said that patients in the middle-age group and younger who have moderately elevated pressure can anticipate a somewhat longer life if they respond to these pressure-lowering measures. In older people the lowering of blood pressure alone, unless it is extremely high, would not be the chief or only consideration in prolonging life.
Q. I have arrested tuberculosis. Is it safe for me to marry?
A. It would probably be safe for you to marry provided your doctor agreed and informed you of the necessary considerations to prevent flare-up of the disease. Both parties should also be thoroughly acquainted with the hazards of reactivation of the disease as well as exposure of possible children.
Q. At what age will the menopause occur in a woman who started menstruating at 12½?
A. The age at which menstruation starts (menarche) is not related to the age at which the menopause will occur. It is rare for a woman to experience menopausal symptoms before 42 or 45. The majority have ceased menstruation sometime between 45 and 50.
Q. First aid manuals recommend that in poisonous snakebites the flesh be cut at the site of the bite and suction applied. Is this the thing to do?
A. It is often recommended, but Army doctors, experimenting with animals, found that suction not only failed to remove enough venom to do much good but that the procedure may even hasten the spread of the poison. The pros and cons can be cleared up by further experiments.

SAFETY COUNCIL SAYS 340 MAY DIE NEW YEAR'S

The estimated death toll would compare with 374 killed during a similar three-day weekend a year ago, which was a record for a three-day yearend period.

Council president Howard Pyle said speeding and drinking are the main factors in New Year's traffic fatalities.

The council also estimated 14,000 persons would suffer disabling injuries from traffic accidents during the 78-hour period which begins 6 p.m. Friday and ends at midnight Monday.

Mill Valleyan Safe As Fire Ruins TV Set

The life of a Mill Valley woman, in bed and unaware that there was a fire in her living room, may have been saved on Christmas eve by a passerby who saw the fire and gave the alarm.

Bruce Gillette of 407 Spring Street, Tamalpais Valley, saw flames in the living room of Mrs. Byron Boulware as he was passing her house at 416 Pine Street at 5:45 p.m. Saturday.

Firemen arrived to find a set of candles, sitting atop a television set, had burned down, destroying the top of the set and a remote control unit.

Mrs. Boulware was unaware of the blaze which did $165 worth of damage.

WORK OF EARLY ARTIST

New York art dealer Oscar Klein examines a painting he claims is the work of Fra Bartolomeo, a 16th Century Italian artist. Klein bought the painting at an auction in London, and had the work verified by an authority on Italian art. He paid $150 for the painting "The Virgin Crowned," and now values it at $150,000. SOCIOLOGIST SUGGESTS:

Don't Say 'Hoods', Call Them 'Psychos'

NEW YORK (AP)—Treat leaders of violent teen-age gangs as "psychos" rather than as "hoods," a sociologist suggested today.

"That would take some of the glory out of gang activity," said Dr. Lewis Yablonsky of the University of Massachusetts.

"Society would thus brand gang action as sick' behavior rather than indirectly aggrandize it—as is often done."

"With gang behavior stigmatized as being in the boy's terms crazy or nutty,' many youths would not participate in the gang and its violence."

Dr. Yablonsky speaking to the American Assn. for the Advancement of Science, said many people and even some specialists make a serious error in thinking of violent gangs as definite groups.

He holds they are not usually cohesive groups, and said most boys interviewed after "rumbles" or even fatal battles "had no real concept of belonging to any gang or group."

The gang is a near-group, he said, but if treated as an organized group, a group may actually form. One social worker tried to organize such youths into a baseball team, but they turned instead into a violent gang, he added.

Gangs which become violent are loose organizations, and the leaders "are often borderline psychotics with delusions of grandeur or persecution."

Trying to work with them is usually useless, but most gang followers can be helped by constructive activity projects, he said.

State Mails Out Income Tax Forms

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Happy New Year, taxpayers.

The Franchise Tax Board today mailed state income tax forms to 4,300,000 Californians.

The taxes aren't due until April 15, which gives the citizens time to raise the 300 million dollars.

San Rafael Planners Slate Glenwood Hearing Tonight

The San Rafael Planning Commission will hold a second public hearing on the rezoning of Glenwood Unit 4 and Seaview Estates 1 and 2 on Point San Pedro Road, from planned community to single family residential, tonight at 7:30 o'clock in the city hall.

The commissioners will hear a request of Purity Stores to erect a double faced illuminated sign at the corner of Manuel Freitas Parkway and Las Gallinas Avenue, Terra Linda.

Warren Nute, engineer for the Westwood Co., will present a tentative map to the commissioners for a 43-lot subdivision at Westwood Drive near Hillside Avenue.

The Standard Oil Co. of California will request permission to build a gasoline service station at Manuel Freitas Parkway and Del Presidio Boulevard.

Monument To A Horse

GALLION, Ohio (AP) — For 99 years, a beech tree on a farm west of here has marked the spot where a young Union Army volunteer buried his horse before marching off to the Civil War. The young man's name long has been forgotten, but the inscription "Iron Horse, Died March 1861" can still be read.

THE RUBLE'S NEW LOOK

'Fairly Moderate Plan' Programed By Governor

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Don't look for any surprises in Gov. Edmund G. Brown's message to the 1961 Legislature.

A member of his staff says the Democratic governor will present a "fairly moderate program" to the session convening next Monday for six months.

Brown already has outlined the major problems he hopes to do something about. But he won't spell out his views until he addresses the assembly and the senate on Tuesday.

The accent will be on education, state government reorganization and welfare.

On another important subject, narcotics control, Brown probably will offer specific recommendations in a special message later during the session.

A five-man commission appointed by the governor recently handed in a report urging 22 steps in the war against the narcotics traffic. The proposal included increased penalties for sales of narcotics to minors.

Brown submitted a 14-point general program to the 1959 legislature, with heavy emphasis on civil rights and social progress. Most of it was enacted. In addition, the new administration pushed through 220 million dollars in new taxes.

The governor has said flatly he will not seek more taxes.

He plans to ask the legislature to establish a special commission to study reapportionment of the State Senate.

He also has indicated the administration will try to modify —but not necessarily repeal — the law which requires responsible relatives to care for needy aged.

And there probably will be some recommendation on action to tighten up on aid to needy children, and eliminate abuses of the 120-million-dollar-a-year program.

Brown is expected to propose the first stage of a drastic plan to reorganize the state government but just how far he will go remains to be seen.

The governor has made it clear that he will give top emphasis to education, with recommendation on curriculum changes and a possible new system of credentials for teachers.

He already has said he favors more stress on the teaching of basic science and mathematics, foreign languages and a wider use of classroom television.

"I will support every progressive measure for which we can pay the bills," he said.

Doctor Wins Award For Heart Work

The Theobald Smith Award of the American Assn. for the Advancement of Science was awarded today to Dr. Richard J. Havel, 34, of Ross.

The $1,000 award, one of the highest distinctions a medical researcher can receive, was presented to the young doctor in New York at the AAAS annual meeting.

Dr. Havel received the award for research in the field of the metabolism of fats and fatty compounds related to heart and artery diseases.

Among discoveries made by Havel are that hormones secreted by the adrenal glands and nervous system in response to stress govern the release of certain fatty acids into the bloodstream.

Havel also suggested that that excessive blood fat levels can be produced by a genetic deficiency of an enzyme that breaks down from fat.

Havel, associate professor of medicine and staff member at the Cardiovascular Research Institute of the University of California, resides with his wife, Virginia, and four children at 52 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard.

Havel's work at the Research Institute has been supported by the Marin, San Francisco, Monterey, Napa, and Tulare County Heart Assns.

Nearly Half Of Marin City Burning Done

Forty per cent of the 108 abandoned homes being destroyed in the redevelopment of Marin City, have been burned and at a cost considerably below that anticipated.

That was the report of County Fire Chief Charles Reilley to the Marin County Board of Supervisors today.

Reilley said that 43 of the homes have been burned at an average cost of about $26 per home. Homes burned thus far have been high on the hills and cost is expected to increase slightly as those lower down in more congested and vegetated areas are burned, he declared.

The total cost should be about $4,000 for destruction of all 108 houses, the fire chief said. The Housing Authority, which will pay the bill, had expected the cost to be between $5,000 and $10,000, he said.

"The remarkable thing about the burning," Reilley went on, "is that we have not had a single complaint from Marin County about the smoke."

MacArthur Bequest

NORFOLK, Va. (UPI) — Gen. Douglas MacArthur will leave his personal papers and other war reminders to the city of Norfolk, the wedding place of his parents.

Space Speedup Program Slated

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Vice President-elect Lyndon B. Johnson said today the Kennedy administration is planning a vigorous and accelerated space exploration program.

Johnson told of the plan—without going into any detail—at a news conference after he and Sen. Robert S. Kerr (D-Okla.) concluded two days of talks with President-elect John F. Kennedy. Kerr is slated to succeed Johnson as chairman of the Senate Space Committee.

And Kennedy has announced that in the new administration Johnson will be chairman of the National Aeronautics and Space Advisory Council.

Earlier, Kennedy named Rex Whitten, chief engineer of Missouri's highway department, to be federal highway administrator.

Tht present administrator is Bertram D. Tallamy.

Meanwhile there were reports that Kennedy is considering naming career diplomat Charles E. (Chip) Bohlen to be ambassador to France. Bohlen is at present State Department adviser on Russian problems. He is a former ambassador to Moscow.

Whitten, 62, will administer the Federal Highway Act in his new position which pays $20,000 a year.

Pierre Salinger, Kennedy's press secretary, said he did not know Whitten's political party affiliation.

Whitten has been associated with the Missouri Highway Department since 1920 and has been its chief engineer since 1951.

"Mr. Whitten's long background in every phase of highway work will place the direction of the nation's important highway program in the hands of a man of unmatched experience," Kennedy said in a statement.

Kennedy chose Whitten after consultation with Gov. Luther H. Hodges of North Carolina, who will be secretary of commerce in the new administration.

Teacher Group Plans To Press Bargaining

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Higher standards for teachers, better job security and collective bargaining rights were listed today as top legislative targets of the AFL-CIO California Federation of Teachers.

Lou Eilerman of Long Beach, federation president, outlined the goals in an interview as some 300 delegates registered for the annual convention of the teachers union.

Eilerman also proposed action by the 1961 legislature to halt what he called the "overburgeoning school heirarchy of administrators" and to give teachers a greater voice in school policy.

To raise standards for teachers, Eilerman said the federation would propose a statewide examination for all prospective teachers stressing the subject matter to be taught and yearlong teaching internships.

"The State Education Department has stressed the idea of reducing the number of credentials," Eilerman said. "To us, this is not as important as improving standards."

The department has proposed trimming the number of different types of credentials from 40 to 5 and requiring teachers to have five years of college with an academic major.

The federation will give top priority to legislation to give teachers collective bargaining rights, as well as extending tenure and probationary protection.

Only the three largest districts in the state now are required to state the cause for dismissing a probationary teacher, and to hold a hearing on dismissals.

"Many, many people are dismissed for invalid reasons," Eilerman said.

SPEEDING HELD MAIN CAUSE OF HOLIDAY TOLL

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The California Highway Patrol today blamed its old enemy —speeding—for more than half of the 40 traffic deaths in the state over the long Christmas weekend.

"We had hoped for something better," said CHP Commissioner Bradford N. Crittenden.

He said his men will work even harder to cut down speeding in the coming New Year's weekend.

Crittenden said the biggest blow to California's hopes for a low death count came Sunday when six persons died in one accident in Kern County.

Governor Won't Stop Execution Of Wife Slayer

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Edmund G. Brown has refused to prevent the execution tomorrow of Raymond L. Cartier of San Diego.

Cartier, 38, a butcher, was convicted in 1958 of the brutal slaying and dismemberment of his wife. He is scheduled to die in San Quentin Prison gas chamber.

Brown granted him a reprieve Oct. 26 to allow time for additional psychiatric examinations. But the governor said yesterday that the tests had failed to show Cartier as legally insane

Clare Ellen Weist, 22, of 62 Rancheria was taken to the hospital with a broken leg and deep cuts on her forehead. Her condition today was good, attendants said.

Alsace Howard, of Dormitory 115 A-17, Marin City, was admitted in a state of shock and a head injury. He was also reported in good condition.

Lonnie Phillips, driver of the car which crashed into that of Miss Weist, was booked at Marin County Jail for drunk driving after being treated at the hospital for a cut lip and an injured shoulder.

According to a witness, William Slattery, a Federal Bureau of Investigation agent who lives at 115 J Street in San Rafael, Phillips sped northbound out of the Sausalito-Marin City connecting road onto the highway, crossed the divider strip and hit the Weist car in the southbound lane. Slattery's car was just behind that of Miss Weist.

California Highway Patrol officer Richard De Marco said Phillips was traveling about 65 miles an hour when he cut across the highway.

"He struck the oncoming car with such force that it was literally stopped in its tracks," De Marco said. The car of Miss Weist was completely spun around at the point of impact.

Phillips' car continued across the highway, Slattery said, and slammed into the bank, throwing Phillips' passenger, Howard, out onto the highway. The car left no skid marks, De Marco said.

When questioned at the hospital, Phillips admitted to having drank "two beers." He said he had picked up Howard just prior to the accident.

Officers said he went to sleep during the questioning.

Two Mill Valley women were in Marin General Hospital today after losing control of their car on Shoreline Drive in Tamalpais and running over a steep embankment on Christmas Eve.

Driving the car was Ellen Catherine Rynders, 19, of 125 Harvard Avenue, who was pronounced in fair condition today with a fractured breast bone.

Her passenger, Ellen Oliviera, was also in fair condition with a broken arm.

Miss Rynders said she was driving west on Shoreline at about 35 miles an hour preparing to turn into Loring Street. Because of the heavy fog she was watching the white center line, but lost sight of it and went onto the shoulder, swung back across the highway and went over the bank on the opposite side. They were taken to the hospital by Marin Ambulance.

John L. Winton, 38, a teacher in the public schools of Vancouver, B.C., ditched his car and injured a woman companion while lost in a Marin County fog yesterday.

He was driving west along Freitas Parkway in Terra Linda with a friend, Sylvia Downs, 25, also of Vancouver, looking for the home of another friend. Winton told the California Highway Patrol that he had never been there before, was unaware the road came to a dead end at Montecello Road, and due to lack of any warning sign or signal he ran into the ditch.

Miss Downs was treated for a cut forehead at San Rafael General Hospital. The patrol asked the county public works department to survey the site of the mishap and perhaps erect some form of warning.

A San Rafael driver not only failed to stop for a flashing red signal on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard early today, but broke down the signal pole.

Arthur M. Perry, 18, a student living at 186 Tamal Vista, was driving north on College Avenue in Kentfield at 1:05 a.m. When he arrived at Sir Francis Drake where College ends his car kept moving briskly and mowed down the signal pole.

Perry was treated at Marin General Hospital for cuts and bruises. He said he had been to a party and had fallen asleep at the wheel. A California Highway Patrol citation charged him with failing to stop at a signal.

Mary Kent, 24, daughter of Roger Kent of 200 Woodland Road, Kent Woodlands, and James Linsey, 16, Redwood High School student of 165 Via Lerida, Greenbrae, were injured in a broadside crash on Bon Air Road at the entrance to Marin General Hospital Friday evening.

Miss Kent was reported in satisfactory condition today at Marin General Hospital with fractured ribs and face and head cuts. Linsey was released after setting of a left wrist fracture.

Linsey and a companion were on their way to the hospital to sing carols when their car collided with that driven by Miss Kent, eastbound on Bon Air Road.

Edward James Mahoney III, 17, of Ross suffered back injuries when a car in which he was riding, driven by Andrew A. W. Campbell, 20, rolled over on Kent Avenue in Kentfield Friday night.

affairs of the people of Terra Linda."

The terms of three members of the school board will expire June 30 and the positions will be up for election on April 18. They are E. E. Lenander, board president, Dorothy Brown and Robert S. Winniford.

Lonich said the committee will also discuss how to spread information about the advantages of annexing to San Rafael.

Larkspur Trustees To Hear Report On Site Purchase

Supt. Vaughn Seidel of Larkspur School District will report to the district board at 7:30 p.m. today on progress toward purchase of a fourth school site in Mariners Cove. The purchase contract was unofficially approved by the State Allocations Board in Sacramento last week.

The superintendent also will recommend purchase of additional visual aid equipment for the district, including still projectors, screens, radio-phonographs, and televison sets.

A report will be made on formation of a committee to suggest names for the new school. The board also will consider an agreement with the town of Corte Madera for a preschool children's playground on the new school site.

Escaped Camp Felon Captured

After a short vacation—less than a month — Richard M. Rios, escapee from one of San Quentin Prison's conservation camps, will be spending New Year's Day and many more days back in San Quentin after being found in Southern California.

After the capture, Rios admitted leading a ring of check forgers. The ring had cashed $4,000 in forged payroll checks on Christmas eve. Rios named four members of the ring after questioning by the police.

He had walked away from the prison's conservation camp near Weott, Humboldt County, after spending only a week there. Rios, 30, was convicted of burglary.

Bus Driver Death Suspect Due In Court

A Mill Valley sergeant, suspected of running down a bus driver and then driving off last Friday, was scheduled to appear in Marin Municipal Court this afternoon for arraignment.

Booked on suspicion of manslaughter, M/Sgt. Edmund McHugh Thompson, 45, of 49 Roque Moraes Drive is free on $1,575 bail. A sergeant major at the Presidio in San Francisco, he was to be retired on an Army pension in February.

The dead bus driver was Julius Nabers, 57, of 219 Los Gallinas Drive, San Rafael Meadows. His bus stalled south of Richardson Bay Bridge, and he had got off to direct a second Greyhound bus to give his vehicle a push.

Horrified bus passengers said they saw a station wagon hit driver Nabers, then drive off. Several hours later, Sergeant Thompson called Mill Valley police to report he thought he had been in an accident.

California Highway Patrolmen said a clothing imprint on Thompson's station wagon appears to match the clothes worn by the bus driver. Also, a piece of antenna at the accident scene matched the broken antenna of Thompson's car, patrolmen said.

Corte Madera Public Works Head To Quit

Robert L. Bartram, superintendent of public works for the town of Corte Madera since last June 1, will leave that position March 1 for a new job with a private construction firm in Santa Rosa.

He submitted his resignation today to Town Manager Arthur H. Brandow.

Brandow announced a written examination for applicants for the superintendent's job will be held Jan. 21. Applicants must be between 25 and 50 years old, have a high school education and three years experience either in heavy construction or public works.

Application forms and announcements are available at the town hall. The post position pays between $484 and $587 per month.

Planners To Hear Church's Request To Reduce Parking

Larkspur Planning Commission will hold a public hearing at 8 p.m. today on a request from Rev. Michael Barkowska of Calvary Baptist Church for a reduction in the offstreet parking requirements for the church.

The use permit for the church provides that a nearby lot be rented to give additional parking space. The minister maintains this space is not needed. The church is at Holcomb and Baltimore Avenues.

Also on the agenda are a request for a lot split from John P. Lippitt of 26 Sycamore Avenue, an appointment to the cut and fill ordinance committee, said discussion of rezoning the marshland property along Magnolia between Doherty Drive and Bon Air Road.

Major, a San Francisco auto salesman, estimated the loss at $30,000 to the house and $10,000 in personal property.

Lost in the flames were all of the children's Christmas presents, but young neighbors eased the pain somewhat by donating many of their gifts to the Major children.

The Majors moved in temporarily with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hienman of 1006 Idleberry Road and today were reportedly house-hunting. The cause of the fire had not been determined.

The Larkspur fire, which was fought by both the Kentfield and Larkspur Fire Departments, was reported by a neighbor just before 5 a.m. Christmas Day. It started in a storeroom in the back of the building which is owned by Bud Gutman, proprietor of the Paint Pot.

Much of the damage was caused by water leaking from copper pipes which came unsoldered in the intense heat, said Larkspur Fire Chief George Bartram. A large section of roof caved in on the Decorative Draperies Shop operated by Marie White. Considerable material was damaged by flames and by hot tar dripping from the burning roof.

The restaurant, unoccupied for the past two weeks, suffered smoke damage as did the other two shops. A definite cause was not established.

Two trucks and 15 men from each company fought the blaze for almost three hours.

The Chileno Valley Road home of Mrs. Schultz broke out in flames at about 10 p.m. when an oil heater exploded. Frick, alone in the house and without a telephone, went about two miles to the Robert Dolcini Ranch to call the Marin County Fire Dept.

Assistant Fire Chief Louis Bloom said five trucks responded to the alarm, but that the house was almost a total loss by the time they arrived. It was under control within about two hours, he said, but the last truck did not leave until after 8 a.m.

Mr. and Mrs. George A. Ballantyne and their three teen age children were temporarily staying at a San Rafael motel today after a $10,000 fire chased them from their home at 320 Laurel Place on Christmas Eve.

The fire, believed caused by faulty wiring in the attic, destroyed the roof and upstairs portion of the house.

The Ballantynes, with the help of neighbors, escaped with all their Christmas presents and the Christmas turkey. In fact, the turkey was cooking during the time the San Rafael Fire Department was putting out the blaze.

They spent the Christmas holiday with Mrs. Ballantyne's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Smith of Gilroy.

A fire of undetermined origin broke out in the apartment of Fred Menzinara at 2009 Bridgeway, Sausalito, at 12:55 a.m. today sending about 20 robe-clad tenants of the Bamboo Inn Guest House into the cold morning air.

Fire Chief Mathew J. (Matts) Perry said it might have been a cigarette which caused the fire, which caused about $150 damages to a dresser, curtains and a rug. Menzinara, assistant chef at the Spinnaker Restaurant, was not at home at the time.

Spinal Defects Noted In Many Ulcer Patients

by Dr. Robert W. Pearce

You can't enjoy life when your are suffering from stomach ulcers. Some of the first signs of ulcers are gas pains, indigestion and a swelling or bloated feeling.

Operations or diets sometimes bring temporary relief. But after a while that old ulcer acts up again unless you correct the real cause of the trouble.

German medical doctors have reported that they noticed spinal defects in 86 of 100 ulcer patients. Using Chiropractic methods, these German medical men restored their patients to health by eliminating the cause of the ulcers.

Research has disclosed that pinched nerves of the spine often interfere with the nerves controlling the digestive juices and cause a body imbalance. Ulcers then result when foods are unable to get their normal supply of these digestive juices.

Chiropractors use X-ray and other scientific methods to check for spinal defects. They are spine specialists and are able to correct such defects without hospitalization. Ulcer trouble generally goes away once the spine is corrected and the body is able to function normally. Dr. R. W. Pearce, D.C. practices the Palmer Method. His office is at 1628 Fifth Ave., San Rafael, GL 3-6201. —Adv.

Auto License Statements Due

Marin County motorists were receiving statements this week reminding them to renew their automobile registrations on or before Feb. 4.

Applications for the red sticker that must be attached to the rear license plate will be processed at the office of the Department of Motor Vehicles at 1926 Fourth Street, San Rafael, beginning Jan. 3.

The only new feature of the statement forms this year is a point to be punched by the vehicle owner if he has changed his address from that shown on the card.

New, Improved Greyhound Bus Will Roll Soon

NEW YORK (AP)—Greyhound Corp. plans to introduce early next year a new bus with increased visibility, greater safety features and improved passenger comforts.

F. W. Ackerman, president, called the new vehicle the first major advance in intercity bus transportation since development of the firm's dual level bus. The new bus, he said, has all of the dual level vehicle's equipment in a single level plus the first V-8 diesel engines ever used by Greyhound.

The first 250 new buses, which were made by General Motors Corp. at an initial investment of 13 million dollars, will be added to Greyhound's Scenicruiser fleet in late winter and early spring. The buses seat 38 passengers have a complete rest room, air suspension ride, reclining seat with adjustable foot rest, head rest and individual reading light, plus 20 per cent more efficient air conditioning equipment and more baggage space.

ANOTHER HOUSE ENTERED

Looted Home Believed Work Of Cat Burglar

One Glenwood home was looted and another entered during the weekend by a thief believed to be the "cat burglar" who has committed more than 100 crimes on the San Francisco peninsula.

About $400 worth of Christmas presents plus a camera, projector and .22 caliber automatic pistol were taken from the home of Ernest Theodore Louis of 23 Knight Drive. Louis discovered the burglary when he and his wife returned home at 11 p.m. Friday.

Police said the burglar knocked out a small pane of glass in the front door and then reached inside and opened the door. Propping a piano stool against the door, the burglar opened a back window for a possible escape route.

He apparently drove his car into the garage and piled the loot in it.

E. F. Murdy of 11 Knight Drive reported the burglary of his house at 3:17 p.m. yesterday.

At the Murdy house, which is in the same block as the burglar's other victim, an unlocked bedroom window screen had been removed. A chair had been placed against the front door, and the house searched thoroughly.

Two Dogs Attack Man In Novato

Daniel J. Ritter, 23, of 5 Hillcrest Avenue, San Anselmo, suffered bites on the right thigh and arm last night when two dogs attacked him in Novato.

Treated at San Rafael General Hospital, Ritter was released with minor wounds.

He told sheriff's deputies he was walking along Leafwood Drive near Park Way about 10:30 p.m. when two German shepherds pounced on him. The owners of the dogs are not known.

Man Reports Wife Missing

It was a lonely Christmas for Henry James Frison of 855 Francisco Boulevard, San Rafael, and his four children.

His 25-year-old wife, Dorothy, disappeared at 2 a.m. Christmas Day and has not been heard from since.

Frison told police he was drinking with his wife at the Wye Club when he became ill and went home at 1 a.m. Sunday. He awoke at 4 a.m. and discovered she had not returned home. He reported her missing at 11 a.m. yesterday.

Their four children — aged eight months to seven years— were being cared for by a friend today.

Mrs. Frison is described as five-feet, five inches tall, 110 pounds, light brown haired and wearing a long black coat, black shoes, blue-green wool blouse and black knit skirt.

IMPERIAL BODYGUARD DOOMED AT START

Why Ethiopia Revolution Fizzled

What caused a revolt in a land ruled virtually single-handed by one man for more than 30 years? UPI reporter David Dugas flew into Addis Ababa last week to find out. Here is his report, after his return to Cairo, on the unsuccessful insurrection against Emperor Haille Selassie of Ethiopia.

By DAVID DUGAS

CAIRO (UPI)—The recently attempted coup against the government of Ethiopia's Emperor Haile Selassie was one of the most puzzling revolutions of this century.

The crushing of the rebellion by loyal army forces and the emperor's triumphant return to Addis Ababa, diplomatic circles in the capital asked these questions:

What did the revolutionaries expect to gain?

How could they have dreamed of success against overwhelming odds?

As the emperor told a news conference in Addis Ababa last week, the leaders of the revolt—almost all of them members of Haile Selassie's own imperial bodyguard battalion—had pledged nothing more than a speed-up of the emperor's own program for developing their primitive nation.

If the new would-be leaders had intended to change Haile Selassie's generally conservative, pro-Western policy, there was no clear indication of this during their brief tenure of office.

The imperial bodyguard leaders and their civilian conspirators apparently though the coup would win the immediate support of the army and air force. But it was doomed to failure.

Since Haile Selassie's son, Crown Prince Asfa Wassan, 44, was never considered by the rebels as more than a figurehead, observers assumed he was acting under duress when he addressed the country as its revolutionary leader Dec. 14.

The idea of a coup itself was not surprising. Others have been attempted against the emperor in the past. Generally, such attempts have reflected dissatisfaction among Ethiopia's small, educated class, largely represented by British and American-trained army officers, with the feudal state of the country.

While the emperor was in far-off Sao Paulo, Brazil, on a state visit, a handful of palace guard officers and civilians set in motion their plans to topple him. This was the timetable for the revolt and its aftermath:

At 7 a.m. Wednesday, Dec. 14, the United States embassy got wind of the revolt by piecing together a flurry of seemingly unrelated reports heard around the city.

By noon, the entire capital had gotten the word.

The Addis Ababa radio transformed the rumors into reality when it broadcast that "a peaceful change in the government of the country" had taken place.

The broadcast said the new regime under Prince Wassan as "king" would eliminate corruption, promote progress and maintain "friendly relations with all countries."

Later in the day, the prince, surrounded by four guards with submachine guns, walked nervously to the microphone to announce he would, indeed, lead the country. There was no mention of his father.

The morning of Thursday, Dec. 15, passed without incident. But in the afternoon it became apparent that something had gone wrong.

The imperial bodyguard commander, Gen. Mengestu Newaye, claimed the army was behind the coup. But the army remained in its barracks, and garrisons outside the city began to move into the outskirts.

At 3 p.m. Thursday, the calm broke. Shots echoed and events suddenly began moving swiftly.

The 4,000-man First Army Division rushed into the city against the imperial bodyguard. Fighting spread into the streets of the capital.

Americans, Britons and other foreigners began streaming to their embassy compounds for safety.

The emperor bade farewell to his Brazilian hosts in Sao Paulo and calmly boarded a private plane that took him swiftly to Africa.

On Thursday afternoon, air force planes showered leaflets in the capital proclaiming the imminent return of the emperor and denouncing the palace rebels.

It was the turning point. Thousands of peasants began streaming into the city from the surrounding hills, shouting their greetings, although Selassie had not yet returned.

Approximately 10,000 showa tribesmen, the country's unofficial cavalry, rode to the rescue and rallied outside the capital on their chargers, carrying rhinoceros - hide shields and wearing the lion-mane war head-dress of their ancestors.

The horsemen awaited the word to ravage the city in the name of Selassie. The army, almost all of it loyal to the emperor, persuaded the ill-disciplined horsemen to keep out of the city—and they obeyed.

By Friday morning, Dec. 16, as more army units moved in, it was apparent the revolt had been crushed. But Addis Ababa was to see more blood. The bodies of rebels dangled from lamp posts and make-shift gallows.

In the palace, rebel leaders held counciis of war. They still held hostages, many of them cabinet ministers.

U.S. military advisers began conveying messages between the two sides. Even U.S. Ambassador Arthur Richards took messages between the army and Ras Imru, the Ethiopian ambassador to Moscow who had been named "premier" by the rebels.

Richards had just delivered a message in the palace late Friday when tank supported infantry stormed the ornate, thick-walled building.

But in the palace throne room were 19 high-ranking hostages who had to be disposed of. The rebel guards opened fire, slaughtering 14 and seriously wounding three. Of the dead, four were cabinet ministers.

Wassan was in the room, but he was not injured.

In the darkness Friday night, the army announced the palace had been captured and patrols went out into the hills to root out die-hard rebel bands.

Selassie advanced across Africa to Asmara, Eritrea, an autonomous Red Sea district of Ethiopia loyal to him. He waited through the night for a triumphal entry into Addis Ababa Saturday morning, Dec. 17.

The government reported 174 rebels were killed and 300 wounded during the brief revolt. The loyal army lost 29 man and 43 wounded. The exact number of military and civilian casualties probably never will be known because Ethiopia never even has been able to count its own population much less revolution victims.

All seemed normal when Selassie returned. He promised amnesty for rebels who surrendered and confessed the errors of their ways. But 1,800 rebels are being held for investigation.

His son was said to have been forgiven.

Outside the capital, many of Ethiopia's ragged peasants still do not know that the Lion of Judah came narrowly close to losing his throne.

BODIES IN ADDIS ABABA—Bodies of two leaders of the abortive Dec. 14 coup against Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia hang from scaffolding in Addis Ababa's Menelik Square Christmas Day. They were killed the night before by the emperor's loyal troops. At left, is the body of Capt. Daye Kassema of the imperial bodyguard. At right, is the body of Girmame Neway, governor of Jigjiga province and reportedly one of the brains of the uprising. (AP Wirephoto via radio)

Ex-Adjutant General Asserts Brown Vowed He Could Stay

By EDWIN S. CAPPS

SACRAMENTO (CNS)—California's ousted adjutant general, commander of the state's armed forces, charged today an unkept promise of Gov. Edmund G. Brown probably has cost him his military career.

Maj. Gen. Earle M. Jones has been state adjutant general since July, 1951, and, until recently, had expected to continue in that capacity for some time. However, on Dec. 13, Brown announced Jones would "retire" on Jan. 1, to be replaced by Col. Roderic L. Hill, 46, will become a major general when he assumes the office.

The story of the unkept word goes back nearly two years when Brown was elected governor. With the change of administration, at the beginning of 1959, every director was considered expendable.

Jones had been offered positions in Washington, either as chief of the National Guard Bureau for the United States, or as chief of the Army Division of the National Guard. Both posts carries major general ratings.

"However, Governor Brown assured me he wanted me to stay on as adjutant general," Jones said. "I would much prefer to be adjutant general so I did not pursue either of the other offers."

Thus it was quite a surprise to Jones when Brown announced his "retirement" from the adjutant general post.

"We have had no differences," Jones said. "In fact, he was quite cordial to me at the governor's council meeting just a week or so ago. Thus my retirement came as very much of a surprise to me."

"I understand the governor was under quite a bit of political pressure to replace me," Jones said. "It happens I am a Republican.

"This office is supposedly a non-political one but I expect the governor had pressure just the same," Jones said.

The retiring adjutant general said he had no immediate plans other than to look for a job. He said he was not under the state retirement system but will be entitled to an Army retirement when he reaches the proper age.

Technically, city, state and federal police or forbidden by law to enter U.N. grounds in New York, although they have the right of "hot pursuit" of a criminal.

Kennedy's Victory Selected Top News Story Of 10 In 1960

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Sen. John F. Kennedy's victory over Vice President Richard M. Nixon is one of the closest of all U.S. presidential elections has been chosen the top story of 1960 by news editors of Associated Press member newspapers and radio stations.

Foreign affairs dominated the other spots in the editors' top 10 story selections.

Close behind the Kennedy-Nixon tussle, in the editors' estimation, came the U-2 incident, the shooting down of an American reconnaissance plane high over Sverdlovsk in the very heartland of the vast Soviet Union.

The editors' No. 3 story, closely tied to the U-2 incident, was the collapse of the Paris summit conference in a welter of table-thumping, accusations and name-calling on the part of Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

Independence for the former Belgian Congo, its collapse into chaos and subsequent United Nations intervention was the choice for No. 4 story.

As the nation prepared for the Christmas holiday, two airliners coming in for a landing collided in a snowstorm over New York. It was the worst aviation disaster in U.S. history, claiming 136 lives, and the editors selected this as their No. 5 story.

Other choices in the editor's top 10:

6. Fidel Castro's movement into the Communist orbit and America's worsening relations with that island nation amid a barrage of propaganda and confiscation of U.S. property in Cuba.

7. The visit of Khrushchev, the satellite leaders and others to the United Nations.

8. Space and nuclear affairs.

9. The last minute cancellation of Eisenhower's visit to Japan in the wake of leftist riots over the new American-Japanese defense pact.

10. Sit-in demonstrations in the southern states and the New Orleans school integration incidents.

Prior to the New York air disaster, the execution of convicted kidnaper Caryl Chessman was considered the No. 10 story.

NEWS EDITOR POLL

President-Elect Is 'Newsmaker Of 1960'

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

News editors of Associated Press members newspapers and radio and television stations have voted President-elect John F. Kennedy as "Newsmaker of 1960."

His election in the poll was by a much wider margin than in the presidential balloting.

Nikita Khrushchev, the Soviet prime minister who made plenty of headlines of another sort, came in second in the editors' judgment.

Kennedy's victory, in its closeness one of the most exciting in the nation's history, sent to the White House the youngest elected president in history and the first Roman Catholic.

Khrushchev, last year's top newsmaker, had to settle this year for first place in the foreign affairs category.

And, indeed, Khrushchev had a busy year: Promoting a summit conference, getting it, and then breaking it up before it got started in his anger over the American U-2 spy plane incident. He broke into headlines again with his visit to the United Nations General Assembly meeting where he (1) groused bitterly over his confinement to New York City, (2) proposed anew his old disarmament plan, (3) demanded reorganization of the United Nations, and (4) pounded his desk with his shoe in protest during a speech by British Prime Minister Harold MacMillan.

Other winners in the Associated Press survey of its 3,800 newspaper, radio and television members were: Religion, Pope John XXIII; business and industry, George Romney; science, Wernher Von Braun; labor, James Hoffa; literature, Allen Drury; entertainment, the late Clark Gable, and sports, Floyd Patterson.

Pope John won the religion category for the third straight year, but it was a rather narrow victory over evangelist Billy Graham. The pope made headlines with his early December meeting with the Rev. Geoffrey Fisher, archbishop of Canterbury head of the Angelican Church.

German-born Wernher Von Braun won the balloting in the science category for the fourth straight year.

The labor winner, Jimmy Hoffa, was in and out of the news all year in his running feud with the government monitors supervising the affairs of his Teamster's Union. Near year's end, he was indicted on a charge of mail fraud.

"Advise and Consent," a novel of the United States Senate at work, won the literature division for author Allen Drury. Drury's book was at or near the top of the best seller list from the beginning of the year to the end.

Death came to Clark Gable, and newsmen regarded his death as the end of an era in motion pictures.

Floyd Patterson's knockout of Ingemar Johansson to regain the heavyweight boxing crown also gave him the title of top newsmaker in sports. But it was a close decision over Casey Stengel, who regained the American League pennant and lost his job as manager of the New York Yankees.

Farmers Advised To Keep Books

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (UPI) — If farmers can find enough time from crops and cattle to keep consistent business records, they may save some money, the Texas A&M College Extension Service says.

C. H. Bates, farm management specialist, said records of 1960 operations, for example, can help determine depreciation deductions for tax purposes.

"Farmers tend to omit items of business expense during seasons when little profit is made," Bates said. "It is important to show the entire loss. If a net operating loss occurs, the farmer may be able to obtain a tax refund."

STRICKEN GIRL'S MOST-WANTED GIFT

Seven-year-old Ginger Stewart of Indianapolis, suffering from brain cancer, cuddles her 2-month-old kitten, the gift she wanted most for Christmas. The child isn't expected to live through next year. Three Marooned Near Marin Lakes

Three San Francisco city employees, who went for a Christmas hike on Marin Municipal Water District lands between Phoenix and Alpine Lakes, became lost and were marooned overnight.

It required two relays of sheriff's searchers to rescue them.

A fourth member of the hiking party, Daniel Spira, 18, made his way out and notified sheriff's officers at 7 p.m. Sunday. But the first team of rescuers, reaching the lost hikers about midnight, found the fog so thick they had difficulty getting back to the road.

A second rescue party meantime took the trail, reaching the first crew of deputies, with the lost San Franciscans in tow, about 3 a.m. yesterday near the Meadow Club.

Wolfgang Hadda, 40, a city librarian; his wife, Ilse, 36, a social worker; Mrs. Regine Spira, 42, also a social worker, and Mrs. Spira's son Daniel drove to Phoenix Lake on Christmas and started on a hike from the parking lot about noon.

The fog closed in on the mountainside. The party soon lost its way.

Young Daniel volunteered to go for help. He reached the Meadow Club stables about 7 p.m. and telephoned sheriff's officers.

Deputies Kenneth Irving and Robert Bertrand started up the mountain with Spira. They found the lost hikers about midnight, beyond the end of Fish Gulch Road, above the lakes. They had pulled grass and piled it around them to try to keep out the intense cold.

They started back, but it was "so foggy if they got six or eight feet from each other, they became lost," the deputies related.

Using a portable loudspeaker, they roused the fog-bound hikers and their rescuers as they were nearing the Meadow Club on their descent from the mountain.

After being given soup at the sheriff's office, the San Franciscans were driven to Phoenix Lake, where they picked up their car and drove home—thoroughly chilled, but otherwise unharmed.

Technician Found Dead; Hose Attached To Exhaust

The body of John Oliver Brown, 27-year-old Kentfield electronics technician, was found yesterday in his parked car on a lonely fire road, a hose run from the exhaust to the interior of the closed automobile.

The body was discovered shortly after 3 p.m. by Benjamin P. Webb of 30 Upland Road, Kent Woodlands, as he was hiking with his children along Phoenix Road.

Webb pulled the body from the car, then ran to a home on Crown Road and telephoned the Kentfield Fire Department and the sheriff's officers. Kentfield firemen arrived to attempt resuscitation until Brown was pronounced dead by Dr. Lee Cecil of San Rafael.

Mrs. Brown told Sheriff's Inspector William Bradley her husband had indicated several times "he was going to do something like this."

Brown was employed by Pacific Electrical Institute in San Francisco. He and Mrs. Brown were married about a year ago. She has three children by a former marriage.

The body was taken to Keaton's in San Rafael.

JACK OF ALL TRADES—Biology teacher, designer, photographer, filmstrip producer, are the occupations of 39-year-old Ellsworth Hagen of 59 Forest Terrace, Fairfax. He is seen holding a camera he uses in the production of educational filmstrips for an El Cerrito firm and the plans he drew up for the house (in the background) that he has spent the last two years building. Fairfax Teacher's Microfilm Slides Used In Classrooms Across Nation

By DOROTHY SLATTERY

Small canned rolls of microfilmed slides, used for teaching elementary natural science in classrooms across the nation, have their beginnings in the Fairfax home of a Sir Francis Drake High School biology teacher.

Ellsworth Hagen, a tall, lean, sandy-haired, 39-year-old scientist, has been writing and producing filmstrips for the Long Filmslide Service of El Cerrito for more than 10 years. The firm's president discovered Hagen in a classroom of Tracy High School, where the young teacher was working after his graduation from the University of California in 1947.

Long spotted a chart Hagen had drawn and offered him a job compiling and writing film strips.

Each filmstrip is a 30-frame microfilmed series used in audio-visual education in grammar and high schools.

Hagen pooled his interests in art and photography and sat down to the task of creating a series for Long in natural science. He came up with "Introducing Cells," "Introducing Invertebrates" and "Introducing Vertebrates," which have been used in classrooms in hundreds of schools.

He is now working on a new series for Long, due next month, on plants, the use of the microscope, collection of insects and the dissection of the frog.

The first thing done in the production of a filmstrip is the writing of the script, Hagen said. After compiling his ideas on paper he goes about illustratitng his work. "I get the point over by the picture if possible," he said.

Hagen has at his disposal a film library of several thousand pictures he has collected on field trips over the years. When he needs to fill in a blank, he can sit down at his drawing board and whips it up in a matter of minutes.

The sample slide is pasted on cardboard 11 inches by 14 and photographed in color with a 35 millimeter camera. Later the film is rephotographed with a specially designed camera and placed on a slide, canned and shipped for distribution.

Hagen said his series are used mostly in grammar school in a new stepped-up science program. "The teacher doesn't have to know much about what is being shown," he said.

AN ACTIVE MAN who describes himself as "interested in natural science as a boy," Hagen enrolled in "bugology" at University of California in 1939. His classes were interrupted by World War II, in which he served a stint as a "sergeant of some kind," making a malaria survey around the United States and in Saipan in 1944. After his discharge he took his bachelor of science degree at Cal in 1947.

Two years ago he took a leave of absence from film making to design and build a two-bedroom, contemporary house with a beam ceiling at 59 Forest Terrace, Fairfax.

Last April he married Marcia Norwood, attractive young freshman history teacher at Drake.

Asked why he tackled anything as big as a house to build, Hagen quipped, "hate to buy anything I can do myself." He learned to do the job studying a building book and traveling around the Bay Area examining houses under construction.

"Anyway," he added, "had the house in the back of my mind for years and the time had come to do it or shut up."

He's now putting in the last bedroom and starting to build the furniture in a contemporary Danish design. He learned cabinet making by taking "a course in the seventh grade," he laughed.

For recreation, Hagen enjoys sitting down at an easel to work in oils or going out on a photographic assignment for the high school's publicity department.

For the future, Hagen plans on staying in Fairfax, teaching biology and making filmstrips on the side.

Army Devises Instant Bread

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The Army has come up with a preparation which could be described as almost instant, nearbread.

Designed primarily for battlefield kitchens, the mixture can be prepared and baked in 45 minutes. It contains flour, shortening, a bit of sugar and a chemical yeast substitute called Delta-Lactome.

But after the Army got together the bread-appearing concoction it ran into the problem of making it taste like something hot out of mother's oven.

Researchers came up with an additive including cottonseed meal and glucose, which give the Army's mixture a homey flavor.

State Chiropracters

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A recent count by the State Department of Professional and Vocational Standards shows that there are 5,301 licensed chiropractors in California.

TO SEEK TITHES

Catholic Pastor Rejects Carnivals, Bazaars, Raffles

WEST NEW YORK, N.J. (AP)—The pastor of a Roman Catholic church here says there'll be no more carnivals, bazaars or raffles to get funds for parish needs.

Instead, church members will be asked to donate 10 per cent of their gross income to the church and church-approved charities.

Rev. John P. Weigand said yesterday he was taking the step to put an end to the church's "carnival atmosphere."

The system he outlined — which really isn't new at all — goes back to the early days of the church. It is called tithing.

In New York City, a spokesman for the Jesuit weekly magazine "America" said the custom of tithing is virtually unknown to Catholic parishes in the United States.

But he said Father Weigand would be within his rights in specifying to parishioners how to apply the law of the church, which obligates all Catholics to contribute to church support.

Father Weigand is pastor of St. Joseph's Church of the Palisades. The parish contains 7,200 families and is one of the largest in the state.

He said he had been preparing his parishioners for the new system for 10 weeks by a series of pastoral letters and pronouncement. The plan, he said, could not be considered compulsory.

Tulane Ace Mason Is First Pick

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Halfback Tommy Mason of Tulane today was named the No. one choice at the National Football League's player draft by the league s newest team, the Minnesota Vikings.

Mason ranked 15th in the nation in both rushing and pass receiving this past season despite playing with a losing team.

He tied for sixth in scoring with 13 touchdowns and 78 points.

A 9.8 sprinter, 21 years old, and a regular for three years, Mason carried 120 times for 673 yards and a 5.6 average, and caught 28 passes for 376 yards for five touchdowns in 1960.

The Vikings have talked with the New York Giants about George Shaw, and Los Angeles on the availability of a surplus Ram quarterback.

Washington, using a first choice acquired from Dallas in the Eddie LeBaron trade, selected Norman Snead, Wake Forest quarterback, and then—on its regular first round pick—took Joe Rutgens, Illinois tackle.

Other first round choices:

Baltimore, after deliberating more than 35 minutes, selected Tom Matte, Ohio State quarterback.

NFL owners, cognizant of inroads made by the new American Football League and the Canadian League in signing U.S. college players, were taking their time before making a draft choice.

'You Can't Go Any Further,' Says Shaw After Big Victory

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Philadelphia Eagles have their first National Football League title in 11 years and they did it by coming up with the big stopper on defense, clutch passing by Norm Van Brocklin and rookie Ted Dean's 58-yard kickoff return on a newly installed play.

The Eagles, a Cinderella team which rose from last in 1958 to second last year and the Eastern Conference crown this season to defeat Green Bay 17-13 for the world championship.

For Coach Buck Shaw and Van Brocklin, both retiring, it marked the greatest moment in their long and colorful football careers. Sports writers voted Van Brocklin, 34, the outstanding player of the game.

Shaw, 61, who installed the play which led to the winning touchdown in the fourth quarter, said after the game: "You can't go any further than this." It was Shaw's first title in 12 years of coaching professional football.

For Green Bay, a last-place team like the Eagles just two seasons ago, it was a day of heartbreak. The final gun sounded with the Packers on the Eagles' 9-yard line where iron-man Chuck Bednarik had stopped fullback Jim Taylor.

The Packers, the Western Conference champions, twice led in the game watched by a sellout crowd of 67,325 which paid the largest gate in NFL championship history.

Green Bay led 6-0 on field goals of 20 and 23 yards by Paul Hornung but the Eagles struck like lightning in the second quarter, going from their own 43 for a touchdown on just two pass plays.

Van Brocklin, a 12-year veteran who played in four previous championships while with Los Angeles, connected with Tommy McDonald for 22 yards, then hit the slippery slotback again with a 35-yard touchdown strike. Bobby Walston added the extra point to put the Eagles ahead 7-6.

The Eagles increased the lead to 10-6 when Walston booted a 15-yard field goal set up by Van Brocklin passes of 41 yards to Pete Retzlaff and 22 yards to Dean.

The real clincher, however, came after the Packers had taken a 13-10 lead on a seven-yard TD pass from Bart Starr to Max McGee in the fourth quarter. That was Dean's five-yard touchdown run which he set up himself with a kickoff return to the Packers' 39 right after Green Bay's final score.

The kickoff return play was a new one Shaw installed last week.

"Only for that runback by Dean, we probably would have held them," said Packers coach Vince Lombardi.

Lombardi also singled out Van Brocklin for praise.

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Bill Brown of Illinois was a tireless workhorse. Bobby Fischer of Nebraska scintillated with his darting dashes. Henry Oppermann of Penn State had glue on his fingers and Tom Blanda of Army threw bullseyes from his quarterback spot.

Those factors, combined with a rugged defense, proved the difference as the North All-Stars overwhelmed the South, 41-14, in the 13th annual Shrine football game in the Orange Bowl last night.

South led at the intermission 14-6. North power began to assert itself in the second half, however.

Guard Hurt During East Squad Workout

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Purdue's Ron Maltoney may not play much here Saturday in the East-West Shrine charity football game.

The 5-10, 210-pound offensive guard injured his right knee yesterday while blocking in a two-hour drill. The knee wasn't fractured, an official said, but it was badly bruised.

167 STROKES—AND HE WON!

Ever hear of a golfer winning first place in a tournament with a score of 167 strokes?

Well, the Meadow Club had one Friday when Greg Mason made that score during the club's caddies tournament. Thanks to a generous handicap system, Mason had a net score of 66 with the benefit of 102 handicap strokes. His 66 tied for low net honors with Ralph Pepi who had 90-24—66.

Low gross honors went to D. C. Schrimpsher with a neat 81.

Big Schools Defeat Small College Stars

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—As was expected, passing played a key role in yesterday's third annual All-American Bowl, with the major school team tripping the small school players 25-12.

Redwood Five Gets First Taste Of Sweet Victory

Redwood High School's cagers got their first taste of victory for the season last night—and it was sweeter than any Christmas candy.

After six straight defeats, the Giants, performing on their home court, knocked off the Lincoln High School Mustangs of San Francisco 39-31 on the Redwood court last night.

The Mustangs dominated the first and third quarters of the game, but the Giants more than made up for those bad stanzas with strong second and fourth frames. Lincoln led 11-3 at the close of the first period and it seemed that the cold Redwood team was headed for another beating. In the second quarter, however, the Giants found the range to lead 16-15 at intermission.

Then Redwood ran into another slump in the third quarter and the visitors forged ahead 24-20. Again the Giants pulled out the throttle in the closing period to can 19 big points while their foes were tallying but seven.

Big guns in the Redwood attack were Rich Brear, with 13 points, largely on jump shots, and Mike Hoffman, who held down the post position and collected 11 points as he slipped away from his defensive man for close-in layups.

The game was marred by frequent fouling, the Giants being charged with 20 violations, the Mustangs with 19.

Redwood was the more accurate at the free throw stripe, sinking 17 of 30 as compared with but 13 of 29 for Lincoln. The winners also had an 11 to nine edge in field goals.

Redwood travels to San Francisco Thursday to play Mission High in another non-league affair.

The FISHIN' FOOL

STEVENS

The time has come to say a few words anent "coiled line fishing."

From now until about the middle of March such spots as the Big Break, Sherman Island Lake and Frank's Tract will be resting places for lunker bass. This is the period when the coiled line addict has his innings.

Some folks disparage this method, but although admittedly slow fishing, many arden anglers maintain that coiled line fishing is tops.

The latter group are those who have the know-how. The ones who realize there is a lot more technique required than in most other methods.

They know, for example, that any noise made in the boat—the scraping of feet on the bottom, shifting tackle boxes and the like—may well chase away any bass that are around. They realize that hard contact with the sides or bottom of the boat sets up a series of vibrations in the water, so they are very careful to avoid such contacts.

They know, too, that when they near the spot they have chosen to work, they must shut off the motor and let the skiff drift toward the spot until the forward motion of the boat has ceased. Then, they will lower (not throw) the anchor over the bow, allow the boat to drift until 20 feet back from the anchor and lower a second anchor to the stern.

AFTER THE boat has settled, they take their time in rigging up their gear. (The wise guys will have along a box of "chum" which they will toss well away from the boat in a semi-circle).

They will be using a fairly long, (8½ or 9 feet) light rod; probably 200 yards of 15-pound test monofilament line on a plug-casting reel. At the end of the light line they will attach a medium size hook (a 5/0 is about right), but no sinker.

Next, they will cut off the head and tail from a sardine, run a knife along the back and remove the backbone. They will turn this fillet inside out and thread the hook, in short stitches, from one end to the other. At the upper end they will make a few winds of red thread so as to keep the long fillet from bunching up.

THE EXPERT now makes a long cast (the weight of the sardine is sufficient to allow for a long cast), and when the bait sinks to the bottom, he will rest his rod on the side of the boat.

He now reaches down and strips 20-25 feet of line from the reel and coils it on the seat beside him or on the bottom of the boat.

Okay, so our expert is now fishing. He can whistle, sing or discuss world affairs with his buddy if a buddy is present. But you can bet the family jewels that neither his buddy nor he will make any sound that can be transmitted to the water.

He may have to sit there with nothing happening for an hour or longer, but let's assume there are some big bass in the neighborhood.

AS HE watches his coiled line (seldom does he take his eyes off the coils or the tip of his rod) he sees one of the coils give a shudder as though waking from sleep. He glances quickly at the rod tip. Yes, the tip is nodding slightly. He tenses and lowers his glance. That first coil has slowly straightened out. It starts up through first one guide and then another while other coils are awakening and following in pursuit.

No question, now, but what something alive has picked up the bait. His pulse quickens, his fingers itch to pick up the rod and attempt to set the hook in the grizzly mouth of the fish.

BUT HE knows his stuff. He is hep to the ways of such fish. He knows full well that it is almost a certainty that mister bass has not taken that fillet of sardine in his mouth to swallow it. No, the bait is merely being held between the lips of the bass. If he should heave back on his rod now, the fish would simply open his mouth and drop the bait, flip his tail in disgust and head for other parts.

So our expert controls himself. He waits until the last coil has straightened and the rod tip begins to bend. Then, and only then, he picks up the rod and slams home the hook.

IN SUCH shallow water, seldom more than a few feet deep, the bass goes frantic. He rolls on the surface, his head may appear shaking from side to side in an effort to dislodge the hook. He churns the water as he flashes from side to side. He starts away from there in a straight line with his dorsal fin slicing the surface. He feels the slight resistance and turns at right angles, or he may reverse his course and head directly for the boat, or make a wide circle around it. He may and frequently does, keep up the struggle for 30, 40 or more minutes, and every second of every minute is a nerve-wracking, thrill-packed ordeal for the human at the other end of the line.

Such a fish may weigh 40 pounds or only 14 pounds, but seldom will you ever be bothered with really small bass.

I should mention that quite often, a bass will make what seems to be a "hooked-run," taking nearly all the line and then come to a sudden stop. Should you reel in you would likely find the bait hardly bruised and no fish hooked. It isn't wise to retrieve any line when that sudden stoppage occurs, better simply strip off enough line to make up for what has gone.

TOO MANY anglers reel in to "look at my bait" when a long run was had but no fish hooked. Chances are that the fish never was hooked, he was merely carrying it around between his lips—sort of a test run, as it were. By the same token the fish is very likely still around. He may still decide to have dinner. It's happened that way with me many times.

So that is a description of coiled line fishing as it should be done. Try it one of these days and I'll bet you'll agree it's hard to beat for pure sport.

1960 A Booming Sports Year In The West; L.A. Saturated

By HAL WOOD

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The all-encompassing sports boom rolled over the West again in 1960, setting attendance records in some places and lack of interest in others.

But the gold rush prospectors pushed ahead seeking new worlds to conquer in professional sports.

Los Angeles, which gains more new citizens per year than do most states, appeared to be reaching the saturation point. By the close of the year, the City of Angels was host to two professional football clubs, two major college grid teams, two baseball squads and a pro basketball team—just to mention a few activities.

Additionally, the city became the world's fight capital; was the home of the western skin-diving business; and was one of the world's greatest horse racing centers and was fast becoming a mecca for auto racing.

Some of the other cities had it even better. Seattle, for instance, just about sold out the University of Washington Stadium for every college football game this year. And the northern city drew the biggest single crowd of the year for the west—about 250,000 for the hydroplane races during the Sea Fair.

On the other hand, some found the going too rough in professional sports to survive. Sacramento, for more than a half century a member of the Pacific Coast League, threw in the sponge at season's end and the franchise was transferred to Honolulu.

Major League Baseball—The Los Angeles Dodgers finish out of the running for the National League pennant, but set a Dodger attendance record of 2,620,627. Work starts on a new home. San Francisco introduces Candlestick Park to the majors and 1,795,356 turn out during the windy season. Giants fire Bill Rigney as manager in June when club is in second place and it finishes in fifth. Los Angeles awarded new franchise in American League—team to be called "Angels." Arizona becomes major league training camp headquarters with five clubs slated there for spring of 1961.

Minor League Baseball—Pacific Coast League has mediocre financial season. Sacramento franchise moved to Honolulu for 1961. Only one PCL team now left in California—at San Diego. California (Class C) League struggles along with six teams.

Pro Football — American League opens for business and finds it mighty poor in both Los Angeles and San Francisco. Attendance for the two new teams averages around 10,000 per game—at most. National League prosperity continues despite fact both Los Angeles and San Francisco fail in pennant bids. Average about 50,000 per game each.

College Football—Attendance down in both Los Angeles and San Francisco areas. But up in others. Seattle tops list. Utah and Arizona schools show big attendance increases. University of Washington top team in west and wins Rose Bowl bid for second year in row. Utah State tops in Rocky Mountain area. Humboldt State leads all small western teams, gets bowl bid and loses to Lenoir-Rhyne in St. Petersburg, Fla., by one point. Oregon loses in Liberty Bowl to Penn State.

Hydroplane Racing — Growing with the west. Biggest race at Seattle, where 250,000 watch Silver Cup. Other major races attract good crowds. But most important trophy race of all, the Gold Cup at Las Vegas, flops when drivers refuse to go on Lake Mead in choppy waters.

Boxing—Los Angeles takes over from New York as fight center. Six title bouts staged. Fight of year is Sugar Ray Robinson vs. Gene Fullmer for latter's NBA middleweight crown. Ends in draw.

Basketball — San Francisco plays host to NCAA championships and University of California goes to finals in effort to defend crown. But Ohio State wins in walk. Minneapolis Lakers move to Los Angeles, where crowds below expectations.

Sports Car Racing — Riverside attracts 80,000 fans and world's top sports car drivers, including Stirling Moss of England and Jack Brabham of Australia. Leguna Seca races at Monterey, with same drivers, draw 60,000.

Horse Racing — Hollywood Park leads in pari-mutuel handle and attendance again, although there is a slight drop-off. California tracks handle $382,408,000 in 1959, compared with $369,796,798 this year. Attendance for 291 days of racing is 4,746,916.

Golf—The western golf tour is expanded to include both spring and fall dates. Palm Springs stages the first $100,000 golf event in the west with its Desert Classic. Los Angeles, San Diego, Seattle, Portland, Las Vegas, Phoenix and other cities all hold successful shows as the purses go past the quarter-million-dollar mark for the Pacific slope.

Winter Sports—An all-time high reached with the staging of the VIII Olympic Games at Squaw Valley. Impressively handled, they draw acclaim throughout the world. New ski lodges and lifts spring up in nearly every mountain area.

Aussie Netmen Score Clincher Over Italy

SYDNEY, Australia (AP)—Australia shattered Italy's fondest dream today and won the Davis Cup when Neale Fraser and Roy Emerson whipped Nicola Pietrangeli and Orlando Sirola in the challenge round doubles, 10-8, 5-7, 6-2, 6-4.

The victory sent the Aussies into a 3-0 lead and means tomorrow's final two singles matches will be meaningless.

This marked the fifth time in the last six years Australia has won the cup. The Aussies have been involved in every challenge round since 1938 and have run up 10 victories.

In fact, this year was the first time since 1938 that Australia and the United States haven't slugged it out for the top prize in amateur tennis.

The Italians, after being down 2-0, rebounded and defeated the United States in the interzone final two weeks ago.

This time, though, there was no miracle in the cards. They dropped the first two singles matches to Fraser and Rod Laver yesterday.

Fraser and Emerson, playing steady if not spectacular tennis, grabbed the upper hand at the start today and appeared to get stronger and more accurate as the match progressed.

Tribute Paid Gopher Coach

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Murray Warmath of Minnesota took time out from planning Rose Bowl strategy last night to be honored by the Los Angeles Times as college coach of the year.

Brown was named lineman of the year. Armstrong received a special award as did coach Jim Owens of Washington, Warmath's counterpart in the forthcoming Rose Bowl contest.

Santa Venetia Boy, 14, Hurt During Rifle Target Practice

A 14-year-old Santa Venetia boy yesterday suffered a bullet wound in a target practice accident, the second such mishap within a week in Marin County.

Richard Martin Kirby of 105 Garden Avenue was treated and released at San Rafael General Hospital about 8 p.m. for what was described as a "superficial" wound to his left foot.

He told sheriff's deputies he was target shooting in the hills behind his home late yesterday when he slipped and fell, discharging his .22-caliber rifle.

The slug went through his shoe, creasing the second and third toes, hospital attendants said.

A more serious gun accident happened last Thursday when Donald Chester Cox, 17, of 16 Myrtle Avenue, San Anselmo, was shot in the lung.

Cox and two friends were shooting at targets and birds near China Camp when one of the guns accidently discharged, striking Cox. He was in "good" condition in San Rafael General Hospital today, according to hospital attendants.

Marshland Area Hearing On Again

There will be a continued public hearing before the Mill Valley Planning Commission at 8 p.m. today on circulation and land use plans for Mill Valley's marshland area.

The area lies within the boundaries of Camino Alto, Ashford Avenue, Highway 101 and Miller Avenue Extension.

PG&E Ready To Open Big Gas Pipeline

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Pacific Gas and Electric Co., which claims to supply more electricity than any other firm in the United States, says it handles five times as much energy in natural gas. It will open an important new source from Canada this year.

Norman H. Sutherland, PG&E president, said today the new 1,400-mile natural gas line from Alberta, Canada, to San Francisco will supply 415,000 million cubic feet of gas a day by next winter. This will supplement supplies from California, Texas and New Mexico fields.

Construction of the 36-inch pipe line started in October. At the peak of construction next summer it will employ more than 3,000 persons. About 16,800 carloads of pipe from mills at Napa, Provo, Utah, and Canada will go into the line.

The company plans a major step forward next year in the development of atomic power. It will start construction of a 60,000-kilowatt atomic - electric generating plant near Eureka. Production is scheduled for 1962.

Three additional 40-million-dollar steam-electric generating plants using conventional fuel will be started or are under way. The second of two 330,000-kilowatt units will be completed next year at Pittsburg. Two more are getting under way at Morro Bay.

Saddles, Blankets Stolen At Club

Three saddles and two blankets were stolen from the Meadow Club Stables in Fairfax over the Christmas weekend, it was reported yesterday to the Marin County Sheriff's Dept. by William Dennis, stable manager.

The thief entered the stable door which was open to display the Christmas decorations, Dennis said.

Santa Arrives By Boat For Yacht Club Children's Party

Rudolph, the red-nosed reindeer, guided a sailboat bringing jolly St. Nicholas in his sleigh up to the dock of the Sausalito Yacht Club last Sunday morning.

An excited group of very small sailors, children of members, greeted him from the deck of the new clubhouse and watched with impatient delight while he and his helpers struggled up the gangway and into the hall with heavily laden duffle bags filled with gifts for good little crewmen.

In his mysterious way, St. Nick remembered every request and called each child by name to receive a present from under the gaily decorated Christmas tree. Following the gift opening merriment, ice cream and candy canes were enjoyed to the accompanying strains of familiar yuletide carols.

Arrangements for the party, sponsored by the Women's Auxiliary of the Yacht Club, were made by Mrs. William Bentinck and Mrs. Leonard Delmas. Among their assistants were Mr. and Mrs. William New, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Williams, Mrs. Peter Fromhagen, Mrs. James Grisham and Miss Cheryl Doyle. Mr. and Mrs. Neil Munroe helped Santa with transportation from the North Pole.

Holy Family Guild Sponsors Christmas Tea At Convent

Members of the Holy Family Guild held their annual Christmas Tea at the Holy Family Convent in San Anselmo. Mrs. Walter Garrett, president, presided and introduced the officers for the year 1960. The sisters were presented with many baskets of canned goods for their cupboards, plus a money gift, proceeds of the many sponsored functions held in the county throughout the year.

Mrs. William Fahy presented Mrs. Garrett with a corsage and thanked her in behalf of the guild for the wonderful leadership and inspiration she had given in the past years as president. Mrs. Garrett's mother, Mrs. Julia Prendergast of Butte, Mont., here for a visit, was also presented with a corsage.

Mrs. Garrett introduced the new officers: Mrs. Dan C. Crowley, president; Mrs. G. J. Ehler, vice president; Mrs. Herbert Neal, recording secretary; Mrs. Herbert Schroeder, financial secretary; Mrs. Arthur Luchetti, treasurer, and Mrs. Harry Clark, corresponding secretary.

A kaffee klatsch was held recently at St. Rita's Parish in Fairfax under the auspices of the guild. Attending were mothers of the children in the School of Religion. Mrs. Clark and Mrs. Kenneth Larkins told of the splendid work the Sisters of the Holy Family do in teaching religion and the assistance given to them by the guild. Ten new members were taken into the guild.

A Winter Holiday For Grandmothers Of Mill Valley

Some of the venturesome spirit of true pioneers characterizes two Mill Valley grandmothers who recently returned from a tour of the Northwest in what they called "The Grandmothers" Ark."

On Nov. 23 Mrs. Hugh Corthell and Mrs. Paul Goodman headed for the Northwest in the 1953 Ford station wagon belonging to Mrs. Corthell's daughter.

It was when the rain started coming down in torrents that they named the wagon the "Grandmothers' Ark." Pushing onward they drove through a blinding storm going over siskiyous until they got stuck in the snow at 5 o'clock one morning.

Mrs. Corthell explained here they preferred driving at night because there is less traffic then, and bus and truck drivers are more courteous.

Equipped with mattress, blankets, pillows, boxes of food and a "little brown jug" of coffee, they relaxed a while before tackling the job of launching the ark once more.

After applying purex to the rear tires and jockeying the chains onto the wheels, they drove on as daylight came, and the old ark sailed right along until they arrived in Astoria, Ore., in mid-morning.

Entertained royally by friends there, they also had the interesting experiences of meeting some high ranking officers in the German Navy who were there on business, and they visited the tongue naval base on the Columbia River.

Going on to Portland the two grandmothers found they fortunately had "More friends than money," and again they were widely entertained before they drove on to Tacoma and Seattle. In Seattle they were the house guests of Mr. and Mrs. Robin Corthell and saw a number of their married children and their grandchildren.

Next on their itinery were the Shasta Dam and Redding, Calif., where they visited Mrs. Mary Richardson, a past president of the Mill Valley Women's Golf Club.

On their way home to Mill Valley they stopped at Nevada City, Calif., to gather mistletoe and greens.

So charmed was Mrs. Corthell with her safari that she is planning to return to the Northwest for the holidays.

No, the pioneer spirit is not dead–as the two grandmothers proved by what they call their "Travels on four wheels and no brakes."

Americans Getting To Big For Beds

So concludes a Chicago executive whose business is keeping up with how Americans fit beds in hotels, motels, hospitals, nursing homes and other institutions throughout the nation.

Robert Greengoss, president of Morton Textile and Furniture, a firm which has furnished more than 110,000 motel and hotel rooms in the past 15 years, also said that today's young Americans are growing much bigger than their parents.

"Their feet hang over the edge of ordinary beds," he said. "For many of them cold feet is a continual problem when sleeping."

Do's And Dont's On Home Planning

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Planning a new home, or getting ready to remodel your present one? Here are a few "do's and don't" from a leading interior decorator.

Harvey L. Ackerman, vice president of the Southern California chapter of the American Institute of Decorators said that home decor should transcend "fads, furbelows and finicky fashion."

"Homes should not be created for effect but for convenience," Ackerman said. "Rooms should have an easy maintenance standard, eye appeal, facility for everyday living and the important occasional large party."

Most important, he said, is the fact that every member of the family be entitled to personal likes reflected in the manner of furnishing.

But he disagreed with a New York designer who recently decreed that television could be a charming addition to the bathroom.

"I see no need of a TV set—with or without windshield wipers—so that one can continue looking at a favorite program through the shower spray," he said.

All Ages Want Collegiate Look

A girdle manufacturer (Gossard) made the study in an attempt to find out why both college girls and their mothers were buying the same lightweight, easy to don girdles, usually two-way stretches.

The survey showed that homemakers and other women beyond college age account for 80 per cent of the business of college shops and departments. The shops report that most older customers pass up the severe sports clothes for cashmere sweaters and matching skirts and casual go-everywhere dresses.

Seasons Influence Choice Of Spices

NEW YORK (UPI) — Spice uses change from season to season and from region to region.

In the winter, oregano, popular in Italian-style dishes, is most often used, said the R. T. French Co., a spice and herb firm. More sage, excellent with pork and other meats, is used in the fall. And garlic, which gives an especially good flavor to barbecued dishes and salads, is most often used in summer.

Pepper heads the list of 14 most popular spices. Other popular choices: allspice, bay leaves, celery seed, cinnamon, chili powder, cloves, cumin, ginger, nutmeg, oregano, paprika, sweet basil, sage and saffron.

WHEN THE SAN FRANCISCO Yacht Club Auxiliary presented "Christmas Luxuries in Fashions and Furs" recently, the gentlemen club members were issued a special invitation for obvious reasons. Robert A. Davies of Belvedere is sharing the fashion commentating job with Mrs. Don Carlberg, right, of Little Reed Heights. Mrs. Kirby Atterbury, Auxiliary president, center, lends a helping hand. Cocktails were served at the affair held at the clubhouse. (Paul S. Marcucci photo.)

FLUID MOTION for your most festive occasions is created with greater subtlely than ever by Adele Simpson, a master of mobile line. Noted for her quiet elegance and totally feminine effect, she fashioned this black enchantress in Julius Werk's beautiful crepe of Celanese acetate and rayon. Dramatic currents of silk chiffon drift gracefully through a round of social appointments with disarming elegance. The romantic bodice achieves a new slant on the significant covered-up look.

Nursery School Suggestions For At-Home Activities Over Holidays

Mrs. Jerome Jacobson of the Mill Valley Cooperative Nursery School has some suggestions for mothers on how to keep pre-schoolers busy during the holidays.

She finds cookie baking — using the easy commercial cookie mixes—a favorite with the youngsters, if mother has the time for supervision and isn't too fussy about obtaining adult standards or cleanup afterward. And, of course, there is the possibility that more may be eaten than baked.

Mrs. Jacobson recommends the following procedure.

A low table spread with a pastry cloth or with a washable surface is easiest for a small child to work on, and newspapers spread underneath help in cleaning up afterwards. Spread the surface with a mixture of flour and granulated sugar if the child is going to roll out and cut cookies. Show her how to roll the dough thin enough (or pat it), and how to flour the cutter.

Raisings can be used as decorations before baking; other decorations are best applied afterwards by brushing on corn syrup or powdered sugar and water glaze to make them stick.

If you don't feel like baking but want to decorate cookies, icings and decorations are easily applied to large, flat sugar cookies sold in all markets.

Children also love to decorate plain white paper plates to hold the cookies. Food colors diluted with water and applied with cotton balls or Q-tips decorate the plates nicely. We use large jar tops to hold the colors so they won't spill easily.

GOODIE TREES

A child can pick a small branch and put it into a small flower pot with a large hunk of plasticine. The clay can be covered with foil, or if you want to be very fancy, you can use a brand new flower pot with a little paraffin at the bottom, and fill the rest with chocolate shavings or rock candy.

Pieces of pipe cleaners are easy for children to stick into soft candy and marshmallows. Candy should be attached to both ends of the pipe cleaners, and then the cleaners may be bent in the middle and draped on the branchs. Dried fruits work just as well as candies for this treat. You can add a bow or two for additional color and balance.

POMANDER BALLS— FOR FRAGRANCE

A child can stick whole cloves into firm oranges, and you can fill in left-out spaces. Sprinkle the entire ball with orris root, obtainable at a drugstore, and it's also nice to add a little ground cinnamon or nutmeg to the orris root powder. Let it stand a few days and shake off excess powder—then tie a ribbon around the ball and hang it where it will give a pleasant odor and a bright touch.

RHYTHM TOYS

Rhythm instruments—Small cans, filled with dry beans, and sealed with cardboard and tape may be decorated by children with Christmas seals, colored tape, etc., and used for shakers to accompany records or by themselves. Small bells strung together also make good rhythm instruments.

Pipe cleaners, bells and a paper plate can be combined to make a tambourine-like instrument. You will have to punch the holes in the side of the plate for the child, but he will be able to attach the bells to the pipe cleaners and put the pipe cleaners through the holes.

Grooming Tip

NEW YORK (UPI) — Psst, teen-age males:

Water will not keep hair down long and it tends to dry the scalp. For that reason, an oil-based hair tonic is considered best. With this, you can use all the water you want because the oil-based tonic replaces the oil that water removes from hair and scalp.

Musical Parties For The Family Will Begin Friday In Mill Valley

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

In the "Bach to Mozart" series of musical parties for the whole family starting Friday evening, Dec. 30 in Brown's Hall, Mill Valley, may lie the answer to two important problems for music lovers and performers.

The first is how families who cannot afford to go to the opera or symphony or chamber music concerts can hear top quality live music at reasonable prices.

The other is finding a better means of keeping musicians employed than the sometimes proposed government subsidy.

Homestead Valley people, who are sponsoring the series as a community project, believe they have the answer. And over tea cups at the home of Mrs. Philip Heyman, public relations chairman for the series, several of the Bach to Mozartists explained the reasons, with oboist Raymond Duste serving as principal spokesman.

Referring to those present—violist (not violinist) Mary James, and violinist Everett O'Bannon, Duste said, "We and the others in our group of up to 15 musicians are nucleus of a group of former San Francisco Little Symphony members who wanted to continue playing together after it broke up about 1957.

"First we just got together to play music. Then we thought of how the Little Symphony raised funds through a series of musical evenings given in any private home that was large enough to throw a party. They worked, for they pulled it out of the red.

"Next we remembered how the Little Symphony got $21,000 from the Rockefeller Foundation and $13,000 from the Rosenberg Foundation because they were so much interested in encouraging support of music among people themselves rather than through government subsidy.

"We believe that we were one of the first small groups—they seem to be springing up everywhere now—in the country to start this grass roots movement, and our first experiment was something like a jazz session, except that the music we played was classical. The place was a San Francisco cocktail lounge.

"We merely started playing, and the first thing we knew, people without any particular musical background gathered around us and were enjoying classical music."

The group then undertook the now famous concerts in a restaurant at Nepenthe, Big Sur. So successful were they that after two years admission is by invitation only.

In response to the comment that a family audience including children might be quite a different situation, Duste explained, "We find children like the same good music as adults—we don't intend to play down to them. After all, music is an emotional experience and emotions are shared by adults and children alike.

"As for whether children's attention can be held, we know from experience that it can, and we expect to earn it by our manner of presentation. Furthermore, we don't expect pin-drop silence nor is it necessary."

Mrs. Heyman pointed out here that mothers will control this problem largely by not bringing the very young children.

Anyone who doubts that high quality music appeals to youngsters and can hold their attention should have seen the success with which Cleveland's "Symphonia" string quartet entertained 400 fourth, fifth and sixth graders in the Reed Union School District at Bel Aire School last spring.

Duste, who is himself a member of the San Francisco Symphony, opera and ballet orchestras, a soloist for five years at the Bach Festival in Carmel and a teacher of oboe at San Francisco State College and Stanford University, continued with a description of the other musicians making up the "Bach to Mozart" group.

"Mary James," he said "who plays the viola with the San Francisco Symphony and Opera and Berkeley String Quartet, has also appeared as soloist for five years at the Bach Festival and as soloist at the Konzorthaus in Vienna.

"Our cellist, Helen Stross, known to musicians as 'Miss Chamber Music,' is probably the most widely used cellist in Bay Area musical productions. She plays with the Berkeley String Quartet, the Oakland Symphony and the California Quartet for the Composers' Forum.

CHAMBER MUSIC

"Appearing in her place sometimes is Ellen Dossler of the Oakland Symphony and many chamber music organizations in the Bay Area.

"Everett O'Bannon, our violinist, is a member of the San Francisco Symphony, the Marin Arts Quartet, the Berkeley String Quartet and the Capella di Musica Chamber Group of San Francisco, and has played under Leopold Stowkowski with the Huston Symphony.

Other members of our group are flutist Raymond Fabrizio, a teacher at Monterey Feninsula College and soloist with the Bach Festival, and his wife Margaret, who plays the piano and harpsichord at the Bach Festival.

ALL-MOZART

"Friday night we shall play an all-Mozart program consisting of a duo for violin and viola; quartet for flute and strings, quartet for oboe and strings and adagio and rondo for glass harmonica."

For the series everything in Brown's Hall will be conducive to a relaxed, informal atmosphere with the audience seated cabaret style at candlelit tables, according to Mrs. Kurt Schlesinger, president of the sponsoring Homestead Valley Improvement Club.

Refreshments will be served during intermission and after the program, when the musicians plan to visit with those attending the party.

General chairman Mrs. Martin Goldschmidt points out that acoustics in the hall, which will be decorated in a Japanese theme, are excellent and that there is plenty of free parking available.

Series subscriptions and tickets for the party starting Friday at 8:30 p.m. are on sale at the Redwood Book Shop, the Greyhound bus depot and the Marin Music Center, all in Mill Valley.

New Use For Art

CHICAGO (UPI) — Art dealer Samuel R. Schwartz, of Chicago's Guildhall Galleries, wants to put paintings on the walls of bomb shelters.

He said people need something pleasant to look at—instead of each other—while they are using the shelter.

DESIGNER SAYS

Victorian Era Colors Will Return In Wallcoverings

CHICAGO (UPI) — A degigner of wallcoverings, Jack Denst, foresees a return in the next five years to the plush reds and greens of the Victoria era in home decor.

He expects women to take readily to the lavish use of these colors. "Women are becoming increasingly conscious that they look best against a dark, rich background," he said.

Denst makes color predictions by studying the color wheel. "Red and green are immediately adjacent to the colors on the wheel which are presently fashionable, and the public's tastes in color almost always follow the order of color on the wheel," he said.

Denst — with the firm of Denst and Soderlund—said the color wheel also enabled him to predict approximately how long a color trend might last.

A true color period, as opposed to a fad such as the pink and black combination, generally stays in vogue for a period equivalent to the space it occupies on the color wheel," he said. "Red and green — large segments on the wheel — can be expected to remain popular for several years after they come into usage."

Orange, yellow and other colors that zoomed into vogue for only a short time were doomed to a brief life by their small segments on the color wheel, he said.

Denst tries to predict the five-year probabilities in color trends because he needs that long to come up with wallcoverings in the new colors.

"It takes two years to experiment and prepare advance designs and another three years to get into actual production," he said. Denst said he usually met the first demands for new colors from avant garde decorators and homemakers with "custom" colors.

He predicted that red and green decorating schemes would begin showing up in soft shades of rose and possibly khaki green, which would gradually give way to deeper colors. The true blues and purples now in vogue came into usage this way, he said. They appeared first in aqua, turquoise and lavender.

Child Health Meet

The Larkspur-Corte Madera Child Health Conference will be held from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m. at the Redwoods Presbyterian Church, Magnolia and Alexander Avenues, Larkspur. Dr. Mailyn Hicks, attending physician will be assisted by Mrs. Helen Engh, public health nurse, and volunteers from Larkspur and Corte Madera P-TAs. Appointments may be made by phoning Mrs. Richard Glassman, Larkspur.

Prevention

NEW YORK (UPI) — An open container or a thin film of salad or olive oil prevents olives from molding during refrigerator storage, says the Spanish Green Olive Commission. As liquid evaporates from the open container, it should be replaced with a two to one mixture of water and white vinegar. If you prefer the oil method, pour a thin layer of oil on brine-covered olives.

ALMANAC

Today is Tuesday, Dec. 27, the 362nd day of the year with four more in 1960.

The moon is approaching its full phase.

The morning star is Mars.

The evening stars are Mars, Saturn and Venus.

In this day in history:

In 1941, Japanese airplanes bombed Manila in the Philippines.

In 1945, the Big Three—the United States, Great Britain and Russia—announced they would govern Korea as joint trustees for five years and then grant its independence.

A thought for today: Scottish economist Adam Smith said: "The real price of everything, what everything really costs to the man who wants to acquire it, is the toil and trouble of acquiring it."

MARIN BUSINESS And INDUSTRY

(A Thrice-Weekly Column)

By HARRY CRAFT

Some Business Forecasts Are Conspicuous By Contradictions

Promises, resolutions and plans for the new year aren't always kept and what people say now they will do in 1961 may turn out to have stemmed from momentary impulses or wishful thinking.

Still, manufacturers and retailers must speculate on buying trends to keep one jump ahead—or at least abreast of them. Surveys and forecasts made every year at this time usually arouse some interest in businessmen who hope that a measure of accuracy will enable them to chart a course which can be sailed in black ink.

A CANVASS of American consumers implies that many of them will buy more used automobiles in 1961 than they said they would in 1960—and fewer new ones.

Used car dealers would like this to be so, but auto manufacturers don't believe it.

The survey goes on to report that consumers plan to step up their buying of new homes by 13 per cent and ease off on older homes by 18 per cent.

Axiomatically the sale of new homes stimulates other sales—principally home furnishings and appliances but these same respondents said their furnishing buys would not increase, their floor covering buys would drop and only appliances seemed slated for an upsurge. The latter included dishwashers, freezers, ranges, refrigerators, television sets and vacuum cleaners. For some unknown reason washers and dryers are in for a slack time of it.

STILL ANOTHER survey of the industries themselves indicates the greatest optimism by manufacturers of home furnishings. Almost without exception they agreed they will do better in 1961.

Appliance manufacturers don't look for an increase for another six months.

Confronted with these contradictions we decided to seek out information from another source—the retailer. Our quest took us into the San Rafael store of Van-Doyle Home Furnishings, an up-and-coming firm of some three years duration which recently enlarged its quarters to include the former location of Sherwin-Williams Co. next door. The company, said manager Doyle Lockaby, has shown yearly increases in business since it started. It handles home furnishings, floor covering and appliances and seemed to be a good check-out point.

Lockaby opined that furnishings WILL go up in 1961 with more call for quality merchandise and better constructed materials. This tallied with the manufacturers and with an opinion I had previously had from Milt Schwartz of Casa Marin—but not the person-to-person survey.

FLOOR COVERINGS, too should gain or remain steady, said Lockaby. The rage is still on for wall-to-wall carpeting, both in new homes and as replacements. He called one material to our attention which he said is making good headway—something new known as "continuous filament nylon," said to be free of static electricity, easily cleaned, resistant to matting, and apparently a serious contender to the regard for wool carpet which it undersells by two or three dollars a square yard. It is manufactured by most mills—Gulistan, Alexander Smith, Roxbury, Magee and others. He raked it vigorously with a stiff wire brush without shedding, a test that might have embarrassed its short staple predecessor.

Another statement opposed to the consumer survey.

On appliances, Lockaby was not so optimistic. The market has been slow, a fact he blames on the industry's dual distribution methods. Direct competitive sales by manufacturers to builders, multiple dwellings and apartment houses, he said, have made the line a hazardous one for retailers and may snarl it up worse during the months to come.

There you have it — something on merchandising forecasts for 1961.

Remind me to burn up some of them on New Year's Eve—will you?

Now We Must Think About Metropolitan Problems

Residents of metropolitan areas, as we are here in Marin County, must forsake the all-too-general attitude of "let the big cities worry about area-wide planning, we're happy the way we are."

The reason we must forsake it is that if we don't pay attention pretty soon, super government is going to be thrust upon us, we're going to have little or nothing to say about what type of government it's going to be.

In the past few weeks we've had two major hints as to what some people are planning for us.

The consulting firm of Ernst & Ernst, for example, just submitted a report to the Golden Gate Authority Commission. It had one warning in its transmittal letter that we should all heed. It said:

"Unless some workable approach is developed by the Bay Area, however, it is probable that the state may be forced to develop and impose solutions."

Ernst & Ernst had their own recommendations as to what should be done. It included a "properly constituted and representative" authority which would immediately take over all Bay bridges, including the Golden Gate, and would then be able to "negotiate" with seaports and airports for their acquisition and operation—but only after they had shown they could operate the bridges successfully.

The firm warned against creating another planning agency," and said that an authority must have "the necessary organization and financing to discharge (its) responsibilities—the ability to act, not merely to plan." In other words its needs taxing ability.

The Governor's Commission on Metropolitan Area Problems reported last week. The 20-man commission, whose vice chairman was J. Edward Day, President-Elect Kennedy's new postmaster general, made three recommendations for metropolitan government in nine state areas, including the San Francisco Bay Area:

1. That existing and future governmental units be improved, simplified and rationalized.

2. That state legislation permit establishment of "an area-wide governmental framework through which truly area-wide matters can be presented, discussed, decided, and acted upon on an area-wide basis."

The commission declared that such an agency must perform metropolitan planning and could perform nine or more other functions. Of the nine, we would argue about the advisability of about half of them being turned over to a super-agency.

3. That a State Metropoitan Areas Commission be appointed by the governor to act as sort of judge and jury in disputes about boundaries, watch over the metropolitan areas, urge them to make a metropolitan government plan by Jan. 1, 1964, and if the areas haven't done so, do it for them.

In brief, the governor's commission said to metropolitan areas, work out a super-government plan in the next three years—or else.

That's why we have to do some serious thinking about metropolitan area problems.

'I HOPE THE PAIN IS UNBEARABLE'

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Continue Search For Truth

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

I found the letter of Walter A. Gresch (I-J, Dec. 15) contrasting greatly with the truth as I and I am sure many of the "people there to hear both sides" saw it.

He said there were a large number of students there. No more than one-fourth of the people present were students. It seems to me that that was one of the most democratic and fruitful discussions of a controversial subject I have ever heard. There was very little trouble being heard from the floor. The students were not continually causing an uproar as he might imply. Almost everybody who wanted to got a chance to speak.

The "other young man" he talks about must feel complimented, because I sat right next to him, and he was at least 35. He had spoken several times and the chairman asked him to refrain, because the chair wanted to hear from everybody. He was not booed or taunted by the "student group."

Concerning Mr. Gresch's "first young man": The chair did not let him speak at first because he misunderstood his request. The "vociferous" demands were more like "loud," and they came mainly from us "students." His "enlightening information" amounted to little more than fear of a threat of two girls to "line him up against the wall after we get rid of the committee," and a very reactionary view of civil disobedience as "rioting." Many "students" laughed at him because his story was so baseless and reactionary.

Mr. Gresch insists the ACLU projected their arguments continually, while they only suggested that we pay close attention to what the speaker in the film said and what was actually shown, and at the end of the meeting the chairman took no more than a few minutes to give the ACLU's views on the film.

Sure, I agree that every freedom-loving American should see the film. But it is full of such, in Mr. Gresch's words, "obviously prejudiced and distorted arguments," as even William Wheeler, West Coast investigator for the HUAC will admit, that it must be taken "with a grain of salt," just as Mr. Gresch's letter, and mine, must be, and every freedom-loving American must not stop with only a few reports, but must continually search for the "truth."

Points Up Fuzzy Thinking

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

The viewpoint of the American Civil Liberties Union toward the films of the City Hall riots as pointed out by Walter Gresch's letter, is typical of the fuzzy thinking of this organization.

While supporting the rights of hate-filled Communists to destroy our public buildings by inciting riots, according to the I-J this group denies the freedom of men of good will to decorate at their own expense these same buildings with the spirit of Christmas, with a traditional Nativity scene.

Or do civil liberties extend only to those who would destroy America and its culture and not to those who love its traditions.?

Only Paper With Dedication Story

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

Last month the publisher of the Catholic Management Journal (Milwaukee) sent copies to every U. S. diocese with a "public relations" or "information" office. A letter invited comment. As of Dec. 10, replies were 100% favorable. Not heard from was John O'Connor, editor of The Monitor, "the official newspaper of the Archdiocese of San Francisco."

Instead, Mr. O'Connor in your Dec. 14 issue attacked my veracity, accuracy and professional standing as a major contributor to national Catholic magazines.

Mr. O'Connor complains to you of alleged inaccuracies instead of to the magazine publisher. Also, he suggests that your able "church editor" who is studying for the ministry, permitted your columns to be "exploited."

Unlike Mr. O'Connor, I attended the dedication of Our Lady of Loretto school last year. As a resident in Novato since 1945, I rejoiced that after 65 years we finally had a Catholic school. I was dismayed that no V.I.P.'s, reporters, photographers, radio or TV people were there to see what sacrificing laity (I contributed over $600) had achieved.

I phoned the I-J the next morning to make sure that your 30,000 readers would know. You were the ONLY newspaper to publish an account of the ceremonies that week.

Who Painted That 'Left Lane Only?'

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

That must have been a "smart" traffic engineer who dreamed up the "Left Turn Only" lanes on 3rd Street at Irwin in San Rafael.

This street has two lanes at this point and there are usually cars parked in the curb lane, so if you are driving straight through on Third you have to swing to the right then back into the other lane again. And enough people don't believe in signs so drive straight through in the "Left Lane Only" lane—one of these days somebody is going to get clobbered, if it hasn't happened already.

So Mr. Smart Traffic Man, let's paint out that "Only" on the pavement and get this intersection snarl straightened out.

SIX HOUSE FOR THE PRICE OF FIVE

Eskimos in Northern Canada recently showed that illiteracy, like adversity, has its uses.

Receiving a shipment of materials for five pre-fabricated houses, they were stymied for a while because no one could read the instructions. They did the best they could—and built six.

It would be best to wait several winters before deciding whether these unorthodox dwellings will stand the test of time. Nevertheless, we could all learn something from the initiative shown by the hardy builders.

In these days of "organization man," more people than ever look for someone else to give them a blueprint for living. But history is filled with the lives of men who took reasonable chances and went beyond the limits of excessive caution.

God has given you the principles you need for a happy, constructive life. Thank Him by showing personal initiative and good sense in your efforts to serve others.

"Be not slothful in zeal, be fervent in spirit, serving the Lord, rejoicing in hope." (Romans 12:11)

Impel me with Your grace, O Lord, to be daring for the sake of Your kingdom.

Secretary Of State Department Had Only Three People At First

One of every three paid employes today is a woman . . . The other two are men who spend their spare time explaining to a woman why they don't make more money.

Government prosperity note: When Thomas Jefferson became the first U.S. secretary of state the department consisted of three people . . . Now it has more than 35,000 employes.

Here is singer Polly Bergen's recipe for health: "I keep my figure trim by working hard and keeping busy. That way I don't put on weight. I hate inactivity — it ages a person and makes him dull."

Some 53 countries grow tea, but most of it imported into the United States comes from India, Ceylon and Indonesia. . . . A Ceylonese woman can pick up to 160 pounds of tea in one day.

Quips from our contemporaries: "Success? most of it consists in getting along with the people you can't get ahead of," says the Kiwanis magazine.

Weather plays a real, not an imaginary role, in business. . . . Example: A rainy day cuts department store sales about 8 per cent.

Fair play for fowls: If you call someone "silly as a goose," you are misleading yourself. . . . Ornithologists consider the goose an intelligent and resourceful bird.

WORST PUN of the year: Actor Walter Slezak recalls the striptease dancer who was making her debut and froze with stage fright. . . From the wings came a loud whisper, "Don't just stand there—undo something!"

Greeting cards are relatively new . . . they first appeared in 1875.

Our crowded world: The population of Red China is increasing by more than a million mouths a month.

Varda Talks Of Color, Flags, Love And Perspectives On Women

The other day we were talking with artist Jean Varda on his ferryboat home, The Vallejo, in Sausalito.

Large, vividly colored paintings leaned against the walls from the floor, colored bottles made fine patterns at a window and pine trees were growing on the after deck.

Varda said he paints a little brighter in California than he did in his native Greece.

"YOU MUST separate nature in color," he said, "otherwise you are an imitator of nature. You have to clothe nature in its garment of pure light." That is the angelic vision, he said.

"The demonic vision is to clothe nature in darkness. That is the satanic vision which, naturally, is abhorrent to me." This vision he allied with women who dress in black, which he also dislikes.

Fascinated, but not completely in tune, we asked Varda about his flag. He has designed a flag for the City of Sausalito, which he would like it to accept. It is a four-square flag, one square has an eye painted on it standing for vision; another a bird for peace; another a sun for Sausalito's sun and a fourth of the sea, for Sausalito's water.

WE SAID, Varda, art and flags are nice, but what about love? He said:

"The equation of love is perspective. I have been on a jury for the Queen of Angel Island. When I was on the jury I suffered from the indignity offered to these girls. The measurements. It's like a market for slaves.

"When you see a beautiful woman and you don't like her, it's a facade. You are not in love with her. She is just so many measurements. But the moment you fall in love, then the perspective opens. Then she becomes Madame de Pompadour, Cleopatra, the Queen of Babylon, Seniranis of the Suspended Gardens. She becomes Antinea, she becomes Lilith.

"The end of the perspective is when, naked at the foot of a tree and with the connivance and complicity of a snake, she offers you an apple.

"From that moment you know she is the instrument of the loss of paradise. But simultaneously, you know that the only way to regain paradise is through her intervention. Love is the loss and the regaining of paradise.

We left the boat, walking down the gangplank in something of a spell. But, after all, we had asked for it.

THE OTHER MORNING Mill Valley City Councilman Michael Wornum left his home without wallet or change and had to give up his watch as collateral to get across the Golden Gate Bridge.

Then, a few days later, he decided to go sailing. All went well until he was nearly upended by a freighter; then he ran into wrong-way winds and an outgoing tide. So instead of Marin, he tied up in San Francisco and hitched a ride home over the bridge with a friend.

LONG BEFORE the bridges, some Mill Valleyans decided they would like to have the American Legion National Convention in their city in 1975. It was a jest. But each year someone marches in the national convention parade wtih a sign "Mill Valley In 1975."

Last week John J. Burkhard, visiting Mill Valley from Wisconsin, said that there is a bottle of champagne in a vault in his home town of Monroe put there 25 years ago to be used for the convention. He awaits the day, he said.

Burkhard is visiting his son, John Maurer in Corte Madera and another son, Robert Burkhard, in San Rafael.

Bob Kennedy's Appointment Most Controversial; Dillon's Significant

WASHINGTON — With the Cabinet completed, the most debatable choice is that of Robert Kennedy. In many ways, however, the most significant is that of Douglas Dillon.

It has been said by the "New York Times" that Robert Kennedy would "certainly not be named for attorney general if he were not the President's brother."

In my view, the fact that he is the brother cannot have been the decisive reason. Moreover, it is not really important. Robert Kennedy could not have been named just because he is the brother. In the main he was named because he had been the successful manager of the campaign for the nomination and for the election.

HE HAS BEEN named to the Cabinet for the same reason that Farley was placed in Roosevelt's Cabinet, Hannigan in Truman's, Brownell and Summerfield in Eisenhower's. In American politics it has long been the rule, to which I cannot think of an exception, that the President keeps in his official family the chief political organizer of his victory.

This is not done merely as a reward for past services. It is done to keep at the center of things the man who knows best where are the sources of the President's political power. For while the presidency rises far above party politics, it has its roots deep in party politics, and to be a successful President a man must be a successful politician.

FOR THESE REASONS it would have been unprecedented if Robert Kennedy had been excluded from the Cabinet because he is the President's brother.

The really debatable point is that the campaign manager has been placed at the head of the Department of Justice. The more usual practice has been to make the chief politician the postmaster general. It is certain that in the sensitive office of attorney general, which controls law enforcement and the F.B.I., Robert Kennedy will be compelled to convince the country that he is not playing politics. As attorney general he will be judged by higher standards than he would have been as postmaster general.

There is, however, a notable precedent for his appointment. President Eisenhower chose Herbert Brownell, who organized his nomination and election, as his attorney general. It was not an altogether happy precedent, and it tends to emphasize the fact that Robert Kennedy, being both the brother and the campaign manager of the President, will find himself under continual and special scrutiny.

THE SELECTION of Douglas Dillon confirms the view, which some of us expressed during the campaign, that in general economic philosophy there is no serious difference between Kennedy and such modern and progressive Republicans as Gov. Nelson Rockefeller.

Richard Nixon, I think, understood this. The truth is that Kennedy is a conservative of the age he lives in. His views are addressed to the contemporary scene, not to the dead past and not to an imaginary future.

Dillon is also a modern man. His appointment does not signify that the new administration means to be more conservative than it would like to be. It means that the Cabinet reflects the fact that there is a consensus in the country, which may work out as a coalition in Congress, among the modern and progressive members of both parties.

A gent very much in his cups stood at the end of a bar chuckling happily. "Brother," inquired an inquisitive stranger, "what makes you so all-fired happy?"

"But a mouse that can sing is worth more than that?" pondered the stranger. "Not this one!" chortled the inebriate. "Wait till the bartender finds out the only song the mouse can sing is 'Melancholy Baby'!"

A Texas plutocrat announced that he was in the market for a car that could travel faster than sound. "My wife," he explained, "generally sits in the back seat." Another Texan decided it was dangerous to install a TV set in his car—so now he's booking acts to appear in it in person.

Michael Klapperich wins Carrier salesman of the month award –

Mike, the Carrier of the Month for November has tried for several months to achieve this high award. Finally, this month through an especially good showing during September and his high point averages during the previous months he has won the highest award of the I-J. carrier organization.

Mike's route covers some of the Sun Valley and West Fifth Street section of San Rafael. He started his route in July of 1951 and through prompt, dependable service and a gift for making friends, he has increased his route from 80 to its present 97.

"The Carrier of the Month" hopes to play football and baseball when he reaches high school and his hobby at the present is collecting pictures of famous sports figures.

In 1953 Mike Klapperich was one of the Army of Independent-Journal carriers who daily delivered a fresh clean copy of the I-J to 15,500 Marin County homes.

In accepting this daily responsibility Mike started laying a firm foundation for his future. The disciplines required by these daily obligations, the need to schedule his time and his daily contact with the public have become the solid structures upon which young Klapperich has established his future. Mike has "grown up" since then. Chronologically Mike has gained seven years. He has grown physically too. But most important of all his progress has been the wisdom, the basic "horse sense" and the respect for work that his background in his home and as a newspaperboy has taught.

Today, Mike has become a guide for our present carrier organization. The I-J has "grown up" too. In 1953 we had 230 carrier salesmen delivering approximately 15,500 newspapers. Today, nearly 30,000 I-J's are delivered promptly every evening by 558 carrier salesmen. Yes, Mike and the I-J have grown. But our needs haven't changed. The Independent-Journal needs more boys like Mike and his counterparts of today. Youth still needs the inspiration to work, to assume a regular obligation and to gain an insight into the responsibilities that will become his in the future.

As expressed by J. Edgar Hoover, director of the F.B.I. and a former newspaperboy, "No one can know what responsibilities the newspaperboy will be called upon to shoulder in the future, but the foundation he builds today will be of inestimable value tomorrow."

AN I-J ROUTE IS THE BEST PART-TIME JOB FOR A MARIN COUNTY SCHOOL BOY

A Trip To The Principal's Office Looms Large To Disobedient Boy

"Do I have to go in?" the boy asked me. He was standing just outside the principal's office. I was a stranger. But he was looking for help. He was worried.

"What did you do?" I asked.

"It was like this," he said. "I'm in the fifth grade. I play Little League baseball in the summer. We were supposed to play indoor ball out on the playgrounds. But I sneaked a baseball in and we used it."

"Don't you like indoor ball?" I asked.

"Naw," he replied. "It's a sissy type game. Real baseball is better. I was up at bat. The pitcher burned a low fast one across the plate. It was my meat."

"I take it you got a hit?" I asked.

"Yeah," he said, "a homer. That ball went like a rocket, straight to a picture window in a house across the street. Spat in the middle it hit. The glass flew all over. I guess the lady's not at home. Nobody came out of the house to yell."

"What did your teacher say?" I asked.

"She doesn't know yet," came the answer. "After I touched home plate I kept right on running in here. I figured I'd better be the first to tell the principal. But now I'm chickening out. That lady is going to be mad. My teacher is going to be mad. But neither one of them will be as mad as the principal. He told me three times never to bring a baseball to school. I disobeyed him."

"What's your name?" I asked.

"Billy," he replied. "Billy Wilson. Do I have to go in to the office?"

"Yes," I said, "and the sooner the better."

"O.K." He sighed and went in.

Good luck, Billy! You may need it.

Pesticides Get Credit In Rise Of Crop Output

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Pesticide chemicals are as important to farming as tractors, certified seed and purebred animals, according to one agricultural scientist.

Dr. A. M. Boyce, director of the University of California's Citrus Experiment Station, said that pesticide chemicals have contributed about half of the 35 to 50 per cent increase in farm productiveness in recent decades.

Boyce said that the federal government has been protecting the safety of the American food supply for more than 50 years, a fact he said should be used to attack "irresponsible statements and many half-truths" about the use of chemicals on food crops.

Ohio Town's Teachers Getting Paid For Merit

NEW YORK (UPI)—The town of Canton, Conn., appears to be proving that teachers can be paid on merit, like business executives, as well as on seniority.

As a result, Canton's school superintendent, Dr. H. B. Jestin, is getting eager inquiries from school boards all across the land about the four year success of his plan.

For years, the National Education Assn. and other teachers' groups have fought tooth and nail against every proposal to introduce merit pay raise and thus modify the strictly egalitarian seniority system. Two years ago, teachers in Indianapolis threatened to strike at the mere suggestion of a merit pay system. They said it would produce all kinds of jealousies and back-biting in the schools.

"It hasn't done that in Canton at all," Dr. Jestin said. "It simply has produced more education for money. And the proportion of our high school graduates who have gone on to college has risen from 43 to 54 per cent."

About 20 of the 50 teachers in Canton's three schools have qualified each year for the "superior" rating in merit evaluations by their principals. That means they get double the regular seniority salary setups in some years. On the other hand, teachers rated merely satisfactory have to realize their future earnings are in jeopardy.

Dr. Jestin said no teacher has seen fit to appeal an evaluation rating, although the right of appeal is clearly provided.

Principal Paul Krikscium of the Canton Elementary School admits he approached the merit pay evaluation task four years ago with some trembling. But he agrees with Dr. Jestin that it has worked well.

Dr. Jestin said he believes now the merit pay plan can be used by any school system, no matter how large, if sufficient time and effort are taken to adapt it carefully to local conditions.

Dr. Jestin conceived the idea because of his early experience with the merit raise system when he worked for Veeder Root Co. and Bristol Brass Co. He became convinced later, when he had become a school executive, that it would work better for teachers than the rigid seniority step up system.

Some of the evaluation methods Dr. Jestin adopted were inspired by employee evaluation studies made by Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing Co.

"School boards interested in merit pay should realize first that it's not a way of pinching pennies—it's pretty sure to run the payroll up instead of down, because every teacher has to be allowed to try for the merit raises. But it will be economical in the long run because it enables the pupils to learn much faster."

That pay is well above the national average of $5,500 for high school teachers and $5,215 for grade school teachers.

ID Bands Given At Ross Hospital

Clear, plastic identification bands are being strapped to patients' wrists as soon as they enter the hospital, a spokesman announced this week. The bands called Ident-A-Bands contain a card marked with the patient's name, hospital case number and attending physician.

The wrist bands make it possible to identify a patient at a glance even when sleeping or under sedation, the hospital said. The bands are especially valuable in emergency situations.

U.S. Publishes Best-Sellers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Yearly, anonymous authors turn out low cost best-sellers for a major American publishing house —the U.S. government.

The Government Printing Office answers worldwide demand for about 50 million publications yearly. With some 30,000 different titles, the same names reappear on the best-selling list with the regularity of the dictionary.

New parents apparently are the government's biggest bloc of readers. "Infant Care" holds the record of 12 million copies sold since its original appearance in 1913. Second and third places go to "Prenatal Care" and "Your Child from One to Six."

L.A. Freeways Miles Growing

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Metropolitan Los Angeles will have 900 miles of freeways and 300 miles of expressways by 1980, according to the Southern California Research Council.

This system will be serving an area of 12 million population and eight million motor vehicles.

The council, composed of businessmen and college faculty economists, concluded that "other forms of public transportation must be devised to complement the freeway system."

Would-Be Assassin Of Benito Dies

ROME (UPI)—Retired Lt. Col. Tito Zaniboni, a 77-year-old veteran of World War I who spent 18 years in prison for trying to assassinate Benito Mussolini, died in a military hospital here last night of injuries suffered in a street accident.

Zaniboni set out to murder Mussolini in 1925. He rented a room in a hotel overlooking a balcony from which the Fascist dictator was to make a speech and smuggled in a high-powered rifle.

A supposed friend betrayed him to Mussolini's secret police, and he was sentenced to serve 30 years in prison. He was released after Mussolini had been overthrown during World War II.

Missile Blackout

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP)—An intercontinental missile caused damage at Wright-Patterson AFB without even being launched. The 94-foot Atlas was being towed to the base by truck, police said, when the pod clipped off a utility pole, cutting off electrical service to the city's east side.

TAX FACTS

Regulations On Claiming Dependents

By PETER J. WIKEL, CPA

Do you contribute to the support of a dependent, but cannot claim him because you do not furnish over one-half of his support?

Peter J. Wikel

If your dependent can qualify in all ways except that you do not furnish over one-half of his support then perhaps this will help you.

Where two or more persons contribute more than 50 per cent to the support of a dependent and each could claim the dependent except for the fact he did not contribute more than 50 per cent of the support, then one of the contributors can claim the dependent provided:

1. The taxpayer claiming the dependent contributed over 10 per cent of the support, and

2. Every other one who contributed over 10 per cent to the support agrees not to claim the dependent for 1960.

One of these agreements, form 2120, must be signed by each person (other than yourself) who contributed more than 10 per cent to the support of the dependent. The agreements must be filed with your return claiming the deduction for the dependent.

In other words, suppose that you and your three brothers each contributed 25 per cent of the cost of supporting your mother. By agreeing among yourselves, any one of you can claim the dependency credit for any year that the others are willing to sign an agreement, form 2120, that they will not claim it. You can take turns, or one claim it every year. You cannot pro-rate the credit between you. One must claim the full credit.

Now is the time to consult with the others contributing towards the support of your dependents and agree among yourselves on who is going to claim the deduction this year and who is going to file declarations that they are not claiming the deduction.

Election Speedup

NEW DELHI (AP) — India's third general election, in February, 1962, will be completed in one-fourth the time required for the second election in 1957.

Under new procedures laid down by the chief election commissioner, voting in 1962 will be on three days, each balloting day to be separated by 48 hours. Counting will begin only after the last ballot is cast, but should be completed within eight days of the beginning of the poll.

In 1957 voting was staggered over 16 days, and another 16 days was needed to count the votes.

Election officials say the speed-up has been made possible by experience gained in previous lections.

The Pikes Peak Hill Climb, established in 1916 and running only 12.42 miles in length, is the second oldest event on the United States Auto Club calendar.

REWARD FOR A HERO

Marin Yule Fire Loss: $65,000

Three major Marin County fires on Christmas Day wreaked damage estimated at $65,000.

As an aftermath of one of them, residents of Marinwood were seeking today to work out a system for faster coverage by trained firemen and the Marinwood fire chief was conferring with the fire department in Palo Alto on possible measures to increase fire resistance of Eichler homes.

LIVES SAVED

The lives of Major and his wife and their two children, Mark, 9, and Bobby, 7, may have been saved by the quick action of the houseboy, Randy Waa, 26, who was awakened at 3:30 a.m. and awoke the members of the family.

Another destroyed a five-room home on Chileno Valley Road belonging to County Supervisor Vera M. Schultz. The house, valued at $10,000, was occupied by Harold Frick. He reported personal property worth $2,000 was lost in the blaze.

The third Christmas fire did damage estimated at $13,000 to three business firms in the 1100 block of Magnolia Avenue in Larkspur: Gaye-Larks Restaurant, Decorative Draperies and Paint Pot Decorating Studio.

TO PALO ALTO

Marinwood Fire Chief Donald G. Ray went to Palo Alto today to confer with fire officials there on regulations for fire-retardant construction in Eichler-built homes. He said there and in San Mateo County, similar houses had been treated with materials which slowed the rate of cobustion.

Chief Ray said the blaze spread especially rapidly in the Major home because of use of quarter-inch plywood paneling, imported from Japan, which apparently is constructed with highly inflammable glue. Only sheetrock used in most of the Eichler homes, he said, is a fire wall between garage and living room.

Also speeding the blaze in such houses, Ray said, is the fact that many of the walls do not reach the ceiling, allowing a circulation of air throughout the structure so fire cannot be held to one room.

Ames took issue with Ray's contentions regarding Eichler homes. "Any wood home will burn just the same," he declared.

The residents at the meeting, he said, agreed that there is need for a speedier system of alerting volunteer firemen and for more paid firemen in the Marinwood department.

Neighbors were out with garden hoses attempting to quell the blaze for some time before the fire truck arrived, said Ames. "But there was no one to direct them," he added

"We have no quarrel with the volunteer firemen," said Ames. "But there is need for a faster system of alerting them. And we need more paid firemen—though how they are to be paid is something else." (The fire department is operated by the Marinwood Community Services District.)

The story of firemen's delay in reaching the Major home was coupled with a story of heroism by the houseboy, Waa.

Waa was awakened by a loud noise, probably an exploding window pane, Ray said. He ran through the house, pushed the two youngsters out their bedroom window to safety, then assisted neighbors in waking the parents.

Mr. and Mrs. Major, unable to get out of their room through the house, escaped through

FAIR, WARMER WEATHER IN SIGHT FOR AREA

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Fair and warmer is the weather outlook through tomorrow for most of Northern and Central California.

It was fair in most of the state this morning, aside from fog in the valleys.

There was thick fog in the San Francisco Bay Area and along the southern coast.

Northerly winds of about 20 miles in the Red Bluff area dispelled fog in the northern Sacramento Valley.

Forecaster L. B. Rasey said the north wind was expected to move southward through most of the Central Valley today, breaking up the fog and permitting a temperature increase.

France Sets Off 3rd Atomic Bomb

Explosion In Sahara Termed 'Successful'

PARIS (AP) — France today successfully staged its third nuclear test, exploding a small device that officials hope will clear the way for both tactical and giant thermonuclear weapons.

French scientists also sought to gain information about protection of persons from the effects of radioactive fallout.

The third test, which came about 10 months after the first, was fired at Reggane, deep in the Sahara, from atop a tower. French officials said that the device was of several kilotons in power. A kiloton is equivalent to 1,000 tons of TNT.

The first atomic bombs, made by the United States in World War II, were of about 20 kilotons. The first French bomb, tested Feb. 13, had 70 kilotons power. The second, set off April 1, was considerably smaller.

SMALL STRENGTH

Calling today's test a success, the Defense Ministry said the device was of small strength. Officials said the fallout presented no danger to nomade in the desert.

Testing points reported that weak radioactive fallout was noted in an area about 60 miles long and 15 miles wide extending southwestward from the firing range.

The French did not issue the usual 12-hour warning to airlines to reroute their African flights to stay clear. This indicated the French were confident there was no danger outside the immediate vicinity. The nearest inhabited oasis is some 80 miles away.

ANIMALS USED

With the findings from the test, French scientists say they hope to perfect small operational tactical bombs and detonating devices for thermonuclear or hydrogen bombs.

The French said many small animals—most of them mice or rates — were placed in the test area and are now being flown to Paris for study.

Some of the animals had been injected with substances that might furnish protection against radioactivity, officials said. Other animals had been put in a state of hibernation.

The government gave no details of the device exploded, but presumably it was of plutonium as were the previous two. Device No. 3 was named "Red Jerboa," after a small desert rodent.

Highway Toll During Yule Weekend: 485

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

The nation's traffic toll for the holiday was less than last year's 493 and the lowest for a three-day Christmas period since 1949 when the total was 413.

There were fewer lives lost on the highways than the National Safety Council had estimated. The council's pre-holiday warning was that 510 traffic deaths were expectable.

Deaths in traffic smashups slackened last night despite increased traffic as millions of motorists jammed highways heading for home from Christmas visits. Rain and ice made driving hazardous in some areas and the death rate dropped slightly.

Fires also took a heavy toll, with 72 deaths reported compared with 43 for last year's Christmas weekend holiday. Various types of other accidents claimed the lives of 82 persons compared with 73 last Christmas for an over-all total of 644 violent deaths. Last Christmas the total was 609 accidental deaths.

California led the nation in traffic fatalities. Deaths in smashups on the state's highways claimed at least 41 lives.

Group Starting School Board Recall Move

Members of the Terra Linda Annexation Committee will meet tonight to determine the method of starting recall proceedings against trustees of the Dixie School District.

Anton Lonich, spokesman for the pro-annexation group, said the time and place of the meeting had not yet been decided this morning.

The committee voted to start recall proceedings against the five-man board after the school board protested annexation of Terra Linda to San Rafael. The board members were charged with "playing petty politics" and their action labeled "an unwarranted intrusion into the

Twelve persons were injured in Marin County accidents during the Christmas holiday, two of them when the car in which they were riding was forced from the road by a hit-run driver.

Shortly before the "official" start of the holiday Friday, another hit-run driver was responsible for the death of Julius Nabers, 57, of San Rafael Meadows, a Greyhound bus driver. M/Sgt. Edmund M. Thompson, 45, of 49 Roque Moraes Drive, Mill Valley, later surrendered as driver of the car that struck Nabers.

Most seriously injured in the string of holiday crashes was Peter A. Divita, 53, of 908 Fifth Avenue, San Rafael, whose skull was fractured in a two-car crash on the San Pedro Road interchange off Highway 101.

The driver of the other car, A. A. Lyon, 64, of San Francisco, was uninjured.

Divita was unable to give an account of the accident, although San Rafael General Hospital attendants said his condition was good today.

Lyon told California Highway Patrolmen he drove down the ramp, stopped at San Pedro Road and was about to make a left turn toward Santa Venetia when Divita's car struck his.

Officers said Divita's car was traveling with only parking lights and that the light switch would not turn on his headlights. The investigation will continue when Divita could be questioned further, they said.

Dolores Dow, 32, of 614 Blackberry Lane, was treated at Marin General Hospital for a broken shoulder blade. Dewey Wayne Cleland, 37, her passenger, of 1122 B Street, San Rafael, was treated for a broken collar bone and head injuries.

Both were in fair condition, hospital attendants said.

Mrs. Dow told San Anselmo police she was nearing Madrone Avenue at about 30 miles an hour when the station wagon turned onto Center in front of her. To avoid a head-on crash, she said, she swerved to the right.

Officer John Orr said the rear wheel of her car left the road, turning the car over on its side. The car traveled 42 feet on the shoulder of the road before rolling over the bank. It rolled another 69 feet, he said, before stopping.

Both driver and passenger were thrown from the car. Cleland was pinned underneath the car and was extricated by Orr with the help of onlookers before an ambulance arrived.

Two persons were in Marin

Pilot To Face Charge Of Drunk Flying

A drunken flying charge, believed to be the first of its kind in Marin County, was filed today against a civilian pilot who belly-flopped his twin-engine plane on the jet runways at Hamilton Air Force Base last Thursday morning.

Asst. Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales said conviction could bring a maximum penalty of $1,000 fine and six months in jail for Thomas W. Sullivan, 39, San Francisco pilot, employed by the Golden Gate Airways.

The Marin district attorney filed two charges today under the Aeronautics Commission Act of the California Public Utilities Code, drunken flying and reckless flying. Sullivan is scheduled to appear in Marin Municipal Court 9:30 a.m. Friday to face the misdemeanor charges.

Gunman Takes $484 From Liquor Store

Police in four western states were alerted yesterday for a "polite, calm" holdup man who stole $484 cash at gunpoint from Sam and Eddie's Liquor Store in San Rafael on Christmas Eve, but declined to take a customer's last seven dollars.

George Patrick Hoffman, relief clerk at the store at Fourth Street and Tamalpais Avenue, told police a man about 22 wearing a World War II fatigue coat and toting a "long-barreled .38-caliber pistol" entered the store about 11 p.m.

SAID 'FILL THIS'

He handed Hoffman a paper bag and said, "Fill this."

When Hoffman hesitated, the gunman repeated his demand and added: "I mean business. Don't put your hands under the counter or your foot on the button or I'll kill you."

As the clerk filled the bag, Hans Siegismund Stern, 53, of 305 Adrian Way, Santa Venetia, entered the store to make a purchase.

The robber demanded his wallet, but refused to take any money when Stern showed him that it contained only $7. The gunman took $27 from Hoffman's wallet, however.

TWO MINUTES

Both were ordered to lie on the floor in the back of the room when the robber's bag had been stuffed with $457 in currency from the cash register.

Hoffman, who lives at 8 Lakeside Drive, Corte Madera, said the robbery took only about two minutes. Neither victim heard a car drive away after the holdup.

A description of the gunman —five-feet, four-inches tall, 140 pounds, with brown hair—was teletyped to police in California, Oregon, Washington and Nevada.

JUST WHAT HE WANTED

Christmas morning, when a transistor radio was handed to him, the boy choked up and said, "Oh ma, Santa remembered me. This is what I wanted most."

It was only last week that Santa heard of the boy's one wish for Christmas. His little helpers went caroling in the area to collect funds for the gift.

Mrs. John B. Shepherd of San Anselmo, who headed the campaign, reports many donations including a generous check from the Salvation Army. After the radio was purchased, the surplus money went to the boy's mother for purchase of immediate needs or to keep in reserve for medical emergencies.

"It was a beautiful Christmas for a little boy, who asked for so little and the community gave so much," Mrs. Shepherd reported.

San Rafael Police Chief Cancels Rock-Roll Dance

A rock 'n' roll dance featuring singer Jerry Lee Lewis, which was scheduled to be held tonight in the ballroom of the Bermuda Palms restaurant in San Rafael, has been canceled by Police Chief Charles J. Chiesa, it was learned today.

Chiesa said he refused to give promoter Adam Foreman permission to hold the dance because of rock 'n' roll parties that have gotten out of hand in other cities.

Also on the billing were the Custom Keys, a Mill Valley combo; Johnny Allair and Pete Lind, San Rafael musicians, and KTIM disc jockey Jerry Bennett.

Irving (Whitey) Litchfield, owner of the Bermuda Palms, said he agreed to rent the ballroom to Foreman about a month ago. He said Foreman called him last week and said the dance would have to be held outside Marin County.

POSTAL WORKERS STRIKE—Policemen in Brussels stop striking postal workers from trying to halt a mail truck as a general strike crippled Belgium. The strike is in protest against government plans for economy to recoup because of loss of revenues from the Congo. (UPI Telephoto)

CONGO RECOUP PROTEST

Belgium Crippled By General Strike

BRUSSELS (UPI) — Strikers clashed briefly with armed police in the streets here today in a new flareup of the Socialist-led anti-government walkout that has crippled Belgium for a week.

Police dispersed a strike mob that was blocking traffic outside Socialist headquarters after a brief scuffle that produced no reported casualties.

The strikers shouted "down with (Premier Gaston) Eyskens!" and other anti-Government slogans as the police cleared the street.

Earlier, the strikers had manhandled the conductor of a streetcar that tried to pass their roadblock and pulled its trolley off the overhead power wire.

The government has called out regular troops and reservists in an effort to maintain essential services during the strike, which was called to protest the "austerity" program devised by the government to offset the nation's loss of revenues from the Congo.

The strike has crippled rail transportation, public utilities, mail deliveries and other essential services.

There was the additional danger of clashes between the striking Socialist unions and several non-striking Christian socialist unions. The Christian Socialists denounced the strike as "political" and urged union members to stay on the job. The Socialists countered with a call for non-strikers, particularly in the Wallonia region of southern Belgium, to join the strike.

The government yesterday called up some reservists for duty and orders were dispatched to the Belgian NATO forces in West Germany to ship home technicians and specialists needed to help operate the basic utilities. Soldiers on leave from duty were ordered to remain at home, awaiting orders for possible strike duty.

Paratroops and police guarded railway stations, post offices and other vital installations such as generator plants.

The Brussels-Namur rail line was closed yesterday after an anonymous phone caller tipped police it was mined. However, a search disclosed no explosives. Near Mons, a locomotive was blocked at a switch which was wrecked by saboteurs. On the Brussels-Charleroi electrified line, a pole holding the overhead wires was dynamited. In the Louvain district, police arrested six railroad workers after local residents saw them unbolting trailway tracks.

At Bruges, police dispersed mailmen picketing the post office there. There was no violence. But at Mons, a gasoline-filled bottle was hurled into a cafe. It failed to ignite, however, and caused no damage. A window in a labor newspaper office was smashed with a brick.

PLAN STARTED TO GIVE IKE BACK 5 STARS

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congressional leaders are working quietly on a plan to restore President Eisenhower to his five-star general rank soon after he leaves the White House on Jan. 20.

They conceded privately that some opposition may arise because, as a former president, he also will be eligible for a $25,000 annual pension and office expenses of up to $50,000. Restored rank would pay $20,548 a year.

A special act of Congress would be required to restore the rank because Eisenhower resigned his permanent five-star commission in 1952 when he was first nominated by the Republicans.

Nixon Ready To Campaign During 1962

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Richard M. Nixon is getting set to practice politics, as well as law, when he goes back to California after his term ends Jan. 20.

Nixon, defeated for the presidency by a whisker, wants another shot at the prize in 1964. In the intervening time he is going to do everything possible to convince the Republican Party it ought to give him another chance.

CLOSE CONTACTS

This will involve the maintenance of close contacts with Republican leaders in all sections of the nation. It will include speeches, public appearances and statements on national issues in his role as titular head of the party.

Beyond that, Nixon proposes to campaign vigorously for Republican candidates for the Senate and House in 1962. He figures if he can help Republicans win two years from now, he will broaden the base of his strength in bidding for a second nomination in 1964.

SEES SUPPORT

Because of the strong showing the vice president made in losing the election to Democratic Sen. John F. Kennedy by a popular vote margin of only about 112,000 ballots, Nixon believes he has a reservoir of built-in support among GOP Senate and House members elected this year.

Nixon's associates say the vice president carried 228 congressional districts to Kennedy's 206, with independent electors winning 3 in Mississippi.

As of now, Nixon prefers campaigning for a Republican Congress to getting into the race for governor in California. He has not closed the door on that possibility.

Agency Overhaul Report By Landis Scores 'Pressure'

WASHINGTON (AP)—A senior congressional Republican today agreed with a Kennedy adviser on the need to overhaul federal regulation agencies. But he said Congress, not the president, should do the revamping.

Rep. John B. Bennett of Michigan, ranking GOP member of the House Commerce Committee which deals with regulatory agencies, commented in an interview on a study made for President-elect John F. Kennedy by former Harvard Law School Dean James M. Landis.

Kennedy hailed Landis' report, issued yesterday as "a most important and impressive analysis" which should be studied by "members of Congress as well as the agencies themselves."

Sen. John A. Carroll (D-Colo.), chairman of a Senate subcommittee studying administrative practices, called for a drive against "powerful pressure groups" which he said have stymied agency reform.

HAS LEADERSHIP

He said Kennedy will provide the leadership for change, and that the president-elect had invited him to confer on the Landis report.

JAMES M. LANDIS
Prepared report

Landis has served as chairman of the Securities and Exchange Commission and the Civil Aeronautics Board and on the Federal Trade Commission. These are among the seven major regulatory agencies he discussed in often biting terms.

The so-called independent agencies have been set up by Congress over the years to regulate and hand down judgments on major economic activities.

OUTSIDE PRESSURE

Landis pictured the agencies as ridden by outside pressures, as too cozy with those whom they are supposed to regulate, as snarled in delays and slipping in caliber of personnel.

He accused both President Eisenhower and Truman of a lack of concern for the agencies, of appointing commissioners for political reasons rather than ability to do the job, and failing to avoid outside influences themselves on international air cases which are sent to the White House by the CAB.

Landis called for a series of reorganizations to be made by the new president under reorganization authority similar to that which he said Congress had granted to Eisenhower and Truman.

KEEP 'INDEPENDENT'

Bennett, however, said "whatever reforms are needed ought to be legislated by Congress. One of the most important things is keeping these agencies independent."

He said the delays in agency decisions could be removed by having individual commissioners write decisions, with proper staff help, and this in turn would do away with what he called much of the backstage efforts to influence decisions.

In the White House itself, Landis would do away with presidential assistants dealing with matters of concern to the regulatory agencies. Instead, he would have an office directly under the president to supervise the agencies.

Blood Pressure
• T.B. And Marriage
• Menarche
• Snakebite
Q. If high blood pressure is lowered will a person live longer?
A. There are a number of measures, (some involving new and effective drugs) by which blood pressure can be lowered. It can now be said that patients in the middle-age group and younger who have moderately elevated pressure can anticipate a somewhat longer life if they respond to these pressure-lowering measures. In older people the lowering of blood pressure alone, unless it is extremely high, would not be the chief or only consideration in prolonging life.
Q. I have arrested tuberculosis. Is it safe for me to marry?
A. It would probably be safe for you to marry provided your doctor agreed and informed you of the necessary considerations to prevent flare-up of the disease. Both parties should also be thoroughly acquainted with the hazards of reactivation of the disease as well as exposure of possible children.
Q. At what age will the menopause occur in a woman who started menstruating at 12½?
A. The age at which menstruation starts (menarche) is not related to the age at which the menopause will occur. It is rare for a woman to experience menopausal symptoms before 42 or 45. The majority have ceased menstruation sometime between 45 and 50.
Q. First aid manuals recommend that in poisonous snakebites the flesh be cut at the site of the bite and suction applied. Is this the thing to do?
A. It is often recommended, but Army doctors, experimenting with animals, found that suction not only failed to remove enough venom to do much good but that the procedure may even hasten the spread of the poison. The pros and cons can be cleared up by further experiments.

SAFETY COUNCIL SAYS 340 MAY DIE NEW YEAR'S

The estimated death toll would compare with 374 killed during a similar three-day weekend a year ago, which was a record for a three-day yearend period.

Council president Howard Pyle said speeding and drinking are the main factors in New Year's traffic fatalities.

The council also estimated 14,000 persons would suffer disabling injuries from traffic accidents during the 78-hour period which begins 6 p.m. Friday and ends at midnight Monday.

Bruce Gillette of 407 Spring Street, Tamalpais Valley, saw flames in the living room of Mrs. Byron Boulware as he was passing her house at 416 Pine Street at 5:45 p.m. Saturday.

Firemen arrived to find a set of candles, sitting atop a television set, had burned down, destroying the top of the set and a remote control unit.

Mrs. Boulware was unaware of the blaze which did $165 worth of damage.

WORK OF EARLY ARTIST

New York art dealer Oscar Klein examines a painting he claims is the work of Fra Bartolomeo, a 16th Century Italian artist. Klein bought the painting at an auction in London, and had the work verified by an authority on Italian art. He paid $150 for the painting "The Virgin Crowned," and now values it at $150,000. SOCIOLOGIST SUGGESTS:

Don't Say 'Hoods', Call Them 'Psychos'

NEW YORK (AP)—Treat leaders of violent teen-age gangs as "psychos" rather than as "hoods," a sociologist suggested today.

"That would take some of the glory out of gang activity," said Dr. Lewis Yablonsky of the University of Massachusetts.

"Society would thus brand gang action as sick' behavior rather than indirectly aggrandize it—as is often done."

"With gang behavior stigmatized as being in the boy's terms crazy or nutty,' many youths would not participate in the gang and its violence."

Dr. Yablonsky speaking to the American Assn. for the Advancement of Science, said many people and even some specialists make a serious error in thinking of violent gangs as definite groups.

He holds they are not usually cohesive groups, and said most boys interviewed after "rumbles" or even fatal battles "had no real concept of belonging to any gang or group."

The gang is a near-group, he said, but if treated as an organized group, a group may actually form. One social worker tried to organize such youths into a baseball team, but they turned instead into a violent gang, he added.

Gangs which become violent are loose organizations, and the leaders "are often borderline psychotics with delusions of grandeur or persecution."

Trying to work with them is usually useless, but most gang followers can be helped by constructive activity projects, he said.

State Mails Out Income Tax Forms

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Happy New Year, taxpayers.

The Franchise Tax Board today mailed state income tax forms to 4,300,000 Californians.

The taxes aren't due until April 15, which gives the citizens time to raise the 300 million dollars.

San Rafael Planners Slate Glenwood Hearing Tonight

The San Rafael Planning Commission will hold a second public hearing on the rezoning of Glenwood Unit 4 and Seaview Estates 1 and 2 on Point San Pedro Road, from planned community to single family residential, tonight at 7:30 o'clock in the city hall.

The commissioners will hear a request of Purity Stores to erect a double faced illuminated sign at the corner of Manuel Freitas Parkway and Las Gallinas Avenue, Terra Linda.

Warren Nute, engineer for the Westwood Co., will present a tentative map to the commissioners for a 43-lot subdivision at Westwood Drive near Hillside Avenue.

The Standard Oil Co. of California will request permission to build a gasoline service station at Manuel Freitas Parkway and Del Presidio Boulevard.

Monument To A Horse

GALLION, Ohio (AP) — For 99 years, a beech tree on a farm west of here has marked the spot where a young Union Army volunteer buried his horse before marching off to the Civil War. The young man's name long has been forgotten, but the inscription "Iron Horse, Died March 1861" can still be read.

THE RUBLE'S NEW LOOK

'Fairly Moderate Plan' Programed By Governor

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Don't look for any surprises in Gov. Edmund G. Brown's message to the 1961 Legislature.

A member of his staff says the Democratic governor will present a "fairly moderate program" to the session convening next Monday for six months.

Brown already has outlined the major problems he hopes to do something about. But he won't spell out his views until he addresses the assembly and the senate on Tuesday.

The accent will be on education, state government reorganization and welfare.

On another important subject, narcotics control, Brown probably will offer specific recommendations in a special message later during the session.

A five-man commission appointed by the governor recently handed in a report urging 22 steps in the war against the narcotics traffic. The proposal included increased penalties for sales of narcotics to minors.

Brown submitted a 14-point general program to the 1959 legislature, with heavy emphasis on civil rights and social progress. Most of it was enacted. In addition, the new administration pushed through 220 million dollars in new taxes.

The governor has said flatly he will not seek more taxes.

He plans to ask the legislature to establish a special commission to study reapportionment of the State Senate.

He also has indicated the administration will try to modify —but not necessarily repeal — the law which requires responsible relatives to care for needy aged.

And there probably will be some recommendation on action to tighten up on aid to needy children, and eliminate abuses of the 120-million-dollar-a-year program.

Brown is expected to propose the first stage of a drastic plan to reorganize the state government but just how far he will go remains to be seen.

The governor has made it clear that he will give top emphasis to education, with recommendation on curriculum changes and a possible new system of credentials for teachers.

He already has said he favors more stress on the teaching of basic science and mathematics, foreign languages and a wider use of classroom television.

"I will support every progressive measure for which we can pay the bills," he said.

Doctor Wins Award For Heart Work

The Theobald Smith Award of the American Assn. for the Advancement of Science was awarded today to Dr. Richard J. Havel, 34, of Ross.

The $1,000 award, one of the highest distinctions a medical researcher can receive, was presented to the young doctor in New York at the AAAS annual meeting.

Dr. Havel received the award for research in the field of the metabolism of fats and fatty compounds related to heart and artery diseases.

Among discoveries made by Havel are that hormones secreted by the adrenal glands and nervous system in response to stress govern the release of certain fatty acids into the bloodstream.

Havel also suggested that that excessive blood fat levels can be produced by a genetic deficiency of an enzyme that breaks down from fat.

Havel, associate professor of medicine and staff member at the Cardiovascular Research Institute of the University of California, resides with his wife, Virginia, and four children at 52 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard.

Havel's work at the Research Institute has been supported by the Marin, San Francisco, Monterey, Napa, and Tulare County Heart Assns.

Nearly Half Of Marin City Burning Done

Forty per cent of the 108 abandoned homes being destroyed in the redevelopment of Marin City, have been burned and at a cost considerably below that anticipated.

That was the report of County Fire Chief Charles Reilley to the Marin County Board of Supervisors today.

Reilley said that 43 of the homes have been burned at an average cost of about $26 per home. Homes burned thus far have been high on the hills and cost is expected to increase slightly as those lower down in more congested and vegetated areas are burned, he declared.

The total cost should be about $4,000 for destruction of all 108 houses, the fire chief said. The Housing Authority, which will pay the bill, had expected the cost to be between $5,000 and $10,000, he said.

"The remarkable thing about the burning," Reilley went on, "is that we have not had a single complaint from Marin County about the smoke."

Space Speedup Program Slated

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Vice President-elect Lyndon B. Johnson said today the Kennedy administration is planning a vigorous and accelerated space exploration program.

Johnson told of the plan—without going into any detail—at a news conference after he and Sen. Robert S. Kerr (D-Okla.) concluded two days of talks with President-elect John F. Kennedy. Kerr is slated to succeed Johnson as chairman of the Senate Space Committee.

And Kennedy has announced that in the new administration Johnson will be chairman of the National Aeronautics and Space Advisory Council.

Earlier, Kennedy named Rex Whitten, chief engineer of Missouri's highway department, to be federal highway administrator.

Tht present administrator is Bertram D. Tallamy.

Meanwhile there were reports that Kennedy is considering naming career diplomat Charles E. (Chip) Bohlen to be ambassador to France. Bohlen is at present State Department adviser on Russian problems. He is a former ambassador to Moscow.

Whitten, 62, will administer the Federal Highway Act in his new position which pays $20,000 a year.

Pierre Salinger, Kennedy's press secretary, said he did not know Whitten's political party affiliation.

Whitten has been associated with the Missouri Highway Department since 1920 and has been its chief engineer since 1951.

"Mr. Whitten's long background in every phase of highway work will place the direction of the nation's important highway program in the hands of a man of unmatched experience," Kennedy said in a statement.

Kennedy chose Whitten after consultation with Gov. Luther H. Hodges of North Carolina, who will be secretary of commerce in the new administration.

Famed Airplane Designer Dies

Bellanca, a Sicilian who later became an American citizen, had designed planes since 1907 and headed the manufacturing company bearing his name until a few years ago.

MacArthur Bequest

NORFOLK, Va. (UPI) — Gen. Douglas MacArthur will leave his personal papers and other war reminders to the city of Norfolk, the wedding place of his parents.

Teacher Group Plans To Press Bargaining

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Higher standards for teachers, better job security and collective bargaining rights were listed today as top legislative targets of the AFL-CIO California Federation of Teachers.

Lou Eilerman of Long Beach, federation president, outlined the goals in an interview as some 300 delegates registered for the annual convention of the teachers union.

Eilerman also proposed action by the 1961 legislature to halt what he called the "overburgeoning school heirarchy of administrators" and to give teachers a greater voice in school policy.

To raise standards for teachers, Eilerman said the federation would propose a statewide examination for all prospective teachers stressing the subject matter to be taught and yearlong teaching internships.

"The State Education Department has stressed the idea of reducing the number of credentials," Eilerman said. "To us, this is not as important as improving standards."

The department has proposed trimming the number of different types of credentials from 40 to 5 and requiring teachers to have five years of college with an academic major.

The federation will give top priority to legislation to give teachers collective bargaining rights, as well as extending tenure and probationary protection.

Only the three largest districts in the state now are required to state the cause for dismissing a probationary teacher, and to hold a hearing on dismissals.

"Many, many people are dismissed for invalid reasons," Eilerman said.

SPEEDING HELD MAIN CAUSE OF HOLIDAY TOLL

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The California Highway Patrol today blamed its old enemy —speeding—for more than half of the 40 traffic deaths in the state over the long Christmas weekend.

"We had hoped for something better," said CHP Commissioner Bradford N. Crittenden.

He said his men will work even harder to cut down speeding in the coming New Year's weekend.

Crittenden said the biggest blow to California's hopes for a low death count came Sunday when six persons died in one accident in Kern County.

TB Patient Goes AWOL From Ross

An active tubercular patient went AWOL from Ross General Hospital about noon Christmas Day and touched off an all-points search by sheriff's deputies.

But the patient returned in about three hours after a brief Christmas holiday, nurse Mary Kuska reported.

Governor Won't Stop Execution Of Wife Slayer

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Edmund G. Brown has refused to prevent the execution tomorrow of Raymond L. Cartier of San Diego.

Cartier, 38, a butcher, was convicted in 1958 of the brutal slaying and dismemberment of his wife. He is scheduled to die in San Quentin Prison gas chamber.

Brown granted him a reprieve Oct. 26 to allow time for additional psychiatric examinations. But the governor said yesterday that the tests had failed to show Cartier as legally insane

Clare Ellen Weist, 22, of 62 Rancheria was taken to the hospital with a broken leg and deep cuts on her forehead. Her condition today was good, attendants said.

Alsace Howard, of Dormitory 115 A-17, Marin City, was admitted in a state of shock and a head injury. He was also reported in good condition.

Lonnie Phillips, driver of the car which crashed into that of Miss Weist, was booked at Marin County Jail for drunk driving after being treated at the hospital for a cut lip and an injured shoulder.

According to a witness, William Slattery, a Federal Bureau of Investigation agent who lives at 115 J Street in San Rafael, Phillips sped northbound out of the Sausalito-Marin City connecting road onto the highway, crossed the divider strip and hit the Weist car in the southbound lane. Slattery's car was just behind that of Miss Weist.

California Highway Patrol officer Richard De Marco said Phillips was traveling about 65 miles an hour when he cut across the highway.

"He struck the oncoming car with such force that it was literally stopped in its tracks," De Marco said. The car of Miss Weist was completely spun around at the point of impact.

Phillips' car continued across the highway, Slattery said, and slammed into the bank, throwing Phillips' passenger, Howard, out onto the highway. The car left no skid marks, De Marco said.

When questioned at the hospital, Phillips admitted to having drank "two beers." He said he had picked up Howard just prior to the accident.

Officers said he went to sleep during the questioning.

Two Mill Valley women were in Marin General Hospital today after losing control of their car on Shoreline Drive in Tamalpais and running over a steep embankment on Christmas Eve.

Driving the car was Ellen Catherine Rynders, 19, of 125 Harvard Avenue, who was pronounced in fair condition today with a fractured breast bone.

Her passenger, Ellen Olivera, was also in fair condition with a broken arm.

Miss Rynders said she was driving west on Shoreline at about 35 miles an hour preparing to turn into Loring Street. Because of the heavy fog she was watching the white center line, but lost sight of it and went onto the shoulder, swung back across the highway and went over the bank on the opposite side. They were taken to the hospital by Marin Ambulance.

John L. Winton, 38, a teacher in the public schools of Vancouver, B.C., ditched his car and injured a woman companion while lost in a Marin County fog yesterday.

He was driving west along Freitas Parkway in Terra Linda with a friend, Sylvia Downs, 25, also of Vancouver, looking for the home of another friend. Winton told the California Highway Patrol that he had never been there before, was unaware the road came to a dead end at Montecello Road, and due to lack of any warning sign or signal he ran into the ditch.

Miss Downs was treated for a cut forehead at San Rafael General Hospital. The patrol asked the county public works department to survey the site of the mishap and perhaps erect some form of warning.

A San Rafael driver not only failed to stop for a flashing red signal on Sir Francis Drake Boulevard early today, but broke down the signal pole.

Arthur M. Perry, 18, a student living at 186 Tamal Vista, was driving north on College Avenue in Kentfield at 1:05 a.m. When he arrived at Sir Francis Drake where College ends his car kept moving briskly and mowed down the signal pole.

Perry was treated at Marin General Hospital for cuts and bruises. He said he had been to a party and had fallen asleep at the wheel. A California Highway Patrol citation charged him with failing to stop at a signal.

Mary Kent, 24, daughter of Roger Kent of 200 Woodland Road, Kent Woodlands, and James Linsey, 16, Redwood High School student of 165 Via Lerida, Greenbrae, were injured in a broadside crash on Bon Air Road at the entrance to Marin General Hospital Friday evening.

Linsey and a companion were on their way to the hospital to sing carols when their car collided with that driven by Miss Kent, eastbound on Bon Air Road.

Edward James Mahoney III, 17, of Ross suffered back injuries when a car in which he was riding, driven by Andrew A. W. Campbell, 20, rolled over on Kent Avenue in Kentfield Friday night.

The terms of three members of the school board will expire June 30 and the positions will be up for election on April 18. They are E. E. Lenander, board president, Dorothy Brown and Robert S. Winniford.

Lonich said the committee will also discuss how to spread information about the advantages of annexing to San Rafael.

Larkspur Trustees To Hear Report On Site Purchase

Supt. Vaughn Seidel of Larkspur School District will report to the district board at 7:30 p.m. today on progress toward purchase of a fourth school site in Mariners Cove. The purchase contract was unofficially approved by the State Allocations Board in Sacramento last week.

The superintendent also will recommend purchase of additional visual aid equipment for the district, including still projectors, screens, radio-phonographs, and televison sets.

A report will be made on formation of a committee to suggest names for the new school. The board also will consider an agreement with the town of Corte Madera for a preschool children's playground on the new school site.

Escaped Camp Felon Captured

After a short vacation—less than a month — Richard M. Rios, escapee from one of San Quentin Prison's conservation camps, will be spending New Year's Day and many more days back in San Quentin after being found in Southern California.

After the capture, Rios admitted leading a ring of check forgers. The ring had cashed $4,000 in forged payroll checks on Christmas eve. Rios named four members of the ring after questioning by the police.

He had walked away from the prison's conservation camp near Weott, Humboldt County, after spending only a week there. Rios, 30, was convicted of burglary.

Bus Driver Death Suspect Due In Court

A Mill Valley sergeant, suspected of running down a bus driver and then driving off last Friday, was scheduled to appear in Marin Municipal Court this afternoon for arraignment.

Booked on suspicion of manslaughter, M/Sgt. Edmund McHugh Thompson, 45, of 49 Roque Moraes Drive is free on $1,575 bail. A sergeant major at the Presidio in San Francisco, he was to be retired on an Army pension in February.

The dead bus driver was Julius Nabers, 57, of 219 Los Gallinas Drive, San Rafael Meadows. His bus stalled south of Richardson Bay Bridge, and he had got off to direct a second Greyhound bus to give his vehicle a push.

Horrified bus passengers said they saw a station wagon hit driver Nabers, then drive off. Several hours later, Sergeant Thompson called Mill Valley police to report he thought he had been in an accident.

California Highway Patrolmen said a clothing imprint on Thompson's station wagon appears to match the clothes worn by the bus driver. Also, a piece of antenna at the accident scene matched the broken antenna of Thompson's car, patrolmen said.

Corte Madera Public Works Head To Quit

Robert L. Bartram, superintendent of public works for the town of Corte Madera since last June 1, will leave that position March 1 for a new job with a private construction firm in Santa Rosa.

He submitted his resignation today to Town Manager Arthur H. Brandow.

Brandow announced a written examination for applicants for the superintendent's job will be held Jan. 21. Applicants must be between 25 and 50 years old, have a high school education and three years experience either in heavy construction or public works.

Application forms and announcements are available at the town hall. The post position pays between $484 and $587 per month.

Bartram, who lives at 201 Hawthorne Avenue, Larkspur, formerly was an engineer in the San Rafael Public Works Department. He is a brother of Larkspur Fire Chief George Bartram.

Planners To Hear Church's Request To Reduce Parking

Larkspur Planning Commission will hold a public hearing at 8 p.m. today on a request from Rev. Michael Barkowska of Calvary Baptist Church for a reduction in the offstreet parking requirements for the church.

The use permit for the church provides that a nearby lot be rented to give additional parking space. The minister maintains this space is not needed. The church is at Holcomb and Baltimore Avenues.

Also on the agenda are a request for a lot split from John P. Lippitt of 26 Sycamore Avenue, an appointment to the cut and fill ordinance committee, said discussion of rezoning the marshland property along Magnolia between Doherty Drive and Bon Air Road.

FIRES

Major, a San Francisco auto salesman, estimated the loss at $30,000 to the house and $10,000 in personal property.

Lost in the flames were all of the children's Christmas presents, but young neighbors eased the pain somewhat by donating many of their gifts to the Major children.

The Majors moved in temporarily with Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hienman of 1006 Idleberry Road and today were reportedly house-hunting. The cause of the fire had not been determined.

The Larkspur fire, which was fought by both the Kentfield and Larkspur Fire Departments, was reported by a neighbor just before 5 a.m. Christmas Day. It started in a storeroom in the back of the building which is owned by Bud Gutman, proprietor of the Paint Pot.

Much of the damage was caused by water leaking from copper pipes which came unsoldered in the intense heat, said Larkspur Fire Chief George Bartram. A large section of roof caved in on the Decorative Draperies Shop operated by Marie White. Considerable material was damaged by flames and by hot tar dripping from the burning roof.

The restaurant, unoccupied for the past two weeks, suffered smoke damage as did the other two shops. A definite cause was not established.

Two trucks and 15 men from each company fought the blaze for almost three hours.

The Chileno Valley Road home of Mrs. Schultz broke out in flames at about 10 p.m. when an oil heater exploded. Frick, alone in the house and without a telephone, went about two miles to the Robert Dolcini Ranch to call the Marin County Fire Dept.

Assistant Fire Chief Louis Bloom said five trucks responded to the alarm, but that the house was almost a total loss by the time they arrived. It was under control within about two hours, he said, but the last truck did not leave until after 8 a.m.

Mr. and Mrs. George A. Ballantyne and their three teen age children were temporarily staying at a San Rafael motel today after a $10,000 fire chased them from their home at 320 Laurel Place on Christmas Eve.

The fire, believed caused by faulty wiring in the attic, destroyed the roof and upstairs portion of the house.

The Ballantynes, with the help of neighbors, escaped with all their Christmas presents and the Christmas turkey. In fact, the turkey was cooking during the time the San Rafael Fire Department was putting out the blaze.

They spent the Christmas holiday with Mrs. Ballantyne's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Smith of Gilroy.

A fire of undetermined origin broke out in the apartment of Fred Menzinara at 2009 Bridgeway, Sausalito, at 12:55 a.m. today sending about 20 robe-clad tenants of the Bamboo Inn Guest House into the cold morning air.

Fire Chief Mathew J. (Matts) Perry said it might have been a cigarette which caused the fire, which caused about $150 damages to a dresser, curtains and a rug. Menzinara, assistant chef at the Spinnaker Restaurant, was not at home at the time.

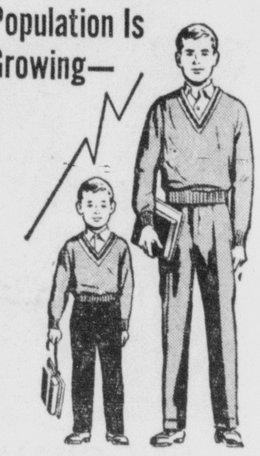
Because Our Population Is Growing—



—we can expect applications to our colleges to double within 10 years.

Our colleges are struggling to keep pace with this population growth, but unless we help them, and unless our legislators help those that depend on public money, they may not succeed.

We must see to it that the colleges in our state—public and private—are given the financial aid they need so that they will be able to fulfill their responsibility. For only through higher learning can we hold our position of world leadership.

Spinal Defects Noted In Many Ulcer Patients

by Dr. Robert W. Pearce

You can't enjoy life when your are suffering from stomach ulcers. Some of the first signs of ulcers are gas pains, indigestion and a swelling or bloated feeling.

Operations or diets sometimes bring temporary relief. But after a while that old ulcer acts up again unless you correct the real cause of the trouble.

German medical doctors have reported that they noticed spinal defects in 86 of 100 ulcer patients. Using Chiropractic methods, these German medical men restored their patients to health by eliminating the cause of the ulcers.

Research has disclosed that pinched nerves of the spine often interfere with the nerves controlling the digestive juices and cause a body imbalance. Ulcers then result when foods are unable to get their normal supply of these digestive juices.

Chiropractors use X-ray and other scientific methods to check for spinal defects. They are spine specialists and are able to correct such defects without hospitalization. Ulcer trouble generally goes away once the spine is corrected and the body is able to function normally. Dr. R. W. Pearce, D.C. practices the Palmer Method. His office is at 1628 Fifth Ave., San Rafael, GL 3-6201. —Adv.

Auto License Statements Due

Marin County motorists were receiving statements this week reminding them to renew their automobile registrations on or before Feb. 4.

Applications for the red sticker that must be attached to the rear license plate will be processed at the office of the Department of Motor Vehicles at 1926 Fourth Street, San Rafael, beginning Jan. 3.

The only new feature of the statement forms this year is a point to be punched by the vehicle owner if he has changed his address from that shown on the card.

New, Improved Greyhound Bus Will Roll Soon

NEW YORK (AP)—Greyhound Corp. plans to introduce early next year a new bus with increased visibility, greater safety features and improved passenger comforts.

F. W. Ackerman, president, called the new vehicle the first major advance in intercity bus transportation since development of the firm's dual level bus. The new bus, he said, has all of the dual level vehicle's equipment in a single level plus the first V-8 diesel engines ever used by Greyhound.

The first 250 new buses, which were made by General Motors Corp. at an initial investment of 13 million dollars, will be added to Greyhound's Scenicruiser fleet in late winter and early spring. The buses seat 38 passengers have a complete rest room, air suspension ride, reclining seat with adjustable foot rest, head rest and individual reading light, plus 20 per cent more efficient air conditioning equipment and more baggage space.

ANOTHER HOUSE ENTERED

Looted Home Believed Work Of Cat Burglar

One Glenwood home was looted and another entered during the weekend by a thief believed to be the "cat burglar" who has committed more than 100 crimes on the San Francisco peninsula.

About $400 worth of Christmas presents plus a camera, projector and .22 caliber automatic pistol were taken from the home of Ernest Theodore Louis of 23 Knight Drive. Louis discovered the burglary when he and his wife returned home at 11 p.m. Friday.

Police said the burglar knocked out a small pane of glass in the front door and then reached inside and opened the door. Propping a piano stool against the door, the burglar opened a back window for a possible escape route.

He apparently drove his car into the garage and piled the loot in it.

E. F. Murdy of 11 Knight Drive reported the burglary of his house at 3:17 p.m. yesterday.

At the Murdy house, which is in the same block as the burglar's other victim, an unlocked bedroom window screen had been removed. A chair had been placed against the front door, and the house searched thoroughly.

Two Dogs Attack Man In Novato

Daniel J. Ritter, 23, of 5 Hillcrest Avenue, San Anselmo, suffered bites on the right thigh and arm last night when two dogs attacked him in Novato.

Treated at San Rafael General Hospital, Ritter was released with minor wounds.

He told sheriff's deputies he was walking along Leafwood Drive near Park Way about 10:30 p.m. when two German shepherds pounced on him. The owners of the dogs are not known.

Man Reports Wife Missing

It was a lonely Christmas for Henry James Frison of 855 Francisco Boulevard, San Rafael, and his four children.

His 25-year-old wife, Dorothy, disappeared at 2 a.m. Christmas Day and has not been heard from since.

Frison told police he was drinking with his wife at the Wye Club when he became ill and went home at 1 a.m. Sunday. He awoke at 4 a.m. and discovered she had not returned home. He reported her missing at 11 a.m. yesterday.

Their four children — aged eight months to seven years — were being cared for by a friend today.

Mrs. Frison is described as five-feet, five inches tall, 110 pounds, light brown haired and wearing a long black coat, black shoes, blue-green wool blouse and black knit skirt.

IMPERIAL BODYGUARD DOOMED AT START

Why Ethiopia Revolution Fizzled

What caused a revolt in a land ruled virtually single-handed by one man for more than 30 years? UPI reporter David Dugas flew into Addis Ababa last week to find out. Here is his report, after his return to Cairo, on the unsuccessful insurrection against Emperor Haille Selassie of Ethiopia.

By DAVID DUGAS

CAIRO (UPI)—The recently attempted coup against the government of Ethiopia's Emperor Haile Selassie was one of the most puzzling revolutions of this century.

The crushing of the rebellion by loyal army forces and the emperor's triumphant return to Addis Ababa, diplomatic circles in the capital asked these questions:

What did the revolutionaries expect to gain?

How could they have dreamed of success against overwhelming odds?

As the emperor told a news conference in Addis Ababa last week, the leaders of the revolt—almost all of them members of Haile Selassie's own imperial bodyguard battalion—had pledged nothing more than a speed-up of the emperor's own program for developing their primitive nation.

If the new would-be leaders had intended to change Haile Selassie's generally conservative, pro-Western policy, there was no clear indication of this during their brief tenure of office.

The imperial bodyguard leaders and their civilian conspirators apparently though the coup would win the immediate support of the army and air force. But it was doomed to failure.

Since Haile Selassie's son, Crown Prince Asfa Wassan, 44, was never considered by the rebels as more than a figurehead, observers assumed he was acting under duress when he addressed the country as its revolutionary leader Dec. 14.

The idea of a coup itself was not surprising. Others have been attempted against the emperor in the past. Generally, such attempts have reflected dissatisfaction among Ethiopia's small, educated class, largely represented by British and American-trained army officers, with the feudal state of the country.

While the emperor was in far-off Sao Paulo, Brazil, on a state visit, a handful of palace guard officers and civilians set in motion their plans to topple him. This was the timetable for the revolt and its aftermath:

At 7 a.m. Wednesday, Dec. 14, the United States embassy got wind of the revolt by piecing together a flurry of seemingly unrelated reports heard around the city.

By noon, the entire capital had gotten the word.

The Addis Ababa radio transformed the rumors into reality when it broadcast that "a peaceful change in the government of the country" had taken place.

The broadcast said the new regime under Prince Wassan as "king" would eliminate corruption, promote progress and maintain "friendly relations with all countries."

Later in the day, the prince, surrounded by four guards with submachine guns, walked nervously to the microphone to announce he would, indeed, lead the country. There was no mention of his father.

The morning of Thursday, Dec. 15, passed without incident. But in the afternoon it became apparent that something had gone wrong.

The imperial bodyguard commander, Gen. Mengestu Newaye, claimed the army was behind the coup. But the army remained in its barracks, and garrisons outside the city began to move into the outskirts.

At 3 p.m. Thursday, the calm broke. Shots echoed and events suddenly began moving swiftly.

The 4,000-man First Army Division rushed into the city against the imperial bodyguard. Fighting spread into the streets of the capital.

Americans, Britons and other foreigners began streaming to their embassy compounds for safety.

The emperor bade farewell to his Brazilian hosts in Sao Paulo and calmly boarded a private plane that took him swiftly to Africa.

On Thursday afternoon, air force planes showered leaflets in the capital proclaiming the imminent return of the emperor and denouncing the palace rebels.

It was the turning point. Thousands of peasants began streaming into the city from the surrounding hills, shouting their greetings, although Selassie had not yet returned.

Approximately 10,000 showa tribesmen, the country's unofficial cavalry, rode to the rescue and rallied outside the capital on their chargers, carrying rhinoceros - hide shields and wearing the lion-mane war head-dress of their ancestors.

The horsemen awaited the word to ravage the city in the name of Selassie. The army, almost all of it loyal to the emperor, persuaded the ill-disciplined horsemen to keep out of the city—and they obeyed.

By Friday morning, Dec. 16, as more army units moved in, it was apparent the revolt had been crushed. But Addis Ababa was to see more blood. The bodies of rebels dangled from lamp posts and make-shift gallows.

In the palace, rebel leaders held councils of war. They still held hostages, many of them cabinet ministers.

U.S. military advisers began conveying messages between the two sides. Even U.S. Ambassador Arthur Richards took messages between the army and Ras Imru, the Ethiopian ambassador to Moscow who had been named "premier" by the rebels.

Richards had just delivered a message in the palace late Friday when tank supported infantry stormed the ornate, thick-walled building.

But in the palace throne room were 19 high-ranking hostages who had to be disposed of. The rebel guards opened fire, slaughtering 14 and seriously wounding three. Of the dead, four were cabinet ministers.

Wassan was in the room, but he was not injured.

In the darkness Friday night, the army announced the palace had been captured and patrols went out into the hills to root out die-hard rebel bands.

Selassie advanced across Africa to Asmara, Eritrea, an autonomous Red Sea district of Ethiopia loyal to him. He waited through the night for a triumphal entry into Addis Ababa Saturday morning, Dec. 17.

The government reported 174 rebels were killed and 300 wounded during the brief revolt. The loyal army lost 29 man and 43 wounded. The exact number of military and civilian casualties probably never will be known because Ethiopia never even has been able to count its own population much less revolution victims.

All seemed normal when Selassie returned. He promised amnesty for rebels who surrendered and confessed the errors of their ways. But 1,800 rebels are being held for investigation.

His son was said to have been forgiven.

Outside the capital, many of Ethiopia's ragged peasants still do not know that the Lion of Judah came narrowly close to losing his throne.

BODIES IN ADDIS ABABA—Bodies of two leaders of the abortive Dec. 14 coup against Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia hang from scaffolding in Addis Ababa's Menelik Square Christmas Day. They were killed the night before by the emperor's loyal troops. At left, is the body of Capt. Daye Kassema of the imperial bodyguard. At right, is the body of Girmame Neway, governor of Jigjiga province and reportedly one of the brains of the uprising. (AP Wirephoto via radio)

Ex-Adjutant General Asserts Brown Vowed He Could Stay

By EDWIN S. CAPPS

SACRAMENTO (CNS)—California's ousted adjutant general, commander of the state's armed forces, charged today an unkept promise of Gov. Edmund G. Brown probably has cost him his military career.

Maj. Gen. Earle M. Jones has been state adjutant general since July, 1951, and, until recently, had expected to continue in that capacity for some time. However, on Dec. 13, Brown announced Jones would "retire" on Jan. 1, to be replaced by Col. Roderic L. Hill, 46, will become a major general when he assumes the office.

The story of the unkept word goes back nearly two years when Brown was elected governor. With the change of administration, at the beginning of 1959, every director was considered expendable.

Jones had been offered positions in Washington, either as chief of the National Guard Bureau for the United States, or as chief of the Army Division of the National Guard. Both posts carries major general ratings.

"However, Governor Brown assured me he wanted me to stay on as adjutant general," Jones said. "I would much prefer to be adjutant general so I did not pursue either of the other offers."

Thus it was quite a surprise to Jones when Brown announced his "retirement" from the adjutant general post.

"We have had no differences," Jones said. "In fact, he was quite cordial to me at the governor's council meeting just a week or so ago. Thus my retirement came as very much of a surprise to me."

"I understand the governor was under quite a bit of political pressure to replace me," Jones said. "It happens I am a Republican.

"This office is supposedly a non-political one but I expect the governor had pressure just the same," Jones said.

The retiring adjutant general said he had no immediate plans other than to look for a job. He said he was not under the state retirement system but will be entitled to an Army retirement when he reaches the proper age.

Kennedy's Victory Selected Top News Story Of 10 In 1960

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Sen. John F. Kennedy's victory over Vice President Richard M. Nixon is one of the closest of all U.S. presidential elections has been chosen the top story of 1960 by news editors of Associated Press member newspapers and radio stations.

Foreign affairs dominated the other spots in the editors' top 10 story selections.

Close behind the Kennedy-Nixon tussle, in the editors' estimation, came the U-2 incident, the shooting down of an American reconnaissance plane high over Sverdlovsk in the very heartland of the vast Soviet Union.

The editors' No. 3 story, closely tied to the U-2 incident, was the collapse of the Paris summit conference in a welter of table-thumping, accusations and name-calling on the part of Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

Independence for the former Belgian Congo, its collapse into chaos and subsequent United Nations intervention was the choice for No. 4 story.

As the nation prepared for the Christmas holiday, two airliners coming in for a landing collided in a snowstorm over New York. It was the worst aviation disaster in U.S. history, claiming 136 lives, and the editors selected this as their No. 5 story.

Other choices in the editor's top 10:

6. Fidel Castro's movement into the Communist orbit and America's worsening relations with that island nation amid a barrage of propaganda and confiscation of U.S. property in Cuba.

7. The visit of Khrushchev, the satellite leaders and others to the United Nations.

8. Space and nuclear affairs.

9. The last minute cancellation of Eisenhower's visit to Japan in the wake of leftist riots over the new American-Japanese defense pact.

10. Sit-in demonstrations in the southern states and the New Orleans school integration incidents.

NEWS EDITOR POLL

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

News editors of Associated Press members newspapers and radio and television stations have voted President-elect John F. Kennedy as "Newsmaker of 1960."

His election in the poll was by a much wider margin than in the presidential balloting.

Nikita Khrushchev, the Soviet prime minister who made plenty of headlines of another sort, came in second in the editors' judgment.

Kennedy's victory, in its closeness one of the most exciting in the nation's history, sent to the White House the youngest elected president in history and the first Roman Catholic.

Khrushchev, last year's top newsmaker, had to settle this year for first place in the foreign affairs category.

And, indeed, Khrushchev had a busy year: Promoting a summit conference, getting it, and then breaking it up before it got started in his anger over the American U-2 spy plane incident. He broke into headlines again with his visit to the United Nations General Assembly meeting where he (1) groused bitterly over his confinement to New York City, (2) proposed anew his old disarmament plan, (3) demanded reorganization of the United Nations, and (4) pounded his desk with his shoe in protest during a speech by British Prime Minister Harold MacMillan.

Other winners in the Associated Press survey of its 3,800 newspaper, radio and television members were: Religion, Pope John XXIII; business and industry, George Romney; science, Wernher Von Braun; labor, James Hoffa; literature, Allen Drury; entertainment, the late Clark Gable, and sports, Floyd Patterson.

Pope John won the religion category for the third straight year, but it was a rather narrow victory over evangelist Billy Graham. The pope made headlines with his early December meeting with the Rev. Geoffrey Fisher, archbishop of Canterbury, head of the Angelican Church.

German-born Wernher Von Braun won the balloting in the science category for the fourth straight year.

The labor winner, Jimmy Hoffa, was in and out of the news all year in his running feud with the government monitors supervising the affairs of his Teamster's Union. Near year's end, he was indicted on a charge of mail fraud.

"Advise and Consent," a novel of the United States Senate at work, won the literature division for author Allen Drury. Drury's book was at or near the top of the best seller list from the beginning of the year to the end.

Death came to Clark Gable, and newsmen regarded his death as the end of an era in motion pictures.

Floyd Patterson's knockout of Ingemar Johansson to regain the heavyweight boxing crown also gave him the title of top newsmaker in sports. But it was a close decision over Casey Stengel, who regained the American League pennant and lost his job as manager of the New York Yankees.

Farmers Advised To Keep Books

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (UPI) — If farmers can find enough time from crops and cattle to keep consistent business records, they may save some money, the Texas A&M College Extension Service says.

C. H. Bates, farm management specialist, said records of 1960 operations, for example, can help determine depreciation deductions for tax purposes.

"Farmers tend to omit items of business expense during seasons when little profit is made," Bates said. "It is important to show the entire loss. If a net operating loss occurs, the farmer may be able to obtain a tax refund."

STRICKEN GIRL'S MOST-WANTED GIFT

Seven-year-old Ginger Stewart of Indianapolis, suffering from brain cancer, cuddles her 2-month-old kitten, the gift she wanted most for Christmas. The child isn't expected to live through next year. Three Marooned Near Marin Lakes

Three San Francisco city employees, who went for a Christmas hike on Marin Municipal Water District lands between Phoenix and Alpine Lakes, became lost and were marooned overnight.

It required two relays of sheriff's searchers to rescue them.

A fourth member of the hiking party, Daniel Spira, 18, made his way out and notified sheriff's officers at 7 p.m. Sunday. But the first team of rescuers, reaching the lost hikers about midnight, found the fog so thick they had difficulty getting back to the road.

A second rescue party meantime took the trail, reaching the first crew of deputies, with the lost San Franciscans in tow, about 3 a.m. yesterday near the Meadow Club.

Wolfgang Hadda, 40, a city librarian; his wife, Ilse, 36, a social worker; Mrs. Regine Spira, 42, also a social worker, and Mrs. Spira's son Daniel drove to Phoenix Lake on Christmas and started on a hike from the parking lot about noon.

The fog closed in on the mountainside. The party soon lost its way.

Young Daniel volunteered to go for help. He reached the Meadow Club stables about 7 p.m. and telephoned sheriff's officers.

Deputies Kenneth Irving and Robert Bertrand started up the mountain with Spira. They found the lost hikers about midnight, beyond the end of Fish Gulch Road, above the lakes. They had pulled grass and piled it around them to try to keep out the intense cold.

They started back, but it was "so foggy if they got six or eight feet from each other, they became lost," the deputies related.

Using a portable loudspeaker, they roused the fog-bound hikers and their rescuers as they were nearing the Meadow Club on their descent from the mountain.

After being given soup at the sheriff's office, the San Franciscans were driven to Phoenix Lake, where they picked up their car and drove home—thoroughly chilled, but otherwise unharmed.

Technician Found Dead; Hose Attached To Exhaust

The body of John Oliver Brown, 27-year-old Kentfield electronics technician, was found yesterday in his parked car on a lonely fire road, a hose run from the exhaust to the interior of the closed automobile.

The body was discovered shortly after 3 p.m. by Benjamin P. Webb of 30 Upland Road, Kent Woodlands, as he was hiking with his children along Phoenix Road.

Webb pulled the body from the car, then ran to a home on Crown Road and telephoned the Kentfield Fire Department and the sheriff's officers. Kentfield firemen arrived to attempt resuscitation until Brown was pronounced dead by Dr. Lee Cecil of San Rafael.

Mrs. Brown told Sheriff's Inspector William Bradley her husband had indicated several times "he was going to do something like this."

Brown was employed by Pacific Electrical Institute in San Francisco. He and Mrs. Brown were married about a year ago. She has three children by a former marriage.

The body was taken to Keaton's in San Rafael.

JACK OF ALL TRADES—Biology teacher, designer, photographer, filmstrip producer, are the occupations of 39-year-old Ellsworth Hagen of 59 Forest Terrace, Fairfax. He is seen holding a camera he uses in the production of educational filmstrips for an El Cerrito firm and the plans he drew up for the house (in the background) that he has spent the last two years building. Fairfax Teacher's Microfilm Slides Used In Classrooms Across Nation

By DOROTHY SLATTERY

Small canned rolls of microfilmed slides, used for teaching elementary natural science in classrooms across the nation, have their beginnings in the Fairfax home of a Sir Francis Drake High School biology teacher.

Ellsworth Hagen, a tall, lean, sandy-haired, 39-year-old scientist, has been writing and producing filmstrips for the Long Filmslide Service of El Cerrito for more than 10 years. The firm's president discovered Hagen in a classroom of Tracy High School, where the young teacher was working after his graduation from the University of California in 1947.

Long spotted a chart Hagen had drawn and offered him a job compiling and writing film strips.

Each filmstrip is a 30-frame microfilmed series used in audio-visual education in grammar and high schools.

Hagen pooled his interests in art and photography and sat down to the task of creating a series for Long in natural science. He came up with "Introducing Cells," "Introducing Invertebrates" and "Introducing Vertebrates," which have been used in classrooms in hundreds of schools.

He is now working on a new series for Long, due next month, on plants, the use of the microscope, collection of insects and the dissection of the frog.

The first thing done in the production of a filmstrip is the writing of the script, Hagen said. After compiling his ideas on paper he goes about illustratitng his work. "I get the point over by the picture if possible," he said.

Hagen has at his disposal a film library of several thousand pictures he has collected on field trips over the years. When he needs to fill in a blank, he can sit down at his drawing board and whips it up in a matter of minutes.

The sample slide is pasted on cardboard 11 inches by 14 and photographed in color with a 35 millimeter camera. Later the film is rephotographed with a specially designed camera and placed on a slide, canned and shipped for distribution.

Hagen said his series are used mostly in grammar school in a new stepped-up science program. "The teacher doesn't have to know much about what is being shown," he said.

AN ACTIVE MAN who describes himself as "interested in natural science as a boy," Hagen enrolled in "bugology" at University of California in 1939. His classes were interrupted by World War II, in which he served a stint as a "sergeant of some kind," making a malaria survey around the United States and in Saipan in 1944. After his discharge he took his bachelor of science degree at Cal in 1947.

Two years ago he took a leave of absence from film making to design and build a two-bedroom, contemporary house with a beam ceiling at 59 Forest Terrace, Fairfax.

Asked why he tackled anything as big as a house to build, Hagen quipped, "hate to buy anything I can do myself." He learned to do the job studying a building book and traveling around the Bay Area examining houses under construction.

"Anyway," he added, "had the house in the back of my mind for years and the time had come to do it or shut up."

He's now putting in the last bedroom and starting to build the furniture in a contemporary Danish design. He learned cabinet making by taking "a course in the seventh grade," he laughed.

For recreation, Hagen enjoys sitting down at an easel to work in oils or going out on a photographic assignment for the high school's publicity department.

For the future, Hagen plans on staying in Fairfax, teaching biology and making filmstrips on the side.

Army Devises Instant Bread

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The Army has come up with a preparation which could be described as almost instant, nearbread.

Designed primarily for battlefield kitchens, the mixture can be prepared and baked in 45 minutes. It contains flour, shortening, a bit of sugar and a chemical yeast substitute called Delta-Lactome.

But after the Army got together the bread-appearing concoction it ran into the problem of making it taste like something hot out of mother's oven.

Researchers came up with an additive including cottonseed meal and glucose, which give the Army's mixture a homey flavor.

State Chiropracters

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A recent count by the State Department of Professional and Vocational Standards shows that there are 5,301 licensed chiropractors in California.

TO SEEK TITHES

Catholic Pastor Rejects Carnivals, Bazaars, Raffles

WEST NEW YORK, N.J. (AP)—The pastor of a Roman Catholic church here says there'll be no more carnivals, bazaars or raffles to get funds for parish needs.

Instead, church members will be asked to donate 10 per cent of their gross income to the church and church-approved charities.

Rev. John P. Weigand said yesterday he was taking the step to put an end to the church's "carnival atmosphere."

The system he outlined — which really isn't new at all— goes back to the early days of the church. It is called tithing.

In New York City, a spokesman for the Jesuit weekly magazine "America" said the custom of tithing is virtually unknown to Catholic parishes in the United States.

But he said Father Weigand would be within his rights in specifying to parishioners how to apply the law of the church, which obligates all Catholics to contribute to church support.

Father Weigand is pastor of St. Joseph's Church of the Palisades. The parish contains 7,200 families and is one of the largest in the state.

He said he had been preparing his parishioners for the new system for 10 weeks by a series of pastoral letters and pronouncement. The plan, he said, could not be considered compulsory.

Forty-Niners Land Uclan Jim Johnson In Pro Draft

Tulane Ace Mason Is First Pick

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Halfback Tommy Mason of Tulane today was named the No. one choice at the National Football League's player draft by the league s newest team, the Minnesota Vikings.

Mason ranked 15th in the nation in both rushing and pass receiving this past season despite playing with a losing team.

He tied for sixth in scoring with 13 touchdowns and 78 points.

A 9.8 sprinter, 21 years old, and a regular for three years, Mason carried 120 times for 673 yards and a 5.6 average, and caught 28 passes for 376 yards for five touchdowns in 1960.

The Vikings have talked with the New York Giants about George Shaw, and Los Angeles on the availability of a surplus Ram quarterback.

Washington, using a first choice acquired from Dallas in the Eddie LeBaron trade, selected Norman Snead, Wake Forest quarterback, and then—on its regular first round pick—took Joe Rutgens, Illinois tackle.

Other first round choices:

NFL owners, cognizant of inroads made by the new American Football League and the Canadian League in signing U.S. college players, were taking their time before making a draft choice.

'You Can't Go Any Further,' Says Shaw After Big Victory

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Philadelphia Eagles have their first National Football League title in 11 years and they did it by coming up with the big stopper on defense, clutch passing by Norm Van Brocklin and rookie Ted Dean's 58-yard kickoff return on a newly installed play.

The Eagles, a Cinderella team which rose from last in 1958 to second last year and the Eastern Conference crown this season to defeat Green Bay 17-13 for the world championship.

For Coach Buck Shaw and Van Brocklin, both retiring, it marked the greatest moment in their long and colorful football careers. Sports writers voted Van Brocklin, 34, the outstanding player of the game.

Shaw, 61, who installed the play which led to the winning touchdown in the fourth quarter, said after the game: "You can't go any further than this." It was Shaw's first title in 12 years of coaching professional football.

For Green Bay, a last-place team like the Eagles just two seasons ago, it was a day of heartbreak. The final gun sounded with the Packers on the Eagles' 9-yard line where iron-man Chuck Bednarik had stopped fullback Jim Taylor.

The Packers, the Western Conference champions, twice led in the game watched by a sellout crowd of 67,325 which paid the largest gate in NFL championship history.

Green Bay led 6-0 on field goals of 20 and 23 yards by Paul Hornung but the Eagles struck like lightning in the second quarter, going from their own 43 for a touchdown on just two pass plays.

Van Brocklin, a 12-year veteran who played in four previous championships while with Los Angeles, connected with Tommy McDonald for 22 yards, then hit the slippery slotback again with a 35-yard touchdown strike. Bobby Walston added the extra point to put the Eagles ahead 7-6.

The Eagles increased the lead to 10-6 when Walston booted a 15-yard field goal set up by Van Brocklin passes of 41 yards to Pete Retzlaff and 22 yards to Dean.

The real clincher, however, came after the Packers had taken a 13-10 lead on a seven-yard TD pass from Bart Starr to Max McGee in the fourth quarter. That was Dean's five-yard touchdown run which he set up himself with a kickoff return to the Packers' 39 right after Green Bay's final score.

The kickoff return play was a new one Shaw installed last week.

"Only for that runback by Dean, we probably would have held them," said Packers coach Vince Lombardi.

Lombardi also singled out Van Brocklin for praise.

Redwood Five Gets First Taste Of Sweet Victory

Redwood High School's cagers got their first taste of victory for the season last night—and it was sweeter than any Christmas candy.

After six straight defeats, the Giants, performing on their home court, knocked off the Lincoln High School Mustangs of San Francisco 39-31 on the Redwood court last night.

The Mustangs dominated the first and third quarters of the game, but the Giants more than made up for those bad stanzas with strong second and fourth frames. Lincoln led 11-3 at the close of the first period and it seemed that the cold Redwood team was headed for another beating. In the second quarter, however, the Giants found the range to lead 16-15 at intermission.

Then Redwood ran into another slump in the third quarter and the visitors forged ahead 24-20. Again the Giants pulled out the throttle in the closing period to can 19 big points while their foes were tallying but seven.

Big guns in the Redwood attack were Rich Brear, with 13 points, largely on jump shots, and Mike Hoffman, who held down the post position and collected 11 points as he slipped away from his defensive man for close-in layups.

The game was marred by frequent fouling, the Giants being charged with 20 violations, the Mustangs with 19.

Redwood was the more accurate at the free throw stripe, sinking 17 of 30 as compared with but 13 of 29 for Lincoln. The winners also had an 11 to nine edge in field goals.

Redwood travels to San Francisco Thursday to play Mission High in another non-league affair.

Northern Eleven Buries Southern Squad By 41-14

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Bill Brown of Illinois was a tireless workhorse. Bobby Fischer of Nebraska scintillated with his darting dashes. Henry Oppermann of Penn State had glue on his fingers and Tom Blanda of Army threw bullseyes from his quarterback spot.

Those factors, combined with a rugged defense, proved the difference as the North All-Stars overwhelmed the South, 41-14, in the 13th annual Shrine football game in the Orange Bowl last night.

South led at the intermission 14-6. North power began to assert itself in the second half, however.

Guard Hurt During East Squad Workout

The 5-10, 210-pound offensive guard injured his right knee yesterday while blocking in a two-hour drill. The knee wasn't fractured, an official said, but it was badly bruised.

167 STROKES—AND HE WON!

Ever hear of a golfer winning first place in a tournament with a score of 167 strokes?

Well, the Meadow Club had one Friday when Greg Mason made that score during the club's caddies tournament. Thanks to a generous handicap system, Mason had a net score of 66 with the benefit of 102 handicap strokes. His 66 tied for low net honors with Ralph Pepi who had 90-24—66.

Low gross honors went to D. C. Schrimpsher with a neat 81.

Big Schools Defeat Small College Stars

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—As was expected, passing played a key role in yesterday's third annual All-American Bowl, with the major school team tripping the small school players 25-12.

The FISHIN' FOOL

By RALPH STEVENS,
I-J Fish and Game Writer

STEVENS

The time has come to say a few words anent "coiled line fishing."

From now until about the middle of March such spots as the Big Break, Sherman Island Lake and Frank's Tract will be resting places for lunker bass. This is the period when the coiled line addict has his innings.

Some folks disparage this method, but although admittedly slow fishing, many arden anglers maintain that coiled line fishing is tops.

The latter group are those who have the know-how. The ones who realize there is a lot more technique required than in most other methods.

They know, for example, that any noise made in the boat —the scraping of feet on the bottom, shifting tackle boxes and the like—may well chase away any bass that are around. They realize that hard contact with the sides or bottom of the boat sets up a series of vibrations in the water, so they are very careful to avoid such contacts.

They know, too, that when they near the spot they have chosen to work, they must shut off the motor and let the skiff drift toward the spot until the forward motion of the boat has ceased. Then, they will lower (not throw) the anchor over the bow, allow the boat to drift until 20 feet back from the anchor and lower a second anchor to the stern.

AFTER THE boat has settled, they take their time in rigging up their gear. (The wise guys will have along a box of "chum" which they will toss well away from the boat in a semi-circle).

They will be using a fairly long, (8½ or 9 feet) light rod; probably 200 yards of 15-pound test monofilament line on a plug-casting reel. At the end of the light line they will attach a medium size hook (a 5/0 is about right), but no sinker.

Next, they will cut off the head and tail from a sardine, run a knife along the back and remove the backbone. They will turn this fillet inside out and thread the hook, in short stitches, from one end to the other. At the upper end they will make a few winds of red thread so as to keep the long fillet from bunching up.

THE EXPERT now makes a long cast (the weight of the sardine is sufficient to allow for a long cast), and when the bait sinks to the bottom, he will rest his rod on the side of the boat.

He now reaches down and strips 20-25 feet of line from the reel and coils it on the seat beside him or on the bottom of the boat.

Okay, so our expert is now fishing. He can whistle, sing or discuss world affairs with his buddy if a buddy is present. But you can bet the family jewels that neither his buddy nor he will make any sound that can be transmitted to the water.

He may have to sit there with nothing happening for an hour or longer, but let's assume there are some big bass in the neighborhood.

AS HE watches his coiled line (seldom does he take his eyes off the coils or the tip of his rod) he sees one of the coils give a shudder as though waking from sleep. He glances quickly at the rod tip. Yes, the tip is nodding slightly. He tenses and lowers his glance. That first coil has slowly straightened out. It starts up through first one guide and then another while other coils are awakening and following in pursuit.

No question, now, but what something alive has picked up the bait. His pulse quickens, his fingers itch to pick up the rod and attempt to set the hook in the grizzly mouth of the fish.

BUT HE knows his stuff. He is hep to the ways of such fish. He knows full well that it is almost a certainty that mister bass has not taken that fillet of sardine in his mouth to swallow it. No, the bait is merely being held between the lips of the bass. If he should heave back on his rod now, the fish would simply open his mouth and drop the bait, flip his tail in disgust and head for other parts.

So our expert controls himself. He waits until the last coil has straightened and the rod tip begins to bend. Then, and only then, he picks up the rod and slams home the hook.

IN SUCH shallow water, seldom more than a few feet deep, the bass goes frantic. He rolls on the surface, his head may appear shaking from side to side in an effort to dislodge the hook. He churns the water as he flashes from side to side. He starts away from there in a straight line with his dorsal fin slicing the surface. He feels the slight resistance and turns at right angles, or he may reverse his course and head directly for the boat, or make a wide circle around it. He may and frequently does, keep up the struggle for 30, 40 or more minutes, and every second of every minute is a nerve-wracking, thrill-packed ordeal for the human at the other end of the line.

Such a fish may weigh 40 pounds or only 14 pounds, but seldom will you ever be bothered with really small bass.

I should mention that quite often, a bass will make what seems to be a "hooked-run," taking nearly all the line and then come to a sudden stop. Should you reel in you would likely find the bait hardly bruised and no fish hooked. It isn't wise to retrieve any line when that sudden stoppage occurs, better simply strip off enough line to make up for what has gone.

TOO MANY anglers reel in to "look at my bait" when a long run was had but no fish hooked. Chances are that the fish never was hooked, he was merely carrying it around between his lips—sort of a test run, as it were. By the same token the fish is very likely still around. He may still decide to have dinner. It's happened that way with me many times.

So that is a description of coiled line fishing as it should be done. Try it one of these days and I'll bet you'll agree it's hard to beat for pure sport.

By HAL WOOD

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—The all-encompassing sports boom rolled over the West again in 1960, setting attendance records in some places and lack of interest in others.

But the gold rush prospectors pushed ahead seeking new worlds to conquer in professional sports.

Los Angeles, which gains more new citizens per year than do most states, appeared to be reaching the saturation point. By the close of the year, the City of Angels was host to two professional football clubs, two major college grid teams, two baseball squads and a pro basketball team—just to mention a few activities.

Additionally, the city became the world's fight capital; was the home of the western skin-diving business; and was one of the world's greatest horse racing centers and was fast becoming a mecca for auto racing.

Some of the other cities had it even better. Seattle, for instance, just about sold out the University of Washington Stadium for every college football game this year. And the northern city drew the biggest single crowd of the year for the west —about 250,000 for the hydroplane races during the Sea Fair.

On the other hand, some found the going too rough in professional sports to survive. Sacramento, for more than a half century a member of the Pacific Coast League, threw in the sponge at season's end and the franchise was transferred to Honolulu.

Major League Baseball—The Los Angeles Dodgers finish out of the running for the National League pennant, but set a Dodger attendance record of 2,620,627. Work starts on a new home. San Francisco introduces Candlestick Park to the majors and 1,795,356 turn out during the windy season. Giants fire Bill Rigney as manager in June when club is in second place and it finishes in fifth. Los Angeles awarded new franchise in American League—team to be called "Angels." Arizona becomes major league training camp headquarters with five clubs slated there for spring of 1961.

Minor League Baseball—Pacific Coast League has mediocre financial season. Sacramento franchise moved to Honolulu for 1961. Only one PCL team now left in California—at San Diego. California (Class C) League struggles along with six teams.

Pro Football — American League opens for business and finds it mighty poor in both Los Angeles and San Francisco. Attendance for the two new teams averages around 10,000 per game—at most. National League prosperity continues despite fact both Los Angeles and San Francisco fail in pennant bids. Average about 50,000 per game each.

College Football—Attendance down in both Los Angeles and San Francisco areas. But up in others. Seattle tops list. Utah and Arizona schools show big attendance increases. University of Washington top team in west and wins Rose Bowl bid for second year in row. Utah State tops in Rocky Mountain area. Humboldt State leads all small western teams, gets bowl bid and loses to Lenoir-Rhyne in St. Petersburg, Fla., by one point. Oregon loses in Liberty Bowl to Penn State.

Hydroplane Racing — Growing with the west. Biggest race at Seattle, where 250,000 watch Silver Cup. Other major races attract good crowds. But most important trophy race of all, the Gold Cup at Las Vegas, flops when drivers refuse to go on Lake Mead in choppy waters.

Basketball — San Francisco plays host to NCAA championships and University of California goes to finals in effort to defend crown. But Ohio State wins in walk. Minneapolis Lakers move to Los Angeles, where crowds below expectations.

Sports Car Racing — Riverside attracts 80,000 fans and world's top sports car drivers, including Stirling Moss of England and Jack Brabham of Australia. Leguna Seca races at Monterey, with same drivers, draw 60,000.

Horse Racing — Hollywood Park leads in pari-mutuel handle and attendance again, although there is a slight drop-off. California tracks handle $382,408,000 in 1959, compared with $369,796,798 this year. Attendance for 291 days of racing is 4,746,916.

Golf—The western golf tour is expanded to include both spring and fall dates. Palm Springs stages the first $100,000 golf event in the west with its Desert Classic. Los Angeles, San Diego, Seattle, Portland, Las Vegas, Phoenix and other cities all hold successful shows as the purses go past the quarter-million-dollar mark for the Pacific slope.

Winter Sports—An all-time high reached with the staging of the VIII Olympic Games at Squaw Valley. Impressively handled, they draw acclaim throughout the world. New ski lodges and lifts spring up in nearly every mountain area.

Aussie Netmen Score Clincher Over Italy

SYDNEY, Australia (AP)—Australia shattered Italy's fondest dream today and won the Davis Cup when Neale Fraser and Roy Emerson whipped Nicola Pietrangeli and Orlando Sirola in the challenge round doubles, 10-8, 5-7, 6-2, 6-4.

The victory sent the Aussies into a 3-0 lead and means tomorrow's final two singles matches will be meaningless.

This marked the fifth time in the last six years Australia has won the cup. The Aussies have been involved in every challenge round since 1938 and have run up 10 victories.

In fact, this year was the first time since 1938 that Australia and the United States haven't slugged it out for the top prize in amateur tennis.

The Italians, after being down 2-0, rebounded and defeated the United States in the interzone final two weeks ago.

This time, though, there was no miracle in the cards. They dropped the first two singles matches to Fraser and Rod Laver yesterday.

Fraser and Emerson, playing steady if not spectacular tennis, grabbed the upper hand at the start today and appeared to get stronger and more accurate as the match progressed.

Tribute Paid Gopher Coach

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Murray Warmath of Minnesota took time out from planning Rose Bowl strategy last night to be honored by the Los Angeles Times as college coach of the year.

Brown was named lineman of the year. Armstrong received a special award as did coach Jim Owens of Washington, Warmath's counterpart in the forthcoming Rose Bowl contest.

PG&E Ready To Open Big Gas Pipeline

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Pacific Gas and Electric Co., which claims to supply more electricity than any other firm in the United States, says it handles five times as much energy in natural gas. It will open an important new source from Canada this year.

Norman H. Sutherland, PG&E president, said today the new 1,400-mile natural gas line from Alberta, Canada, to San Francisco will supply 415,000 million cubic feet of gas a day by next winter. This will supplement supplies from California, Texas and New Mexico fields.

Construction of the 36-inch pipe line started in October. At the peak of construction next summer it will employ more than 3,000 persons. About 16,800 carloads of pipe from mills at Napa, Provo, Utah, and Canada will go into the line.

The company plans a major step forward next year in the development of atomic power. It will start construction of a 60,000-kilowatt atomic-electric generating plant near Eureka. Production is scheduled for 1962.

Three additional 40-million-dollar steam-electric generating plants using conventional fuel will be started or are under way. The second of two 330,000-kilowatt units will be completed next year at Pittsburg. Two more are getting under way at Morro Bay.

Santa Venetia Boy, 14, Hurt During Rifle Target Practice

A 14-year-old Santa Venetia boy yesterday suffered a bullet wound in a target practice accident, the second such mishap within a week in Marin County.

Richard Martin Kirby of 105 Garden Avenue was treated and released at San Rafael General Hospital about 8 p.m. for what was described as a "superficial" wound to his left foot.

He told sheriff's deputies he was target shooting in the hills behind his home late yesterday when he slipped and fell, discharging his .22-caliber rifle.

The slug went through his shoe, creasing the second and third toes, hospital attendants said.

A more serious gun accident happened last Thursday when Donald Chester Cox, 17, of 16 Myrtle Avenue, San Anselmo, was shot in the lung.

Cox and two friends were shooting at targets and birds near China Camp when one of the guns accidently discharged, striking Cox. He was in "good" condition in San Rafael General Hospital today, according to hospital attendants.

Marshland Area Hearing On Again

There will be a continued public hearing before the Mill Valley Planning Commission at 8 p.m. today on circulation and land use plans for Mill Valley's marshland area.

The area lies within the boundaries of Camino Alto, Ashford Avenue, Highway 101 and Miller Avenue Extension.

Saddles, Blankets Stolen At Club

Three saddles and two blankets were stolen from the Meadow Club Stables in Fairfax over the Christmas weekend, it was reported yesterday to the Marin County Sheriff's Dept. by William Dennis, stable manager.

The thief entered the stable door which was open to display the Christmas decorations, Dennis said.

Santa Arrives By Boat For Yacht Club Children's Party

Rudolph, the red-nosed reindeer, guided a sailboat bringing jolly St. Nicholas in his sleigh up to the dock of the Sausalito Yacht Club last Sunday morning.

An excited group of very small sailors, children of members, greeted him from the deck of the new clubhouse and watched with impatient delight while he and his helpers struggled up the gangway and into the hall with heavily laden duffle bags filled with gifts for good little crewmen.

In his mysterious way, St. Nick remembered every request and called each child by name to receive a present from under the gaily decorated Christmas tree. Following the gift opening merriment, ice cream and candy canes were enjoyed to the accompanying strains of familiar yuletide carols.

Arrangements for the party, sponsored by the Women's Auxiliary of the Yacht Club, were made by Mrs. William Bentinck and Mrs. Leonard Delmas. Among their assistants were Mr. and Mrs. William New, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Williams, Mrs. Peter Fromhagen, Mrs. James Grisham and Miss Cheryl Doyle. Mr. and Mrs. Neil Munroe helped Santa with transportation from the North Pole.

Holy Family Guild Sponsors Christmas Tea At Convent

Members of the Holy Family Guild held their annual Christmas Tea at the Holy Family Convent in San Anselmo. Mrs. Walter Garrett, president, presided and introduced the officers for the year 1960. The sisters were presented with many baskets of canned goods for their cupboards, plus a money gift, proceeds of the many sponsored functions held in the county throughout the year.

Mrs. William Fahy presented Mrs. Garrett with a corsage and thanked her in behalf of the guild for the wonderful leadership and inspiration she had given in the past years as president. Mrs. Garrett's mother, Mrs. Julia Prendergast of Butte, Mont., here for a visit, was also presented with a corsage.

Mrs. Garrett introduced the new officers: Mrs. Dan C. Crowley, president; Mrs. G. J. Ehler, vice president; Mrs. Herbert Neal, recording secretary; Mrs. Herbert Schroeder, financial secretary; Mrs. Arthur Luchetti, treasurer, and Mrs. Harry Clark, corresponding secretary.

A kaffee klatsch was held recently at St. Rita's Parish in Fairfax under the auspices of the guild. Attending were mothers of the children in the School of Religion. Mrs. Clark and Mrs. Kenneth Larkins told of the splendid work the Sisters of the Holy Family do in teaching religion and the assistance given to them by the guild. Ten new members were taken into the guild.

A Winter Holiday For Grandmothers Of Mill Valley

Some of the venturesome spirit of true pioneers characterizes two Mill Valley grandmothers who recently returned from a tour of the Northwest in what they called "The Grandmothers" Ark."

On Nov. 23 Mrs. Hugh Corthell and Mrs. Paul Goodman headed for the Northwest in the 1953 Ford station wagon belonging to Mrs. Corthell's daughter.

It was when the rain started coming down in torrents that they named the wagon the "Grandmothers' Ark." Pushing onward they drove through a blinding storm going over siskiyous until they got stuck in the snow at 5 o'clock one morning.

Mrs. Corthell explained here they preferred driving at night because there is less traffic then, and bus and truck drivers are more courteous.

Equipped with mattress, blankets, pillows, boxes of food and a "little brown jug" of coffee, they relaxed a while before tackling the job of launching the ark once more.

After applying purex to the rear tires and jockeying the chains onto the wheels, they drove on as daylight came, and the old ark sailed right along until they arrived in Astoria, Ore., in mid-morning.

Entertained royally by friends there, they also had the interesting experiences of meeting some high ranking officers in the German Navy who were there on business, and they visited the tongue naval base on the Columbia River.

Going on to Portland the two grandmothers found they fortunately had "More friends than money," and again they were widely entertained before they drove on to Tacoma and Seattle. In Seattle they were the house guests of Mr. and Mrs. Robin Corthell and saw a number of their married children and their grandchildren.

Next on their itinery were the Shasta Dam and Redding, Calif., where they visited Mrs. Mary Richardson, a past president of the Mill Valley Women's Golf Club.

So charmed was Mrs. Corthell with her safari that she is planning to return to the Northwest for the holidays.

No, the pioneer spirit is not dead–as the two grandmothers proved by what they call their "Travels on four wheels and no brakes."

Americans Getting To Big For Beds

So concludes a Chicago executive whose business is keeping up with how Americans fit beds in hotels, motels, hospitals, nursing homes and other institutions throughout the nation.

Robert Greengoss, president of Morton Textile and Furniture, a firm which has furnished more than 110,000 motel and hotel rooms in the past 15 years, also said that today's young Americans are growing much bigger than their parents.

"Their feet hang over the edge of ordinary beds," he said. "For many of them cold feet is a continual problem when sleeping."

Do's And Dont's On Home Planning

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Planning a new home, or getting ready to remodel your present one? Here are a few "do's and don't" from a leading interior decorator.

Harvey L. Ackerman, vice president of the Southern California chapter of the American Institute of Decorators said that home decor should transcend "fads, furbelows and finicky fashion."

"Homes should not be created for effect but for convenience," Ackerman said. "Rooms should have an easy maintenance standard, eye appeal, facility for everyday living and the important occasional large party."

Most important, he said, is the fact that every member of the family be entitled to personal likes reflected in the manner of furnishing.

But he disagreed with a New York designer who recently decreed that television could be a charming addition to the bathroom.

"I see no need of a TV set—with or without windshield wipers—so that one can continue looking at a favorite program through the shower spray," he said.

All Ages Want Collegiate Look

A girdle manufacturer (Gossard) made the study in an attempt to find out why both college girls and their mothers were buying the same lightweight, easy to don girdles, usually two-way stretches.

The survey showed that homemakers and other women beyond college age account for 80 per cent of the business of college shops and departments. The shops report that most older customers pass up the severe sports clothes for cashmere sweaters and matching skirts and casual go-everywhere dresses.

Seasons Influence Choice Of Spices

NEW YORK (UPI) — Spice uses change from season to season and from region to region.

In the winter, oregano, popular in Italian-style dishes, is most often used, said the R. T. French Co., a spice and herb firm. More sage, excellent with pork and other meats, is used in the fall. And garlic, which gives an especially good flavor to barbecued dishes and salads, is most often used in summer.

Pepper heads the list of 14 most popular spices. Other popular choices: allspice, bay leaves, celery seed, cinnamon, chili powder, cloves, cumin, ginger, nutmeg, oregano, paprika, sweet basil, sage and saffron.

WHEN THE SAN FRANCISCO Yacht Club Auxiliary presented "Christmas Luxuries in Fashions and Furs" recently, the gentlemen club members were issued a special invitation for obvious reasons. Robert A. Davies of Belvedere is sharing the fashion commentating job with Mrs. Don Carlberg, right, of Little Reed Heights. Mrs. Kirby Atterbury, Auxiliary president, center, lends a helping hand. Cocktails were served at the affair held at the clubhouse. (Paul S. Marcucci photo.)

FLUID MOTION for your most festive occasions is created with greater subtlely than ever by Adele Simpson, a master of mobile line. Noted for her quiet elegance and totally feminine effect, she fashioned this black enchantress in Julius Werk's beautiful crepe of Celanese acetate and rayon. Dramatic currents of silk chiffon drift gracefully through a round of social appointments with disarming elegance. The romantic bodice achieves a new slant on the significant covered-up look.

Nursery School Suggestions For At-Home Activities Over Holidays

Mrs. Jerome Jacobson of the Mill Valley Cooperative Nursery School has some suggestions for mothers on how to keep pre-schoolers busy during the holidays.

She finds cookie baking — using the easy commercial cookie mixes—a favorite with the youngsters, if mother has the time for supervision and isn't too fussy about obtaining adult standards or cleanup afterward. And, of course, there is the possibility that more may be eaten than baked.

Mrs. Jacobson recommends the following procedure.

A low table spread with a pastry cloth or with a washable surface is easiest for a small child to work on, and newspapers spread underneath help in cleaning up afterwards. Spread the surface with a mixture of flour and granulated sugar if the child is going to roll out and cut cookies. Show her how to roll the dough thin enough (or pat it), and how to flour the cutter.

Raisings can be used as decorations before baking; other decorations are best applied afterwards by brushing on corn syrup or powdered sugar and water glaze to make them stick.

If you don't feel like baking but want to decorate cookies, icings and decorations are easily applied to large, flat sugar cookies sold in all markets.

Children also love to decorate plain white paper plates to hold the cookies. Food colors diluted with water and applied with cotton balls or Q-tips decorate the plates nicely. We use large jar tops to hold the colors so they won't spill easily.

GOODIE TREES

A child can pick a small branch and put it into a small flower pot with a large hunk of plasticine. The clay can be covered with foil, or if you want to be very fancy, you can use a brand new flower pot with a little paraffin at the bottom, and fill the rest with chocolate shavings or rock candy.

Pieces of pipe cleaners are easy for children to stick into soft candy and marshmallows. Candy should be attached to both ends of the pipe cleaners, and then the cleaners may be bent in the middle and draped on the branchs. Dried fruits work just as well as candies for this treat. You can add a bow or two for additional color and balance.

POMANDER BALLS— FOR FRAGRANCE

A child can stick whole cloves into firm oranges, and you can fill in left-out spaces. Sprinkle the entire ball with orris root, obtainable at a drugstore, and it's also nice to add a little ground cinnamon or nutmeg to the orris root powder. Let it stand a few days and shake off excess powder—then tie a ribbon around the ball and hang it where it will give a pleasant odor and a bright touch.

RHYTHM TOYS

Rhythm instruments—Small cans, filled with dry beans, and sealed with cardboard and tape may be decorated by children with Christmas seals, colored tape, etc., and used for shakers to accompany records or by themselves. Small bells strung together also make good rhythm instruments.

Pipe cleaners, bells and a paper plate can be combined to make a tambourine-like instrument. You will have to punch the holes in the side of the plate for the child, but he will be able to attach the bells to the pipe cleaners and put the pipe cleaners through the holes.

Grooming Tip

NEW YORK (UPI) — Psst, teen-age males:

Water will not keep hair down long and it tends to dry the scalp. For that reason, an oil-based hair tonic is considered best. With this, you can use all the water you want because the oil-based tonic replaces the oil that water removes from hair and scalp.

Musical Parties For The Family Will Begin Friday In Mill Valley

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

In the "Bach to Mozart" series of musical parties for the whole family starting Friday evening, Dec. 30 in Brown's Hall, Mill Valley, may lie the answer to two important problems for music lovers and performers.

The first is how families who cannot afford to go to the opera or symphony or chamber music concerts can hear top quality live music at reasonable prices.

The other is finding a better means of keeping musicians employed than the sometimes proposed government subsidy.

Homestead Valley people, who are sponsoring the series as a community project, believe they have the answer. And over tea cups at the home of Mrs. Philip Heyman, public relations chairman for the series, several of the Bach to Mozartists explained the reasons, with oboist Raymond Duste serving as principal spokesman.

Referring to those present—violist (not violinist) Mary James, and violinist Everett O'Bannon, Duste said, "We and the others in our group of up to 15 musicians are nucleus of a group of former San Francisco Little Symphony members who wanted to continue playing together after it broke up about 1957.

"First we just got together to play music. Then we thought of how the Little Symphony raised funds through a series of musical evenings given in any private home that was large enough to throw a party. They worked, for they pulled it out of the red.

"Next we remembered how the Little Symphony got $21,000 from the Rockefeller Foundation and $13,000 from the Rosenberg Foundation because they were so much interested in encouraging support of music among people themselves rather than through government subsidy.

"We believe that we were one of the first small groups—they seem to be springing up everywhere now—in the country to start this grass roots movement, and our first experiment was something like a jazz session, except that the music we played was classical. The place was a San Francisco cocktail lounge.

"We merely started playing, and the first thing we knew, people without any particular musical background gathered around us and were enjoying classical music."

The group then undertook the now famous concerts in a restaurant at Nepenthe, Big Sur. So successful were they that after two years admission is by invitation only.

In response to the comment that a family audience including children might be quite a different situation, Duste explained, "We find children like the same good music as adults—we don't intend to play down to them. After all, music is an emotional experience and emotions are shared by adults and children alike.

"As for whether children's attention can be held, we know from experience that it can, and we expect to earn it by our manner of presentation. Furthermore, we don't expect pin-drop silence nor is it necessary."

Mrs. Heyman pointed out here that mothers will control this problem largely by not bringing the very young children.

Anyone who doubts that high quality music appeals to youngsters and can hold their attention should have seen the success with which Cleveland's "Symphonia" string quartet entertained 400 fourth, fifth and sixth graders in the Reed Union School District at Bel Aire School last spring.

Duste, who is himself a member of the San Francisco Symphony, opera and ballet orchestras, a soloist for five years at the Bach Festival in Carmel and a teacher of oboe at San Francisco State College and Stanford University, continued with a description of the other musicians making up the "Bach to Mozart" group.

"Mary James," he said "who plays the viola with the San Francisco Symphony and Opera and Berkeley String Quartet, has also appeared as soloist for five years at the Bach Festival and as soloist at the Konzorthaus in Vienna.

"Our cellist, Helen Stross, known to musicians as 'Miss Chamber Music,' is probably the most widely used cellist in Bay Area musical productions. She plays with the Berkeley String Quartet, the Oakland Symphony and the California Quartet for the Composers' Forum.

CHAMBER MUSIC

"Everett O'Bannon, our violinist, is a member of the San Francisco Symphony, the Marin Arts Quartet, the Berkeley String Quartet and the Capella di Musica Chamber Group of San Francisco, and has played under Leopold Stowkowski with the Huston Symphony.

Other members of our group are flutist Raymond Fabrizio, a teacher at Monterey Peninsula College and soloist with the Bach Festival, and his wife Margaret, who plays the piano and harpsichord at the Bach Festival.

ALL-MOZART

"Friday night we shall play an all-Mozart program consisting of a duo for violin and viola; quartet for flute and strings, quartet for oboe and strings and adagio and rondo for glass harmonica."

For the series everything in Brown's Hall will be conducive to a relaxed, informal atmosphere with the audience seated cabaret style at candlelit tables, according to Mrs. Kurt Schlesinger, president of the sponsoring Homestead Valley Improvement Club.

Refreshments will be served during intermission and after the program, when the musicians plan to visit with those attending the party.

General chairman Mrs. Martin Goldschmidt points out that acoustics in the hall, which will be decorated in a Japanese theme, are excellent and that there is plenty of free parking available.

Series subscriptions and tickets for the party starting Friday at 8:30 p.m. are on sale at the Redwood Book Shop, the Greyhound bus depot and the Marin Music Center, all in Mill Valley.

DESIGNER SAYS

Victorian Era Colors Will Return In Wallcoverings

CHICAGO (UPI) — A degigner of wallcoverings, Jack Denst, foresees a return in the next five years to the plush reds and greens of the Victoria era in home decor.

He expects women to take readily to the lavish use of these colors. "Women are becoming increasingly conscious that they look best against a dark, rich background," he said.

Denst makes color predictions by studying the color wheel. "Red and green are immediately adjacent to the colors on the wheel which are presently fashionable, and the public's tastes in color almost always follow the order of color on the wheel," he said.

Denst — with the firm of Denst and Soderlund—said the color wheel also enabled him to predict approximately how long a color trend might last.

A true color period, as opposed to a fad such as the pink and black combination, generally stays in vogue for a period equivalent to the space it occupies on the color wheel," he said. "Red and green — large segments on the wheel — can be expected to remain popular for several years after they come into usage."

Orange, yellow and other colors that zoomed into vogue for only a short time were doomed to a brief life by their small segments on the color wheel, he said.

Denst tries to predict the five-year probabilities in color trends because he needs that long to come up with wallcoverings in the new colors.

"It takes two years to experiment and prepare advance designs and another three years to get into actual production," he said. Denst said he usually met the first demands for new colors from avant garde decorators and homemakers with "custom" colors.

He predicted that red and green decorating schemes would begin showing up in soft shades of rose and possibly khaki green, which would gradually give way to deeper colors. The true blues and purples now in vogue came into usage this way, he said. They appeared first in aqua, turquoise and lavender.

Child Health Meet

The Larkspur-Corte Madera Child Health Conference will be held from 9 a.m. to 11 a.m. at the Redwoods Presbyterian Church, Magnolia and Alexander Avenues, Larkspur. Dr. Mailyn Hicks, attending physician will be assisted by Mrs. Helen Engh, public health nurse, and volunteers from Larkspur and Corte Madera P-TAs. Appointments may be made by phoning Mrs. Richard Glassman, Larkspur.

Prevention

NEW YORK (UPI) — An open container or a thin film of salad or olive oil prevents olives from moiding during refrigerator storage, says the Spanish Green Olive Commission. As liquid evaporates from the open container, it should be replaced with a two to one mixture of water and white vinegar. If you prefer the oil method, pour a thin layer of oil on brine-covered olives.

New resort versions of playdresses are short, above-the-knee and unfitted, sometimes with dropped waistlines. Many follow lean lines.

ALMANAC

Today is Tuesday, Dec. 27, the 362nd day of the year with four more in 1960.

The moon is approaching its full phase.

The morning star is Mars.

The evening stars are Mars, Saturn and Venus.

In this day in history:

In 1822, Louis Pasteur, French biological chemist and bacteriologist, was born.

In 1941, Japanese airplanes bombed Manila in the Philippines.

In 1945, the Big Three—the United States, Great Britain and Russia—announced they would govern Korea as joint trustees for five years and then grant its independence.

A thought for today: Scottish economist Adam Smith said: "The real price of everything, what everything really costs to the man who wants to acquire it, is the toil and trouble of acquiring it."

MARIN BUSINESS And INDUSTRY

(A Thrice-Weekly Column)

By HARRY CRAFT

Some Business Forecasts Are Conspicuous By Contradictions

Promises, resolutions and plans for the new year aren't always kept and what people say now they will do in 1961 may turn out to have stemmed from momentary impulses or wishful thinking.

Still, manufacturers and retailers must speculate on buying trends to keep one jump ahead—or at least abreast of them. Surveys and forecasts made every year at this time usually arouse some interest in businessmen who hope that a measure of accuracy will enable them to chart a course which can be sailed in black ink.

A CANVASS of American consumers implies that many of them will buy more used automobiles in 1961 than they said they would in 1960—and fewer new ones.

Used car dealers would like this to be so, but auto manufacturers don't believe it.

The survey goes on to report that consumers plan to step up their buying of new homes by 13 per cent and ease off on older homes by 18 per cent.

Axiomatically the sale of new homes stimulates other sales—principally home furnishings and appliances but these same respondents said their furnishing buys would not increase, their floor covering buys would drop and only appliances seemed slated for an upsurge. The latter included dishwashers, freezers, ranges, refrigerators, television sets and vacuum cleaners. For some unknown reason washers and dryers are in for a slack time of it.

STILL ANOTHER survey of the industries themselves indicates the greatest optimism by manufacturers of home furnishings. Almost without exception they agreed they will do better in 1961.

Appliance manufacturers don't look for an increase for another six months.

Confronted with these contradictions we decided to seek out information from another source—the retailer. Our quest took us into the San Rafael store of Van-Doyle Home Furnishings, an up-and-coming firm of some three years duration which recently enlarged its quarters to include the former location of Sherwin-Williams Co. next door. The company, said manager Doyle Lockaby, has shown yearly increases in business since it started. It handles home furnishings, floor covering and appliances and seemed to be a good check-out point.

Lockaby opined that furnishings WILL go up in 1961 with more call for quality merchandise and better constructed materials. This tallied with the manufacturers and with an opinion I had previously had from Milt Schwartz of Casa Marin—but not the person-to-person survey.

FLOOR COVERINGS, too should gain or remain steady, said Lockaby. The rage is still on for wall-to-wall carpeting, both in new homes and as replacements. He called one material to our attention which he said is making good headway—something new known as "continuous filament nylon," said to be free of static electricity, easily cleaned, resistant to matting, and apparently a serious contender to the regard for wool carpet which it undersells by two or three dollars a square yard. It is manufactured by most mills—Gulistan, Alexander Smith, Roxbury, Magee and others. He raked it vigorously with a stiff wire brush without shedding, a test that might have embarrassed its short staple predecessor.

Another statement opposed to the consumer survey.

On appliances, Lockaby was not so optimistic. The market has been slow, a fact he blames on the industry's dual distribution methods. Direct competitive sales by manufacturers to builders, multiple dwellings and apartment houses, he said, have made the line a hazardous one for retailers and may snarl it up worse during the months to come.

There you have it — something on merchandising forecasts for 1961.

Remind me to burn up some of them on New Year's Eve—will you?

Now We Must Think About Metropolitan Problems

Residents of metropolitan areas, as we are here in Marin County, must forsake the all-too-general attitude of "let the big cities worry about area-wide planning, we're happy the way we are."

The reason we must forsake it is that if we don't pay attention pretty soon, super government is going to be thrust upon us, we're going to have little or nothing to say about what type of government it's going to be.

In the past few weeks we've had two major hints as to what some people are planning for us.

The consulting firm of Ernst & Ernst, for example, just submitted a report to the Golden Gate Authority Commission. It had one warning in its transmittal letter that we should all heed. It said:

"Unless some workable approach is developed by the Bay Area, however, it is probable that the state may be forced to develop and impose solutions."

Ernst & Ernst had their own recommendations as to what should be done. It included a "properly constituted and representative" authority which would immediately take over all Bay bridges, including the Golden Gate, and would then be able to "negotiate" with seaports and airports for their acquisition and operation—but only after they had shown they could operate the bridges successfully.

The firm warned against creating another planning agency," and said that an authority must have "the necessary organization and financing to discharge (its) responsibilities—the ability to act, not merely to plan." In other words its needs taxing ability.

The Governor's Commission on Metropolitan Area Problems reported last week. The 20-man commission, whose vice chairman was J. Edward Day, President-Elect Kennedy's new postmaster general, made three recommendations for metropolitan government in nine state areas, including the San Francisco Bay Area:

1. That existing and future governmental units be improved, simplified and rationalized.

2. That state legislation permit establishment of "an area-wide governmental framework through which truly area-wide matters can be presented, discussed, decided, and acted upon on an area-wide basis."

The commission declared that such an agency must perform metropolitan planning and could perform nine or more other functions. Of the nine, we would argue about the advisability of about half of them being turned over to a super-agency.

3. That a State Metropoitan Areas Commission be appointed by the governor to act as sort of judge and jury in disputes about boundaries, watch over the metropolitan areas, urge them to make a metropolitan government plan by Jan. 1, 1964, and if the areas haven't done so, do it for them.

In brief, the governor's commission said to metropolitan areas, work out a super-government plan in the next three years—or else.

That's why we have to do some serious thinking about metropolitan area problems.

'I HOPE THE PAIN IS UNBEARABLE'

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Continue Search For Truth

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

I found the letter of Walter A. Gresch (I-J, Dec. 15) contrasting greatly with the truth as I and I am sure many of the "people there to hear both sides" saw it.

He said there were a large number of students there. No more than one-fourth of the people present were students. It seems to me that that was one of the most democratic and fruitful discussions of a controversial subject I have ever heard. There was very little trouble being heard from the floor. The students were not continually causing an uproar as he might imply. Almost everybody who wanted to got a chance to speak.

The "other young man" he talks about must feel complimented, because I sat right next to him, and he was at least 35. He had spoken several times and the chairman asked him to refrain, because the chair wanted to hear from everybody. He was not booed or taunted by the "student group."

Concerning Mr. Gresch's "first young man": The chair did not let him speak at first because he misunderstood his request. The "vociferous" demands were more like "loud," and they came mainly from us "students." His "enlightening information" amounted to little more than fear of a threat of two girls to "line him up against the wall after we get rid of the committee," and a very reactionary view of civil disobedience as "rioting." Many "students" laughed at him because his story was so baseless and reactionary.

Mr. Gresch insists the ACLU projected their arguments continually, while they only suggested that we pay close attention to what the speaker in the film said and what was actually shown, and at the end of the meeting the chairman took no more than a few minutes to give the ACLU's views on the film.

Sure, I agree that every freedom-loving American should see the film. But it is full of such, in Mr. Gresch's words, "obviously prejudiced and distorted arguments," as even William Wheeler, West Coast investigator for the HUAC will admit, that it must be taken "with a grain of salt," just as Mr. Gresch's letter, and mine, must be, and every freedom-loving American must not stop with only a few reports, but must continually search for the "truth."

Points Up Fuzzy Thinking

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

The viewpoint of the American Civil Liberties Union toward the films of the City Hall riots as pointed out by Walter Gresch's letter, is typical of the fuzzy thinking of this organization.

While supporting the rights of hate-filled Communists to destroy our public buildings by inciting riots, according to the I-J this group denies the freedom of men of good will to decorate at their own expense these same buildings with the spirit of Christmas, with a traditional Nativity scene.

Or do civil liberties extend only to those who would destroy America and its culture and not to those who love its traditions.?

Only Paper With Dedication Story

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

Last month the publisher of the Catholic Management Journal (Milwaukee) sent copies to every U. S. diocese with a "public relations" or "information" office. A letter invited comment. As of Dec. 10, replies were 100% favorable. Not heard from was John O'Connor, editor of The Monitor, "the official newspaper of the Archdiocese of San Francisco."

Instead, Mr. O'Connor in your Dec. 14 issue attacked my veracity, accuracy and professional standing as a major contributor to national Catholic magazines.

Mr. O'Connor complains to you of alleged inaccuracies instead of to the magazine publisher. Also, he suggests that your able "church editor" who is studying for the ministry, permitted your columns to be "exploited."

Unlike Mr. O'Connor, I attended the dedication of Our Lady of Loretto school last year. As a resident in Novato since 1945, I rejoiced that after 65 years we finally had a Catholic school. I was dismayed that no V.I.P.'s, reporters, photographers, radio or TV people were there to see what sacrificing laity (I contributed over $600) had achieved.

I phoned the I-J the next morning to make sure that your 30,000 readers would know. You were the ONLY newspaper to publish an account of the ceremonies that week.

Who Painted That 'Left Lane Only?'

Independent-Journal:

That must have been a "smart" traffic engineer who dreamed up the "Left Turn Only" lanes on 3rd Street at Irwin in San Rafael.

This street has two lanes at this point and there are usually cars parked in the curb lane, so if you are driving straight through on Third you have to swing to the right then back into the other lane again. And enough people don't believe in signs so drive straight through in the "Left Lane Only" lane—one of these days somebody is going to get clobbered, if it hasn't happened already.

So Mr. Smart Traffic Man, let's paint out that "Only" on the pavement and get this intersection snarl straightened out.

By BRUCE COLEMAN

Varda Talks Of Color, Flags, Love And Perspectives On Women

The other day we were talking with artist Jean Varda on his ferryboat home, The Vallejo, in Sausalito.

Large, vividly colored paintings leaned against the walls from the floor, colored bottles made fine patterns at a window and pine trees were growing on the after deck.

Varda said he paints a little brighter in California than he did in his native Greece.

"YOU MUST separate nature in color," he said, "otherwise you are an imitator of nature. You have to clothe nature in its garment of pure light." That is the angelic vision, he said.

"The demonic vision is to clothe nature in darkness. That is the satanic vision which, naturally, is abhorrent to me." This vision he allied with women who dress in black, which he also dislikes.

Fascinated, but not completely in tune, we asked Varda about his flag. He has designed a flag for the City of Sausalito, which he would like it to accept. It is a four-square flag, one square has an eye painted on it standing for vision; another a bird for peace; another a sun for Sausalito's sun and a fourth of the sea, for Sausalito's water.

WE SAID, Varda, art and flags are nice, but what about love? He said:

"The equation of love is perspective. I have been on a jury for the Queen of Angel Island. When I was on the jury I suffered from the indignity offered to these girls. The measurements. It's like a market for slaves.

"When you see a beautiful woman and you don't like her, it's a facade. You are not in love with her. She is just so many measurements. But the moment you fall in love, then the perspective opens. Then she becomes Madame de Pompadour, Cleopatra, the Queen of Babylon, Seniranis of the Suspended Gardens. She becomes Antinea, she becomes Lilith.

"The end of the perspective is when, naked at the foot of a tree and with the connivance and complicity of a snake, she offers you an apple.

"From that moment you know she is the instrument of the loss of paradise. But simultaneously, you know that the only way to regain paradise is through her intervention. Love is the loss and the regaining of paradise.

We left the boat, walking down the gangplank in something of a spell. But, after all, we had asked for it.

THE OTHER MORNING Mill Valley City Councilman Michael Wornum left his home without wallet or change and had to give up his watch as collateral to get across the Golden Gate Bridge.

Then, a few days later, he decided to go sailing. All went well until he was nearly upended by a freighter; then he ran into wrong-way winds and an outgoing tide. So instead of Marin, he tied up in San Francisco and hitched a ride home over the bridge with a friend.

LONG BEFORE the bridges, some Mill Valleyans decided they would like to have the American Legion National Convention in their city in 1975. It was a jest. But each year someone marches in the national convention parade wtih a sign "Mill Valley In 1975."

Last week John J. Burkhard, visiting Mill Valley from Wisconsin, said that there is a bottle of champagne in a vault in his home town of Monroe put there 25 years ago to be used for the convention. He awaits the day, he said.

Burkhard is visiting his son, John Maurer in Corte Madera and another son, Robert Burkhard, in San Rafael.

SIX HOUSE FOR THE PRICE OF FIVE

Eskimos in Northern Canada recently showed that illiteracy, like adversity, has its uses.

Receiving a shipment of materials for five pre-fabricated houses, they were stymied for a while because no one could read the instructions. They did the best they could—and built six.

It would be best to wait several winters before deciding whether these unorthodox dwellings will stand the test of time. Nevertheless, we could all learn something from the initiative shown by the hardy builders.

In these days of "organization man," more people than ever look for someone else to give them a blueprint for living. But history is filled with the lives of men who took reasonable chances and went beyond the limits of excessive caution.

God has given you the principles you need for a happy, constructive life. Thank Him by showing personal initiative and good sense in your efforts to serve others.

(Romans 12:11)

HAL BOYLE'S COLUMN

Secretary Of State Department Had Only Three People At First

One of every three paid employes today is a woman . . . The other two are men who spend their spare time explaining to a woman why they don't make more money.

Government prosperity note: When Thomas Jefferson became the first U.S. secretary of state the department consisted of three people . . . Now it has more than 35,000 employes.

Here is singer Polly Bergen's recipe for health: "I keep my figure trim by working hard and keeping busy. That way I don't put on weight. I hate inactivity — it ages a person and makes him dull."

Some 53 countries grow tea, but most of it imported into the United States comes from India, Ceylon and Indonesia. . . . A Ceylonese woman can pick up to 160 pounds of tea in one day.

Quips from our contemporaries: "Success? most of it consists in getting along with the people you can't get ahead of," says the Kiwanis magazine.

Weather plays a real, not an imaginary role, in business. . . . Example: A rainy day cuts department store sales about 8 per cent.

Fair play for fowls: If you call someone "silly as a goose," you are misleading yourself. . . . Ornithologists consider the goose an intelligent and resourceful bird.

WORST PUN of the year: Actor Walter Slezak recalls the striptease dancer who was making her debut and froze with stage fright. . . From the wings came a loud whisper, "Don't just stand there—undo something!"

Greeting cards are relatively new . . . they first appeared in 1875.

Our crowded world: The population of Red China is increasing by more than a million mouths a month.

IT WAS George Santayana who observed, "Wisdom is sharper than death and only the brave can love her."

"Your reign will be official on Jan. 1 . . . Until then, you and your maids of honor will confer with last year's queen as to your duties, during this delicate period of transition . . . !"

A gent very much in his cups stood at the end of a bar chuckling happily. "Brother," inquired an inquisitive stranger, "what makes you so all-fired happy?"

"But a mouse that can sing is worth more than that?" pondered the stranger. "Not this one!" chortled the inebriate. "Wait till the bartender finds out the only song the mouse can sing is 'Melancholy Baby'!"

A Texas plutocrat announced that he was in the market for a car that could travel faster than sound. "My wife," he explained, "generally sits in the back seat." Another Texan decided it was dangerous to install a TV set in his car—so now he's booking acts to appear in it in person.

Bob Kennedy's Appointment Most Controversial; Dillon's Significant

WASHINGTON — With the Cabinet completed, the most debatable choice is that of Robert Kennedy. In many ways, however, the most significant is that of Douglas Dillon.

It has been said by the "New York Times" that Robert Kennedy would "certainly not be named for attorney general if he were not the President's brother."

In my view, the fact that he is the brother cannot have been the decisive reason. Moreover, it is not really important. Robert Kennedy could not have been named just because he is the brother. In the main he was named because he had been the successful manager of the campaign for the nomination and for the election.

HE HAS BEEN named to the Cabinet for the same reason that Farley was placed in Roosevelt's Cabinet, Hannigan in Truman's, Brownell and Summerfield in Eisenhower's. In American politics it has long been the rule, to which I cannot think of an exception, that the President keeps in his official family the chief political organizer of his victory.

This is not done merely as a reward for past services. It is done to keep at the center of things the man who knows best where are the sources of the President's political power. For while the presidency rises far above party politics, it has its roots deep in party politics, and to be a successful President a man must be a successful politician.

FOR THESE REASONS it would have been unprecedented if Robert Kennedy had been excluded from the Cabinet because he is the President's brother.

The really debatable point is that the campaign manager has been placed at the head of the Department of Justice. The more usual practice has been to make the chief politician the postmaster general. It is certain that in the sensitive office of attorney general, which controls law enforcement and the F.B.I., Robert Kennedy will be compelled to convince the country that he is not playing politics. As attorney general he will be judged by higher standards than he would have been as postmaster general.

There is, however, a notable precedent for his appointment. President Eisenhower chose Herbert Brownell, who organized his nomination and election, as his attorney general. It was not an altogether happy precedent, and it tends to emphasize the fact that Robert Kennedy, being both the brother and the campaign manager of the President, will find himself under continual and special scrutiny.

THE SELECTION of Douglas Dillon confirms the view, which some of us expressed during the campaign, that in general economic philosophy there is no serious difference between Kennedy and such modern and progressive Republicans as Gov. Nelson Rockefeller.

Richard Nixon, I think, understood this. The truth is that Kennedy is a conservative of the age he lives in. His views are addressed to the contemporary scene, not to the dead past and not to an imaginary future.

Dillon is also a modern man. His appointment does not signify that the new administration means to be more conservative than it would like to be. It means that the Cabinet reflects the fact that there is a consensus in the country, which may work out as a coalition in Congress, among the modern and progressive members of both parties.

Michael Klapperich wins Carrier salesman of the month award –

Mike, the Carrier of the Month for November has tried for several months to achieve this high award. Finally, this month through an especially good showing during September and his high point averages during the previous months he has won the highest award of the I.-J. carrier organization.

Mike's route covers some of the Sun Valley and West Fifth Street section of San Rafael. He started his route in July of 1951 and through prompt, dependable service and a gift for making friends, he has increased his route from 80 to its present 97.

"The Carrier of the Month" hopes to play football and baseball when he reaches high school and his hobby at the present is collecting pictures of famous sports figures.

In accepting this daily responsibility Mike started laying a firm foundation for his future. The disciplines required by these daily obligations, the need to schedule his time and his daily contact with the public have become the solid structures upon which young Klapperich has established his future. Mike has "grown up" since then. Chronologically Mike has gained seven years. He has grown physically too. But most important of all his progress has been the wisdom, the basic "horse sense" and the respect for work that his background in his home and as a newspaperboy has taught.

Today, Mike has become a guide for our present carrier organization. The I-J has "grown up" too. In 1953 we had 230 carrier salesmen delivering approximately 15,500 newspapers. Today, nearly 30,000 I-J's are delivered promptly every evening by 558 carrier salesmen. Yes, Mike and the I-J have grown. But our needs haven't changed. The Independent-Journal needs more boys like Mike and his counterparts of today. Youth still needs the inspiration to work, to assume a regular obligation and to gain an insight into the responsibilities that will become his in the future.

As expressed by J. Edgar Hoover, director of the F.B.I. and a former newspaperboy, "No one can know what responsibilities the newspaperboy will be called upon to shoulder in the future, but the foundation he builds today will be of inestimable value tomorrow."

AN I-J ROUTE IS THE BEST PART-TIME JOB FOR A MARIN COUNTY SCHOOL BOY

A Trip To The Principal's Office Looms Large To Disobedient Boy

"Do I have to go in?" the boy asked me. He was standing just outside the principal's office. I was a stranger. But he was looking for help. He was worried.

"What did you do?" I asked.

"It was like this," he said. "I'm in the fifth grade. I play Little League baseball in the summer. We were supposed to play indoor ball out on the playgrounds. But I sneaked a baseball in and we used it."

"Don't you like indoor ball?" I asked.

"Naw," he replied. "It's a sissy type game. Real baseball is better. I was up at bat. The pitcher burned a low fast one across the plate. It was my meat."

"I take it you got a hit?" I asked.

"Yeah," he said, "a homer. That ball went like a rocket, straight to a picture window in a house across the street. Spat in the middle it hit. The glass flew all over. I guess the lady's not at home. Nobody came out of the house to yell."

"What did your teacher say?" I asked.

"She doesn't know yet," came the answer. "After I touched home plate I kept right on running in here. I figured I'd better be the first to tell the principal. But now I'm chickening out. That lady is going to be mad. My teacher is going to be mad. But neither one of them will be as mad as the principal. He told me three times never to bring a baseball to school. I disobeyed him."

"What's your name?" I asked.

"Billy," he replied. "Billy Wilson. Do I have to go in to the office?"

"Yes," I said, "and the sooner the better."

"O.K." He sighed and went in.

Good luck, Billy! You may need it.

Pesticides Get Credit In Rise Of Crop Output

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — Pesticide chemicals are as important to farming as tractors, certified seed and purebred animals, according to one agricultural scientist.

Dr. A. M. Boyce, director of the University of California's Citrus Experiment Station, said that pesticide chemicals have contributed about half of the 35 to 50 per cent increase in farm productiveness in recent decades.

Boyce said that the federal government has been protecting the safety of the American food supply for more than 50 years, a fact he said should be used to attack "irresponsible statements and many half-truths" about the use of chemicals on food crops.

Ohio Town's Teachers Getting Paid For Merit

NEW YORK (UPI)—The town of Canton, Conn., appears to be proving that teachers can be paid on merit, like business executives, as well as on seniority.

As a result, Canton's school superintendent, Dr. H. B. Jestin, is getting eager inquiries from school boards all across the land about the four year success of his plan.

For years, the National Education Assn. and other teachers' groups have fought tooth and nail against every proposal to introduce merit pay raise and thus modify the strictly egalitarian seniority system. Two years ago, teachers in Indianapolis threatened to strike at the mere suggestion of a merit pay system. They said it would produce all kinds of jealousies and back-biting in the schools.

"It hasn't done that in Canton at all," Dr. Jestin said. "It simply has produced more education for money. And the proportion of our high school graduates who have gone on to college has risen from 43 to 54 per cent."

About 20 of the 50 teachers in Canton's three schools have qualified each year for the "superior" rating in merit evaluations by their principals. That means they get double the regular seniority salary setups in some years. On the other hand, teachers rated merely satisfactory have to realize their future earnings are in jeopardy.

Dr. Jestin said no teacher has seen fit to appeal an evaluation rating, although the right of appeal is clearly provided.

Principal Paul Krikscium of the Canton Elementary School admits he approached the merit pay evaluation task four years ago with some trembling. But he agrees with Dr. Jestin that it has worked well.

Dr. Jestin said he believes now the merit pay plan can be used by any school system, no matter how large, if sufficient time and effort are taken to adapt it carefully to local conditions.

Dr. Jestin conceived the idea because of his early experience with the merit raise system when he worked for Veeder Root Co. and Bristol Brass Co. He became convinced later, when he had become a school executive, that it would work better for teachers than the rigid seniority step up system.

Some of the evaluation methods Dr. Jestin adopted were inspired by employee evaluation studies made by Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing Co.

"School boards interested in merit pay should realize first that it's not a way of pinching pennies—it's pretty sure to run the payroll up instead of down, because every teacher has to be allowed to try for the merit raises. But it will be economical in the long run because it enables the pupils to learn much faster."

That pay is well above the national average of $5,500 for high school teachers and $5,215 for grade school teachers.

ID Bands Given At Ross Hospital

Clear, plastic identification bands are being strapped to patients' wrists as soon as they enter the hospital, a spokesman announced this week. The bands called Ident-A-Bands contain a card marked with the patient's name, hospital case number and attending physician.

The wrist bands make it possible to identify a patient at a glance even when sleeping or under sedation, the hospital said. The bands are especially valuable in emergency situations.

U.S. Publishes Best-Sellers

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Yearly, anonymous authors turn out low cost best-sellers for a major American publishing house —the U.S. government.

The Government Printing Office answers worldwide demand for about 50 million publications yearly. With some 30,000 different titles, the same names reappear on the best-selling list with the regularity of the dictionary.

New parents apparently are the government's biggest bloc of readers. "Infant Care" holds the record of 12 million copies sold since its original appearance in 1913. Second and third places go to "Prenatal Care" and "Your Child from One to Six."

L.A. Freeways Miles Growing

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Metropolitan Los Angeles will have 900 miles of freeways and 300 miles of expressways by 1980, according to the Southern California Research Council.

This system will be serving an area of 12 million population and eight million motor vehicles.

The council, composed of businessmen and college faculty economists, concluded that "other forms of public transportation must be devised to complement the freeway system."

Would-Be Assassin Of Benito Dies

ROME (UPI)—Retired Lt. Col. Tito Zaniboni, a 77-year-old veteran of World War I who spent 18 years in prison for trying to assassinate Benito Mussolini, died in a military hospital here last night of injuries suffered in a street accident.

Zaniboni set out to murder Mussolini in 1925. He rented a room in a hotel overlooking a balcony from which the Fascist dictator was to make a speech and smuggled in a high-powered rifle.

A supposed friend betrayed him to Mussolini's secret police, and he was sentenced to serve 30 years in prison. He was released after Mussolini had been overthrown during World War II.

Missile Blackout

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP)—An intercontinental missile caused damage at Wright-Patterson AFB without even being launched. The 94-foot Atlas was being towed to the base by truck, police said, when the pod clipped off a utility pole, cutting off electrical service to the city's east side.

TAX FACTS

Regulations On Claiming Dependents

By PETER J. WIKEL, CPA

Do you contribute to the support of a dependent, but cannot claim him because you do not furnish over one-half of his support?

Peter J. Wikel

If your dependent can qualify in all ways except that you do not furnish over one-half of his support then perhaps this will help you.

Where two or more persons contribute more than 50 per cent to the support of a dependent and each could claim the dependent except for the fact he did not contribute more than 50 per cent of the support, then one of the contributors can claim the dependent provided:

1. The taxpayer claiming the dependent contributed over 10 per cent of the support, and

2. Every other one who contributed over 10 per cent to the support agrees not to claim the dependent for 1960.

One of these agreements, form 2120, must be signed by each person (other than yourself) who contributed more than 10 per cent to the support of the dependent. The agreements must be filed with your return claiming the deduction for the dependent.

In other words, suppose that you and your three brothers each contributed 25 per cent of the cost of supporting your mother. By agreeing among yourselves, any one of you can claim the dependency credit for any year that the others are willing to sign an agreement, form 2120, that they will not claim it. You can take turns, or one claim it every year. You cannot pro-rate the credit between you. One must claim the full credit.

Now is the time to consult with the others contributing towards the support of your dependents and agree among yourselves on who is going to claim the deduction this year and who is going to file declarations that they are not claiming the deduction.

Election Speedup

NEW DELHI (AP) — India's third general election, in February, 1962, will be completed in one-fourth the time required for the second election in 1957.

Under new procedures laid down by the chief election commissioner, voting in 1962 will be on three days, each balloting day to be separated by 48 hours. Counting will begin only after the last ballot is cast, but should be completed within eight days of the beginning of the poll.

In 1957 voting was staggered over 16 days, and another 16 days was needed to count the votes.

Election officials say the speed-up has been made possible by experience gained in previous lections.

The Pikes Peak Hill Climb, established in 1916 and running only 12.42 miles in length, is the second oldest event on the United States Auto Club calendar.
